Control Centre Urged for Centennial Grant

Opt for Environment

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

● Hospital fee plan shot down, Page 21

VANCOUVER — The bulk of the federal centennial grant to British Columbia should be spent on establishment of an environmental control centre, says Resources Minister Ray Williston.

"I'm saying this bluntly," Williston told delegates attending the provincial Social Credit convention in the Bayshore Inn. "We need a form of environmental control more than anything else. This is my plea. There is no better way of marching into our second 100 years in confederation than by having the provincial and federal governments combine forces to establish an environmental control centre."

He said the entire $10 million "federal centennial grant wouldn't do all that is required, but a substantial portion would provide the necessary physical structure which he suggested should be located on the university endowment lands at Point Grey adjoining the University of British Columbia campus.

Williston later told reporters the proposed centre would carry out intensive monitoring and testing of all aspects of the environment. He said polluters would pay for soil, water and air tests thus recouping a substantial

Murder Charged

Three Held In Death Of Cabbie

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Two members of Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt, aged 20 and 18, and an unemployed 19-year-old Victoria youth will appear this morning in Victoria Provincial Court to face a charge of non-capital murder in the death last Tuesday of taxi driver Gerald Mulholland.

Victoria police announced the charge Friday afternoon.

In making the announcement, police said the two CFB men apparently were not acquainted with Mulholland, 37, of 917 Bewdley, a father of seven children who was a CFB Esquimalt seaman and occasionally drove in the evenings for Owl Taxi Ltd.

* * *

Insp. William Andrews, head of the police detective division, said the motive "definitely was robbery."

Andrews called the arrests the result of teamwork by police department members that beats anything he has seen during his more than 29 years on the force.

An autopsy Wednesday disclosed Mulholland bled to death from a single wound by a sharp instrument which severed an artery in the back of his neck.

* * *

The two women called police at 7:47 p.m. Tuesday. Before that, Mulholland was last seen at about 7 p.m. at the front entrance of the Churchill Hotel, 1140 Government.

Andrews said the arrests followed "a round-the-clock investigation by members of the detective, patrol and traffic divisions."

He said: "In my 29 and a half years in the department, I don't think I've ever seen an investigation worked on so hard by so many members with so much esprit de corps in the whole force."

Police added they were "supported in their initial investigation by the whole-hearted co-operation of CFB Esquimalt base security, RCMP and other police departments."

Bennett:

No Easy Solution To Ills

Colonist Legislature Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett called on his party Friday not to press the government too hard for what he called "patent medicine solutions" to the economic ills besetting British Columbia.

He again indicated some tax changes might be in store in 1971 when he said at the next session the government will introduce some measures which will be "temporarily unpopular."

Bennett said in his keynote address to the annual Social Credit convention, which winds up tonight at the Bayshore Inn, that the government's responsibility is to ensure the well being of B.C.s people "not only in the short term but in the long term as well."

* * *

The premier's comment on patent medicine solutions apparently referred to a resolution scheduled for later convention debate which calls for abolition of all strikes and lockouts in the province.

"There must be checks and balances," Bennett said, "and countries that have tried to find simple answers to complex problems have found that in the end they have created more problems.

"Instead of legal strikes, they find they must deal with union members without leaders, and that makes for anarchism and chaos."

He said Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, who has been kept busy this year settling several major labor disputes, is the "best minister of labor this province or this country ever had."

* * *

Then in an apparent rebuke to over-zealous party members seeking tougher laws in the labor management field, Bennett added: "Good troops in the trenches sometimes have to learn the lesson that they should keep their heads down a bit, because if they raise it up it will be shot to bits forthwith."

Bennett said this year has been the most difficult for the B.C. economy since Social Credit came to power in 1952. He blamed the federal government for deliberately setting out to curb inflation by creating unemployment and said the Liberals should be

Guerrilla Bank Job Nets $6.5 Million

MONTEVIDEO (AP)—Eight Tupamaro guerrillas — four men and four women — forced their way into Uruguay's biggest bank Friday and escaped with $6 million worth of jewels and $48,000 in cash, police said.

The early-morning robbery took two hours. Police were not aware of it until one of the bank employees managed to free himself.

Dec. 7 Notice Served

Strike Deadline Confronts Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers served a Dec. 7 strike deadline notice Friday on Ford Motor Co. as its General Motors members began voting on a new three-year contract.

A 2,000-member local union at a stamping plant at West Mifflin, Pa., was the first to vote on the new GM contract and reported overwhelming approval. Some other locals scheduled weekend voting.

* * *

UAW Vice-President Ken Bannon called for a resumption of negotiations at Ford for Nov. 23 and said if there was no settlement by Dec. 7 there would be a strike against that car-maker, hit by a seven-week walkout in 1967.

The UAW called its Chrysler Corp. negotiators back for Nov. 23, but did not set a strike deadline.

* * *

Ford and Chrysler were given strike immunity while the UAW went on strike at GM in a continuing eight-week walkout to win a pattern-setting agreement for the industry. The GM pact lifts the average wage above the $5-an-hour level.

It is estimated that at the end of the third year, the pay of car production workers will be between $12,000 and $13,000 a year.

FLQ Hunt Report:

Police Beaten By Cubbyhole

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says that a cubbyhole in a walk-in clothes closet at the apartment where police arrested Bernard Lortie last week may have enabled three Front de Liberation du Quebec kidnappers to elude capture.

The claim was made Friday by a high-ranking police official, the Gazette says.

"All four of those wanted for the kidnapping and killing of labor minister Pierre Laporte were in the apartment," the officer said.

* * *

When police opened the door of the Queen Mary Road apartment they came face-to-face with Lortie, the 19-year-old student who was the key witness at the opening of the coroner's inquest into Laporte's death last Saturday.

Lortie was taken to police headquarters along with a young girl found in the apartment with him, the newspaper says.

Police made a room-by-room check of the apartment, placed a guard at the front door then "went to eat, returning later with members of the identification section," the officer said.

* * *

"When they returned," he said, "they found that someone had gone out through the back door."

The hideaway was located shortly afterwards and the fingerprints of all four suspects were found.

The other prints were those of brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Francis Simard, all named in warrants as persons

Trudeau Away

Coup Topples Syria Leader

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Defence Minister Hafez al-Assad, fervid Arab nationalist who calls for all-out war with Israel, staged a military coup in Syria late Friday, a spokesman for the ousted leadership said.

Assad, 40-year-old air marshal, overthrew the Marxist leadership of the governing Baath party and arrested President Noureddin Atassi and Maj.-Gen. Salah Jadid, the party's assistant secretary-general, the spokesman told a news conference. He said the coup took place a day after an emergency Baath congress adopted a resolution firing Assad.

* * *

Leftist Premier Dr. Youssef Zayyen also was arrested, the spokesman said, and Assad seized control of the state radio and television and two government newspapers.

Assad, a moderate in the socialist Baath party, has blamed Jadid's Marxists for Syria's crushing defeat by Israel in the 1967 war. He also accused Jadid of pursuing Marxist policies at the expense of the economy and security of this nation of six million people.

* * *

Reliable sources said agents of Syria's air force intelligence service rounded up Assad's opponents and set up a guard at key military and government buildings.

They said there was no outward sign of tension in Damascus, capital of Syria. Assad made his move after a month-long government crisis that grew from the power struggle between Assad's military wing of the Baath party and Jadid's leftists.

Kidnap-Hijack Plot Foiled

LeVander

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Police said they broke up Friday an apparent plot by revolutionaries to kidnap Minnesota Gov. Harold Le Vander, hijack an airliner and force the release of Angela Davis and other prisoners held in United States jails.

* * *

Police said details of the apparent plot were found in notes in the pockets of a man they arrested at 3:50 a.m. for attempted bank robbery.

They arrested Ronald L. Reed, 20, on warrants from Omaha, Neb., charging him with attempted robbery, and attempted murder. He also was reported wanted in St. Paul for bank robbery.

The plan included the possible kidnapping of the governor and also Rosalie Butler, St. Paul city commissioner, the police said.

Police armed with shotguns guarded Mrs. Butler's home late Thursday and early Friday preceding the Minneapolis arrest. Armed police also guarded the governor's mansion, next door to the Butler home, on fashionable Summit Avenue in St. Paul.

* * *

Deputy Police Chief Joseph Rusinko said the notes related how the man arrested and unknown accomplices were to have obtained reservations on a United Air Lines plane and, after boarding, would have demanded release of the prisoners. One plan would have been to kidnap the governor or some other public official to ensure boarding the plane.

The plan, police said, was to demand the release from Twin Cities jails of Constance L. Trimble, held in the shooting death of a St. Paul policeman, Gary Hogan, 15, awaiting trial in the bombing of Dayton's department store in St. Paul, and a man wanted in Omaha.

Police said the demand would have been to put the prisoners on board the plane within three hours, with the plane then moving on to free other "political prisoners."

nine off-duty Victoria policemen were called in during the investigation, while many on duty worked long extra hours. The probe saw some policemen go as far away as Port Alberni.

What the legwork turned up was not disclosed. Andrews declined to disclose names of the arrested men before they appear in court and said circumstances of the case must be withheld pending any hearing that might take place.

He declined comment on the murder weapon and would not say how much money might have been involved.

Other sources said Thursday a taxi driver normally has about $20 when he starts work. Mulholland began at 6 p.m. Tuesday and could not have earned much more than $2 or $3 in the next hour or so.

Andrews added he could not say whether the offer Thursday of a $2,300 reward had any effect — that would be up to the Victoria police commission. The money was put up by the commission and the C&C Transportation Co., a rival Victoria taxi firm to Owl.

The CFB spokesmen told the Colonist the two sailors facing the joint charge of non-capital murder had been serving in a ship.

They were transferred to a shore establishment about two weeks ago. The spokesman had no details of their apprehension by police.

wanted for arrest in Laporte's kidnapping.

The police official said the compartment in the closet was large enough to hold all four suspects. He speculated that Lortie was caught off guard when police arrived and did not have time to join the others.

* * *

Earlier this week Marcel St Aubin, head of the Montreal police department, visited the scene of the arrest, the newspaper says, indicating that something was amiss.

Meanwhile, five persons were arraigned in court Friday, including the first woman charged with seditious conspiracy in Quebec's anti-terrorist drive.

The arraignments before Mr. Justice Ignace Deslauriers brought to 46 the number of persons charged under emergency regulations of the War Measures Act, invoked Oct. 16.

Jocelyne Despatie, 25, secretary, Gerard Pelletier, 21, student, and Pierre Bourret, 19, student, were charged with seditious conspiracy, which carries a maximum sentence of 14 years.

They were also charged with being or declaring themselves to be members of the outlawed F.L.Q., Front de Liberation du Quebec, which claims responsibility for the Oct. 5 kidnapping of British envoy James Jasper Cross and the Oct. 10 kidnapping and later death of Laporte.

Jean-Jacques Leroux, 28-year-old journalist, and Daniel Seguin, 18, another student, were charged with advocating the aims of the violently separatist and revolutionary FLQ, and Leroux, faced the additional count of FLQ membership.

* * *

The premier, just back from a 17-day trip to five countries, stressed that at this critical time for Canada he wasn't pessimistic but rather was optimistic.

* * *

"This bad year is behind us," he said. "Tight money is gradually loosening. Purchasing power around the world is increasing. And the Seventies are going to be our decade.

"I pledge to you our government will not fail, and I ask for your continued support."

Bennett later said he returned from his overseas trip more convinced than ever that B.C. must have only pollution-free new primary and secondary industry. He said this means the province will have no steel mill or copper smelter unless the developers can provide proof they won't pollute.

He said several large industrialists, including one in the petro-chemical field, indicated they were interested in locating in the province and are going to send study teams to B.C. in the next few months.

Bennett said he visited Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Spain.

Whites Keep First Place

CFB Whites remained in first place in the Armed Forces Hockey League as both games of this week's doubleheader resulted in ties.

Whites were held to a 2-2 draw by Island Combines while CFB Blues and HMC Ships tied, 1-1.

George Fisher and George Vacheresse scored for Whites, who trailed, 2-1, in the second period while Stew Walker and John Badyk scored for Combines.

portion of the operating costs. The provincial government, he indicated, would provide the necessary staff and additional money to run the centre.

The minister said the centre, if it comes into being, would be unique. He added the cost of establishing it is part of the high price that muts be paid in order to safeguard the province's environment.

"We can't give lip service to environmental controls," Williston said. "We must pay for it and it's not going to be cheap.

Earlier, Premier Bennett, just back from 17 days in Europe, told reporters he had turned down some industrialists who expressed interest in locating in B.C. because they could not guarantee their installations would be pollution free.

'Devil' Winds Whip Up San Bernardino Fire

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) — More than 30,000 acres of valuable watershed in the San Bernardino mountains was seared Friday by a fierce and swift-moving brush fire that was fanned by hot Santa Ana "devil" winds.

Some structures were involved and residents in some communities fled their homes as precautionary measures.

The fires started erupting Thursday evening when winds developed and gusted at times Friday to 80 miles an hour.

Another 6,000 acres in the flatlands about 10 miles east of Riverside on the plains below the mountains were charred by a series of fires that investigators believed were set by arsonists.

Badminton Tourney

The annual Saanich open badminton championships, a popular event since the early 1930's, will be held next week in the Brentwood Community Hall.

The championship draws a large entry from all over the Island and features handicap, veterans' and 'B' singles events as well as a full slate of championship events.

Bee Venom Injections Won't Help Arthritis

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you think there is any merit in injections of venom from bees for arthritis? — Miss C.C.

It's quite an old idea that has had quite extensive trials before being discarded.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it a known fact that turtles you buy in a store carry diseases that are harmful to humans? — Mrs. J.M.

No, it's not. But it's a known fact that turtles MAY harbor a germ of the salmonella type, which can cause digestive and sometimes other disturbances. So what to do about it? Wash hands carefully after handling turtles.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to get scabies, lice, or crabs any way except from sexual contact? I have been told both yes and no. — W.

The answer is yes. These are insects, small parasites. Some, especially crab lice, prefer to inhabit the hairy pubic area, and trouble with them has increased with the increase in sexual promiscuity in recent years. They most definitely can be picked up in other ways — any contact close enough to let the parasites migrate, or from clothing, bedding, or other sources.

Note to Desperate: That mole on your genitals is causing you much more worry than it warrants. Show it to your dad — it's nothing to be embarrassed about. Everybody has moles somewhere. If he thinks it ought to be checked by your doctor, okay. But unless it changes in shape, color, or whatever, there's no apparent reason to fret about it.

After Bengal Bay Tidal Wave

Thousands Feared Dead

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Thousands of Bengal Bay islanders may have perished as a series of huge tidal waves inundated the area early Friday, reports reaching here Friday night said.

Unofficial reports hinted at "thousands" of dead as tidal waves from 12 to 18 feet and carried along by hurricane-force winds swept through the offshore islands.

Communications with the area were cut and official confirmation could not be obtained.

However, huge waves also battered five southern districts along East Pakistan's Bay of Bengal coastline where an assistant district commissioner said more than 1,000 dead were feared.

* * *

The commissioner of Noakhali district said the roaring storm ripped Hatiya island where huge waves left hundreds feared dead. It was a similar picture reported from Hatia, an island in the extreme south. The catastrophe caught the sleepy islands unprepared just after midnight.

Officials in the port of Khulna said 13,000 Hindus who travelled Thursday to Dubla island for a religious festival were believed trapped. They said they had sent a rescue boat to the island but had received no further word.

Communications have been cut off with virtually the entire coast up to 60 miles inland. Authorities have been able to confirm fewer than 100 deaths.

Arctic Gas Fire 'Human Error'

The fire at a Panarctic Corporation drilling site, (45 per cent owned by the Canadian government) happened on King Kristian's Island, near the coast of Greenland.

Federal minister of Indian affairs and northern development, Jean Chretien said the fire was a result of "human error, and Panarctic has fired the person responsible."

Panarctic officials said the company was drilling an angled-shaft toward the blazing well in order to put it out.

Winch Praises Doctors

Winch

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harold Winch, 63-year-old New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Vancouver East, has high praise for the medical skill he says saved his life after a cardiac arrest in a Vancouver hospital.

Winch, admitted to hospital Nov. 1 for his second bout of surgery in three months, was in the operating room two days later for major surgery when his heart stopped beating.

* * *

He said doctors moved quickly with external cardiac massage and had his heart beating again within about 10 minutes.

"One has literally to come back from the dead to appreciate the knowledge, resourcefulness and dedication of those who combined to save your life," he said in a prepared statement.

"It's rather peculiar," he reflected. "You go under anesthetic for malignant cancer, and when you finally come to consciousness you find you haven't had any such operation, you've had a cardiac arrest."

* * *

Winch has been moved from an intensive care unit to a general cardiac ward for recovery from shock, weakness and broken ribs caused by the pressure of the heart massage.

He must still undergo the major surgery for cancer.

The Shah of Iran, Soviet Marshal Vassily Chuikov and leaders from 13 African nations to which de Gaulle granted independence stood under cloudy skies in front of the tomb.

In Paris, where a half-million people marched up the Champs Elysees Thursday night in tribute to de Gaulle, the city council Friday decided to rename the Place de l'Etoile and call it Place Charles de Gaulle.

* * *

The decision to rename the star-shaped area where the Arc de Triomphe stands and 12 broad avenues converge was unanimous.

President Georges Pompidou, who served as the general's prime minister for six years, told a cabinet meeting Friday the national unity evident during the mourning was the result of the general's work during three decades.

Marshal Chuikov, hero of the long and bitter battle for Stalingrad, stood in silence for a minute before the tomb.

* * *

He told Capt. Philippe de Gaulle, son of the former president: "We assure you that the memory of your father will always remain in our hearts."

The 13 leaders from former French colonies in Africa who travelled here together were the largest of the day's delegations to the graveyard, where deep banks of wreaths are piled against the wall opposite the tomb.

Small groups of ordinary Frenchmen and women continued to file past the tomb Friday, while Mrs. de Gaulle remained in seclusion in the country house where the general died Monday.

Colombey, a village of 394 persons in the dull countryside of eastern France, is gradually returning to its normal quiet life.

But visitors to the tomb are expected for many days. Police said more than 100,000 have already filed through the graveyard.

Earhart Saga

Flyer Executed, Japanese Says

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese woman who once lived on Saipan Island has reported she overheard Japanese military policemen telling her father that American flyer Amelia Earhart was executed as an American spy on the Pacific island in 1937.

* * *

The statement was made Thursday by Mrs. Michiko Sugita, 44, whose father also was a policeman. It followed claims by two former U.S. Air Force officers that Miss Earhart did not die when her plane disappeared over the Pacific in 1937 and that she now lives in New Jersey.

Mrs. Sugita said she would like to believe the claim but "I am afraid what I heard on Saipan was probably the truth."

She said military policemen mentioned the execution while drinking at her house in Saipan with her father. Her father, Mrs. Sugita said, warned her not to mention the execution to anyone. Her father, Mikio Suzuki, died in October, 1944.

* * *

The Imperial Household Agency, meanwhile, brushed aside as "utterly ridiculous" a claim made by the two U.S. airmen that Miss Earhart was held captive at the Imperial Palace following her capture.

"There has never been any instance of a foreigner, even a high state guest, ever having resided even briefly in the Imperial Palace," an agency spokesman said.

United Church Asks Aid for Book House

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church of Canada expressed hope Friday that the governments of Ontario and Canada will take steps to ensure continued Canadian ownership of Ryerson Press.

In its first official statement since the sale of the 104-year-old publishing business to McGraw-Hill Co. of Canada Ltd., an United States-owned company, the church said:

"It is also our hope that both federal and provincial governments will now, and in the future, take more creative and vigorous action to strengthen the position of Canadian-owned publishers, just as action has been taken to strengthen the Canadian nature of broadcasting in our country and to undergird other fields of the arts."

In a separate statement, also released Friday, Dr. Frank Brisbin denied reports that the printing division of the United Church is being closed.

Brisbin, secretary of the communications division of the church, said the work force has been cut to 100 from 200 "to reduce the business to an economical level."

Eat! Eat! Eat! 12 lbs. Of Fat Off In 1 Week

TORONTO—At last, a really new breakthrough in the battle of the bulge. Throw away calorie charts, carbohydrate counters, grapefruit juice, white wine, drinkers diets and other reducing fads. If you want to experience the exciting prospect of immediately losing weight effortlessly and with pure pleasure, heed the advice of a former fatty who has tried them all. After years of failing to permanently lose weight he evolved an extremely simple method of selecting foods regardless of how much you eat. Called "The Remarkable Ratio Diet"—A Super Speed Slimming and Rejuvenating System of Food Selection—it can be learned by anyone in a minute or two. In fact, the whole secret is contained to three or four pages contained in a trim pocket size booklet. Fed up to the teeth after wading through volume upon volume of heavy tomes devoted to the mysteries of nutrition and weight control, the author picked the collective brains of former heavyweights and finally hit on a method which has probably been under the noses of the experts all along. Hacking away at all the doubletalk and gobbledegook shrouding the simple facts of why most people find it difficult to lose weight, he reduced the complex columns of vitamins, calories, fats, proteins and carbohydrates down to a single factor number for each food. All you do is make your selection from those everyday foods which have a factor below the magic number of 10 and you lose weight extremely fast. So fast that you can practically see the dial of the scale move! Two to three pounds a day from the start! With this system of food selection (hardly fair to call it a diet) the results are even more remarkable when you consider no attempt is made to limit the quantity of food eaten. Now anyone who wants to get rid of excess fat permanently should forget about previous failures and write off for their copy of "The Remarkable Ratio Diet". It costs $2 from Datonis Press, Dept. 173, 257 Adelaide St. West, Toronto 2b, Ont. (Send remittance with order). All you stand to lose is your blubber. In the unlikely event you don't shed 10 to 12 pounds in the first week, you get your money back. The author says he will personally guarantee the refund if the system doesn't work for you as it did for him. (He dropped a swift 40 pounds).

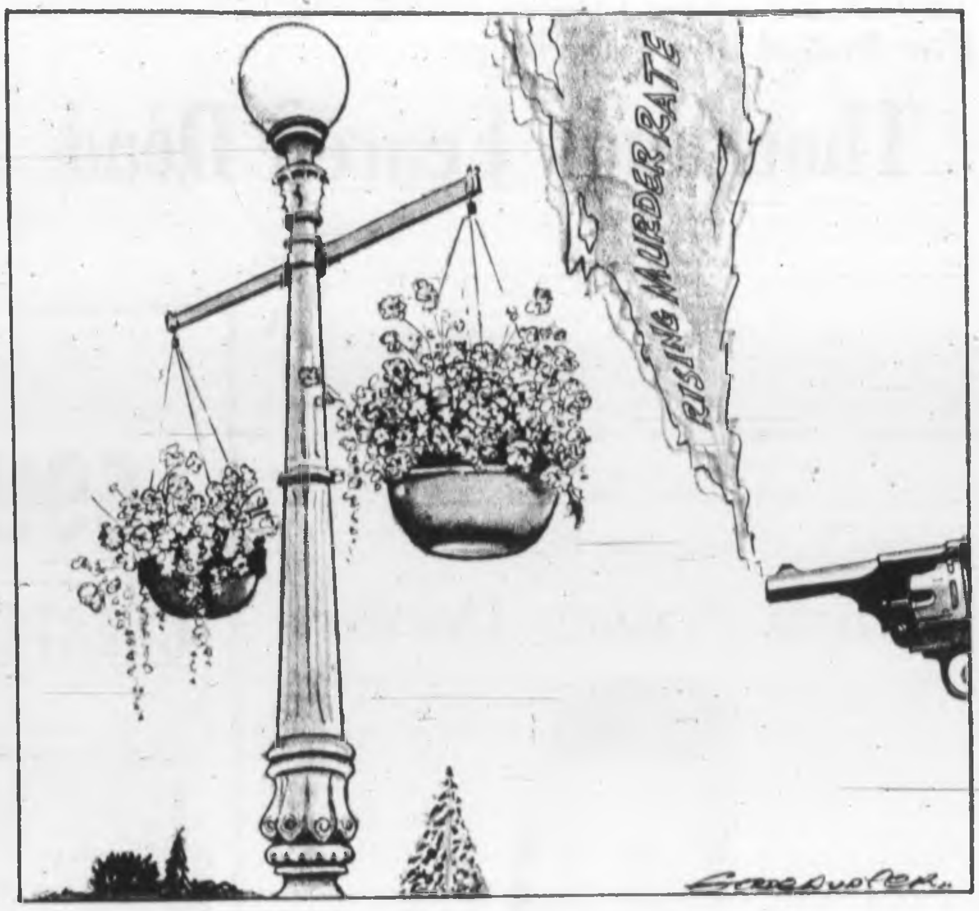
Satisfying Judgment

THE JUDGMENT of the Canadian Transport Commission on the Canadian Pacific Railway's application to discontinue its passenger train service on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo line is triply satisfying. The service will be retained, which is perhaps of vital importance to comparatively few people who have great need of it. It must be improved, which means that it may become more used by Vancouver Islanders and also one of the Island's better known tourist attractions. And the railway has been told in effect that federal subsidies of up to 80 per cent of operating losses, when continuance of unprofitable operations is ordered, are not available if a full effort has not been made to gain business — a ruling that all Canadian taxpayers can cheer.

The ruling of a two-man tribunal headed by the chairman of the commission's railway committee, D. H. Jones, orders the CPR to undertake feasibility studies aimed at increasing revenue to the maximum possible level by improving its operation, rescheduling the service so that it will connect with ferries to the mainland, and promoting the E & N to attract the greatest possible amount of tourist business. In all these respects it finds the railway deficient: "Undeniably the external forces of competition are present, but in that all-important area that is under the control of CP Rail, the effort that is being made to render the E & N service profitable is almost non-existent."

Starting with the asset of a beautiful route affording views that many Islanders, even, have never seen, through the serenity in most of its length of off-the-highway countryside, the railway quite possibly if it faithfully follows the commission's directives can restore the passenger service to a profit. And not to make the sincere attempt can only mean to be content with the loss, for the commission has told the CPR not to reapply for discontinuance or subsidy until it has "waited a reasonable period of time and has complied with the . . . requirements."

To some persons, it will be less than satisfying that the commission's finding that the CPR had not tried to make the service profitable precluded consideration of evidence against allowing the railway to abandon the service. It remains an interesting argument that perpetual good service is balanced against the E & N land grants which continue to produce profits for the Canadian Pacific's diversified interests. The research that has gone into support for this view, however, is not likely wasted; it must be evident to the railway that unless it tries to make the service convenient and attractive, this question too hangs over its head.



Surely not in quaint, little old, down-by-the-sea, follow-the-birds-to Victoria?

A Questionable Decision

THE RECENT DECISION of the World Council of Churches to give financial support to African guerrilla liberation groups in Southern Africa cannot help but disturb many members of the more than 230 Christian churches now represented on the council.

Yet few of the leaders of the Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches have taken a public stand on the issue, seemingly preferring to let matters stand as they are and leave it to the council officers to decide on specific action.

Two or three important voices, however, have been raised in protest, among them that of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey. Last week in Johannesburg, Dr. Ramsey bluntly stated that he had advised against the WCC decision and had not and would not support it.

"I am not," he said, "in favor of churchmen involving themselves in violent solutions."

African Bishop Awala of the Ovambo-Kavango Church in Ovamboland has also condemned the council's action. In a recent statement he said that he was shocked at the council's decision to give financial assistance to terrorists in southern Africa.

"It seems," he said, "as if the WCC does not realize that they are supporting people whose aim is war. War will not bring the solution they are seeking. The church is an institution of the Almighty and it preaches the Gospel of Peace.

"Differences between peoples and their governments must be discussed and solved in peace and not through war and terrorism. We simply cannot condone and support the idea of giving money to terrorists who aim at terror and war."

It is to be hoped that the words of these two churchmen—one the head of a major and international religious institution and the other a leader of a small Christian African community—will be heard and given the consideration and importance they deserve by those of authority in the world council.

Certainly there is little in the constitution of the World Council of Churches or its stated purposes which allows its members to urge and support violent revolution in Southern Africa or anywhere else.

Its constitution states: "The World Council of Churches is a fellowship of churches which accept our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour." Included among its aims are: the promotion of world movements for faith and order and for life and work; the co-ordination of common action among churches; co-operation in study groups; the promotion of a growth of ecumenical consciousness; the summoning of world conferences on specific subjects; and the support of churches in their task of evangelism.

Hardly to be interpreted as a call to arms and violence.

Immigrant Seamen 'Did the Impossible'

REFERENCE your editorial in issue of Nov. 5, regarding illegal immigrants. In a news item in your edition of Sunday, Nov. 1, concerning the 16 Portugese seamen facing deportation at the end of two months' imprisonment, an immigration official is quoted as saying, "Most of those living here would never be qualified for immigrant status. They are usually unskilled and semi-illiterate."

Education, it is claimed, is the key to employment. I have read of immigrants being the subjects of assistance programs to enable them to complete their education in order to get jobs. If literacy is essential to find employment, how then could the Portugese seamen be deemed to be illiterate? They had successfully found employment and were self-supporting. They had done the impossible. For months we have been hearing that there are no jobs. This is the excuse given for the swelling of welfare rolls. We have had the spectacle of young men being forcibly evicted from national defence property in Vancouver to the pitiful cries that they had no work and nowhere to go. Why are they not directed to the work which the Portugese seamen found, despite the fact that they were in a strange country and handicapped by a language problem?

We have heard Mayor Campbell of Vancouver being abused because he stated his belief that young people should work for a living. For the service they have done to the people of this country in proving what so many of us have always averred, that there is plenty of work for young willing men in B.C., the Portugese ought to be honored. The federal manpower service is obviously useless as it cannot do for thousands what illegal immigrants could do for themselves.

BUNKHOUSE BOY.

Within Us

I read in the Colonist on Nov. 8 an article by Arnold Toynbee, perhaps one of the greatest analysts of world affairs today, "Today's Crop of Wild Men." It shows very dramatically the cause and effect of the ever-growing disorders throughout the world today. Toynbee noted that many people are saying, "There is no God."

Who or what is God? There are many opinions as to this, when we think of creation, of our planet and the millions of other planets working in such precision that astronomers are able to tell us many years ahead the exact date of the appearance of comets, moon eclipses and sun-eclipses, etc.

Consider the human mechanism, how automatically it works from birth to death; the rhythm of the heart beat and the breathing of the lungs. Think of the animals, insects, bacteria, and viruses: they all seem to have functional activities somewhat similar to our own. What power governs all this? We don't seem to know, but the biblical name of God is a fitting name.

Toynbee says in his article "If society makes itself my enemy I shall eventually reach the limit of my power of endurance and then I shall wage war against society . . . because they have left me nothing to live for except to demonstrate to them by inflicting counter-injuries on them for their heinous offence against me . . . I shall be prepared to sacrifice my life."

Toynbee compares the upheavals of today somewhat to the Ishmaels in the Bible. I have a personal belief that God is within us and that every good deed and every good impulse within us is our part of God.

Public Library

Would you be kind enough to allow space for a few remarks from the Friends of the Greater Victoria Public Library on the recent changes at that institution?

First may we say, for the benefit of those who may have missed the item in the press, that when these were under discussion this society, as an organization, wrote to the library board offering its services as a liaison group.

Members also wrote individually and spent considerable time on telephone and personal conversation with board members.

We appreciate the many hours of voluntary service given by the board.

One now notes the announcement of the provincial government-sponsored Citizens' Conference on Libraries to be held in May, 1971. At this, one hopes, there may be on the agenda a discussion on the whole subject of library boards, particularly whether they be elected or appointed bodies. It is our conviction that somehow the people who make the most use of library services should have a more effective voice in library board affairs.

During the past 15 years the Friends of the Greater Victoria Public Library have had a close associaton with Mr. John Lort. We have found him at all times courteous and sympathetic. Our unfailing impression over this lengthy period was that here was a man deeply concerned with the good of library service in Victoria and the surrounding municipalities.

In conclusion may we say that those who have been associated with the Friends remain ready to help in any way they can to further the aims and aspirations of the board and staff of the Greater Victoria Public Library.

Poor Becoming Poorer

Foreign Aid and Private Profits

By SUZANNE CRONJE from London

THE latest appeal from United Nations Secretary-General U Thant for the rich nations to increase their level of aid to the developing countries has highlighted anxieties in many quarters about what "aid" actually means.

U Thant's announcement of a plan for the second development decade starting next January, announced in the General Assembly last month, was based on the Pearson Report, which urged that the amount of aid given by the wealthier nations should amount to 1 per cent of their gross national product.

Britain has almost reached this target figure with aid last year amounting to .97 per cent of the GNP, but of this only .39 per cent was official government aid which provides "soft" loans at low interest rates and long terms of payment. The rest was made up of private investment and the new British Conservative government has already indicated that it wishes to increase the role of private capital in development aid. This is why the British delegates at the United Nations entered some reservations to the second development decade proposals, which have adopted the Pearson suggestion that 75 per cent of the aid target should consist of official aid.

The Americans have put even more emphasis on private initiative in helping the developing nations. The Americans are already giving less than their fair share — their total contribution this year amounts to under .3 per cent of their GNP. The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, which consists of the world's richest nations, said recently that the United States was "entirely responsible for the decline in official development assistance flows and the main cause of the shortfall in the case of the 1 per cent target."

* * *

This situation is likely to get worse. In a sweeping revision of the U.S. foreign aid program last September, President Nixon proposed the abolition of the American Agency for International Development and the substitution of a new framework, including a U.S. international development corporation "to deal with the developing nations on a mature and businesslike basis." This means that an even larger share of American development assistance will be initiated and administered by big business, the large corporations which, by the nature of their operations, are more interested in profit than in the social and economic needs of the third world.

Whether the contribution which private enterprise makes to the development process can strictly be regarded as "aid" is a debatable point. Figures have been produced to show that U.S. investments in the Third World have shown average rates of return which are 10 per cent higher than U.S. investments produced in industrialized countries. The vast debt commitment of poor nations stems to a large degree from the need to repay foreign credits at high interest rates.

The servicing of official debts alone cancels out some two-thirds of the official aid which goes to the developing world and these service payments grow by over 20 per cent each year.

It has always been true that political considerations have largely governed the allocation of aid to strategically important countries. The increasing share of private capital will merely stress the tendency of investment to go not where it is most needed but where it promises the most profitable returns. In other words the poorest of the poor countries — those without mineral resources or export crops — will become relatively poorer. Last year those developing nations with per capita incomes of $400 or more were able to increase their imports by 12.4 per cent while the imports of those with per capita incomes of $150 or less declined.

* * *

U Thant's plan for the second development decade has raised the target for the annual growth rate in underdeveloped countries to 6 per cent compared with the 5 per cent of the first decade. But national growth rates are often meaningless statistics. The real improvement in the economy of a poor country is not necessarily measured by the growth of its exports but by the number of new jobs which development creates. Nigeria, for instance, is a rich country in terms of resources but the number of wage-earners as a percentage of the total labor force does not exceed 5 per cent.

One of the problems about aid is that the donors encourage the construction of capital-intensive industries while the developing countries need labor-intensive projects which create employment rather than sophisticated machinery run by a handful of highly-trained experts.

* * *

Tanzania's textile mill, financed and built by the Chinese, is extremely primitive compared with modern factories but it was designed in such a way that running and repair are comparatively simple and can be carried out by local staff. It also employs a much larger labor force than would be required in modern mills. The trouble is that pre-Second World War equipment is not on the shopping list of most Third World countries, principally because the major suppliers of aid sell more sophisticated equipment.

If aid is to be meaningful it must be given in accordance with local needs rather than the investment policies of private capital. If governments were to state their contributions to world development in terms of projects rather than grand totals it might become more evident that basic priorities are often ignored.

I Beg to Differ

Those Cryptic Messages

By FRANK LOWE

NO wonder everybody is so tense and worried these days. "Up tight," I suppose is how the now generation would describe it.

After all, everybody today seems to be on an astrology kick. And after a casual look into this fad, all I can say is that it is enough to make anybody confused and depressed.

It was bad enough, once upon a time, if a guy couldn't get a date with the girl of his choice because that particular girl didn't like his particular face.

* * *

But now a fellow can be rejected because he is an Aries, and the girl he would dearly love to woo has been told that she can find happiness only with a Pisces.

And while a man might have some chance to do something about his appearance, there is absolutely nothing he can do about the immutable signs of the Zodiac.

Once, it was bad enough to be born in a house on the wrong side of the tracks. But now people have to worry about what house, astrologically speaking, he was born in.

And again, while a kid from the wrong side of the tracks often could hope to change his situation, the kid born in the wrong house is doomed to live there for life.

A depressing thought.

But those are only passing comments on this astrology craze. The thing that gets me down is that today few newspapers can go to press without publishing a daily horoscope.

Even worse, I can't for the life of me resist peeking at these horoscope columns.

I do this even though I know that the information therein is designed to ruin my whole day.

* * *

I know that a fellow who had the misfortune to be born just before dawn on April Fool's Day can't expect to be particularly blessed by the stars and planets which allegedly rule our lives.

But every so often doesn't he deserve a little break? A small smidgin of good news?

As far as I am concerned, the answer to those questions is an unequivocal no. April Fool's child is obviously destined to be a born loser.

I mean, one day I read my horoscope with my morning coffee and I am told that I should be prepared for an act of treachery on the part of a trusted friend.

Which means I have to plan to spend my day with people I don't like.

The day I plan to live it up a little and perhaps wander around to make sure they really aren't turning off the city lights at 9 p.m., my horoscope will warn:

* * *

The fact that I had no plans to initiate new projects anyway does not help. I immediately get nervous and wonder if I dare ask the new office boy to get me a coffee.

Will he slip ground glass into it? He very well could, because with the kind of coffee I get I wouldn't know if there was ground glass in it or not.

Even on the days when my favorite astrology column tries to be cheery, there is always a slightly ominous note added.

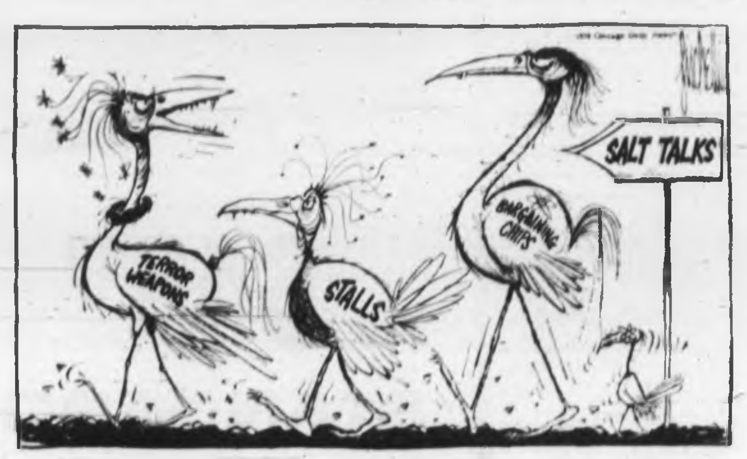
What things shouldn't I overdo? Should I stay away from that blonde over there in the corner? Should I refuse that second martini?

I'll never know because at this point I am so terrorized I forgo both the blonde and the martini and say to my wife, "Let's go home." Which is when I find out what my astrologer really meant, but it is too late.

By then the family fight is in full swing because my wife had a wonderful time and had no intention of going home.

My horoscope for the day this column is to appear is typical. It says: "Avoid getting entangled."

See what I mean?



"From all I've heard, the Dove hasn't got the beauty contest locked up by any means."

Canadian UN Position:

Double 'Yes' on China

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada said Friday it supports admission of Communist China to the UN, but also continues to support, at least for this year, a United States resolution that admission require approval of two-thirds of the countries voting.

* * *

Ambassador Yvon Beaulne gave Canada's position in a speech in the General Assembly. He said Canada will vote yes on two resolutions on China before the members.

One is the annual Albanian resolution calling for the expulsion of Nationalist China and its replacement by the Communist regime.

The other is the American resolution saying that the Albanian proposal is an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority of those voting for passage.

The American resolution, to be voted on first, is certain of passage. The vote on the Albanian resolution is expected to be close, with many observers saying it could receive approval by two or three votes.

Last year the Albanian resolution was defeated by a vote of 48 for, 56 against and 21 abstentions, including Canada. Canada has always supported the American resolution that passed last year by a vote of 71 for, 48 against and four abstentions.

Even if the Albanian resolution should pass by a margin of a few votes this year, it still is expected that less than half of the membership of 127 will approve the seating of the Communists. Many countries are likely to continue to abstain.

* * *

Beaulne implied in his speech that if in future there are firm indications that more than half the 127 members — 64 or more approve the seating of Peking's representatives, Canada will change its stand on the important-question resolution. That would be accomplished by voting against the resolution or abstaining from voting.

Canada's support of the Albanian resolution is not unexpected. It was foreshadowed well before diplomatic relations were established last month with Communist China. Beaulne said achievement of agreement with the Communists was "one of the most important developments in Canadian external relations."

British Help Wanted

BRUSSELS (AP) — Britain is being pressed to join in a $360 million program for common West European defence that would start as a token of joint interest in easing the burden on the United States.

Later, its sponsors say, it could develop joint weapons production and other features of a common West European defence system. They hope France also may be induced to join in its first integrated defence venture under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization since Charles de Gaulle pulled French forces out of alliance commands.

* * *

The sum, to be spread over five years, is small compared with the $3 billion a year the U.S. spends on its forces in Europe. But it is considered important as a sign of European willingness to co-operate. The additional European effort would be increased by the sums that Britain and West Germany already have said they will spend individually on defence measures.

The total could come to $800 million or more.

* * *

A decision by Britain on the joint plan is considered urgent because of next week's discussions in Washington within President Nixon's administration. They will be critical for the future of the 316,000 men the U.S. now maintains in Europe. At least some are expected to leave after next June.

And a Good Time . . .

Laird Warns North

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners shot down an unarmed U.S. Phantom reconnaissance plane over North Vietnam Friday and both crewmen "are presumed dead," U.S. military spokesmen announced.

In Washington, Defence Secretary Melvin Laird warned North Vietnam the United States stood ready to take "appropriate action" for the downing of the plane.

Laird said the downing of the jet was in violation of the understanding that led to the halt of U.S. bombing raids two years ago. He gave no indication of what the U.S. response might be, but after similar incidents in the past, the United States has retaliated with heavy air attacks on anti-aircraft bases that did the shooting.

In South Vietnam, a sudden upsurge of combat saw the Communists kill nine Americans, the highest single-day death toll suffered by American forces in a month.

Refugees Convicted In Absentia

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovaks who stayed abroad after the Soviet invasion in defiance of their government's orders to return home are being convicted in absentia of forsaking the country.

The Communist party newspaper Vecerni Praha reported this week that hundreds of cases are being tried under a law providing six months to five years in prison or confiscation of property for leaving Czechoslovakia illegally or staying abroad longer than authorized.

One reason for the trials is to provide a legal basis for seizure of government apartments assigned to those abroad and for the sale of their property.

More than 70,000 Czechoslovaks, including the cream of the country's intelligentsia and technicians, are estimated to have remained abroad after the Soviet invasion of 1968. Only a handful came back under a presidential amnesty to anyone who returned or legalized his stay abroad by Sept. 1, 1969.

Early Tests Urged

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A special study group of the American Heart Association urged pediatricians Friday to conduct routine blood tests for high levels of fats in all children from families with a history of early heart death.

Children who show high levels, the group said, should be put on special diets in an attempt to prevent heart attacks later in life.

Estimates of the number of United States children who might have high blood-fat levels range from one in 100 to one in 1,000, the doctors said.

Dr. Sheila Mitchell, assistant to the director of the National Heart and Lung Institute, said the group was making the recommendation to "tell pediatricians what they can do right now" to combat heart disease.

Waterfront MP Was Unbeatable

Britain's Battling Bessie Dies at 71 in Hospital

LONDON (CP) — Battling Bessie Braddock, who bestrode Parliament and the roughneck Liverpool waterfront for 25 years as a 210-pound Colossus, died Friday.

Bessie, first woman to be suspended from the Commons, first to represent rambunctious Liverpool Exchange riding and first in the hearts of the docksiders, was 71 when her big heart gave out in a Liverpool hospital.

The First Lady of the Merseyside had been in hospital for about a year and had had to pass up the chance of taking over the chairmanship of the Labor party and also running for sure re-election in the general contest of June 18. She had represented the working-class constituency since 1945.

Muscular Bessie — a reformed Communist — was unbeatable on the docks and indomitable in the Commons.

Mrs. Braddock

where she looked on the rule book as just something else to be trampled on as she fought for such things as soup kitchens in tough times.

She never was beaten, and her majorities grew year after year until she became a Liverpool, and parliamentary, institution.

* * *

She could have had higher places than that of MP for Liverpool Exchange. While heading the Labor government Harold Wilson once offered her a ministry, but she preferred to be able to shout out freely on behalf of the docksiders and their families.

She could have had a peerage by a twitch of the finger but had no use for that either.

Airlines Raise Fares For Atlantic Flights

GENEVA (Reuter) — Most North Atlantic air fares will increase by 4 to 10 per cent under a new fares structure accepted Friday by 36 airlines.

The International Air Transport Association said representatives of the airlines, which fly the North Atlantic and connecting routes, formally agreed on a new one-year fare structure effective April 1.

IATA said the new package is the same as one provisionally agreed on at a fares conference in Honolulu last month.

It raises nearly all North Atlantic fares by between 4 and 10 per cent, but some rise by slightly more, and two types show a small decrease.

First-class normal fare $391 U.S. one way and $782 round trip ($375 and $750 at present). Economy-class normal fare during peak period $276 and $552 ($255 and $510).

Law Enforcement Probed In Justice White Paper

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Friday his department is preparing a white paper to examine virtually every aspect of law enforcement. The white paper will deal with the powers and organization of the province's police forces and "the means of control the government should have."

Liberals 'Caucus'

Backbenchers Turn Tables On Opposition

OTTAWA (UPI) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield leaned on his elbow and stifled a yawn. New Democrat Stanley Knowles stared blankly across the House of Commons and later proclaimed the whole incident "nonsensical."

What began Friday as a two-sided bickering contest during the daily questions period had ended as a one-sided comedy — and the Opposition members weren't the ones laughing.

The trouble started at the very beginning when Stanfield told the government he "could not proceed with any questions today" because of the large number of cabinet ministers who were absent from their benches.

Of the minimum 16 ministers scheduled to be present on Fridays, according to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's roster system, only nine had actually arrived.

Among the glaring absentees were Trudeau himself, Finance Minister Edgar Benson, Treasury Board president C. M. Drury, and Privy Council president Allan MacEachen.

Acting Prime Minister Arthur Laing contended the ministers were all away "for good reasons" and said their parliamentary secretaries were fully prepared to reply to questions.

After 15 minutes of spiteful argument over the shortage of ministers, the NDP proposed a motion to skip the rest of the questions period.

The Liberals easily defeated the motion in a roll call vote, giving Liberal backbenchers the chance they were waiting for.

They plied the ministers who were present with their own questions, ranging from matters only of interest in their own constituencies to Canada's policy on admitting Red China to the United Nations.

Byelection Will Test Youth Vote

WINNIPEG (CP) — Youth gets its fling Monday in a federal byelection in the south-central Manitoba constituency of Lisgar.

For the first time ever, 18-year-olds get a federal vote in byelections held the same day in Manitoba and in two Quebec ridings.

In keeping with the youthful theme, the three major-party candidates in the five-man field are under 30.

Just how much of an impression the young voters will make on the over-all picture is questionable. Eligible voters number 34,871 compared with 32,387 in the 1968 general election, but normal population shifts leave it uncertain just how many will be going to the polls for the first time.

Cancer Drive

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Cancer Society exceeded its 1970 financial objective by 2.4 per cent, delegates from 10 provinces were told Friday at the annual campaign meeting.

Latest Lost Art: Living in Present

REGINA (CP)—A 24-year-old service station attendant Friday told the LeDain commission inquiry into the non-medical use of drugs that it is useless to try to do something about the problem now.

"It's too late, we're all ruined already," James Lindsay told a public hearing being held to obtain reaction to the commission's interim report released last June.

He said the basis reason young people experiment with drugs is to get an experience, something they aren't getting in every-day life.

"We've lost the art of experience, of living in the present," he said, claiming that the adult world was teaching young people to think only about the future.

Schools taught only things that would be useful in the future, with pleasure something that could be attained only later.

"By making the present more real, we wouldn't need drugs."

But it was too late to cure the problem, except prehaps by making a fresh start. He suggested that all new-born infants be shipped off to a deserted island, where they would have to live in the present just to survive and where they could develop a society without being told what to do by their parents.

'You Don't Deserve Leniency'

"You don't deserve leniency," Judge William Ostler said Friday in Victoria Provincial Court to a 29-year-old Victoria man who had asked for it — and the judge then sentenced the man to three years in prison.

The man, Kenneth George Thompson, was committed by Ostler last May 5 to a higher court for trial on a charge of attempted uttering, but appeared Friday to re-elect hearing in Provincial Court and pleaded guilty.

Police said the charge was dated last April 6 and concerned a cheque for $340.90 from Coast Power Machines (1961) Ltd., 2520 Government, but Thompson received no money.

Prosecutor Cory Stolte read a lengthy criminal record for Thompson and said Thompson was sentenced Nov. 4 in Provincial Court to two years for breaking, entering and theft at the same machine firm.

Thompson's request for leniency was based mainly on the fact he has a wife and five children, and also on the fact he is already serving the two years.

The judge found out the break-in occurred Oct. 31, while Thompson was on bail pending the now-cancelled higher court trial, and said: "I would like to consider your children, but it's clear you haven't considered them . . . You don't deserve leniency."

He made the three-year term effective Friday.

Daniel Lawrence Spedding, 17, address not known, was remanded to Nov. 24 for sentence so Ostler can check a pre-sentence report's view on Spedding's story of starvation.

Spedding pleaded guilty to a charge of theft involving less than $50 — six bottles of coke and five pizzas taken Oct. 28 from the Tudor House Hotel in Esquimalt, where he worked as a janitor.

Spedding said he took the items, worth a total of $1.90, because he had not been paid and had no money to buy food. The judge ordered the probation report to find out if Spedding was seeking sympathy or if his story was true.

☐

William Lyle Miskiman, 44, of 5050 Del Monte, was fined $250 after he was found guilty by Ostler following a trial on a charge of theft involving less than $50. The charge concerned three fishing lures worth a total of $7.63, shoplifted Nov. 6 from The Bay.

☐

A suspended sentence and 18-month probationary term were levied against Montgomery Jones, 17, of 1040 Princess, who pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of theft involving more than $50. The charge involved a $90 bicycle stolen Oct. 23 from a 14-year-old boy in the 600 block Fisgard.

☐

Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre ordered a suspended sentence and one-year probationary term for Stephen Carroll, 19, of 1233 Fairfield. Carroll pleaded guilty Oct. 30, when St. Jorre was presiding in criminal court, to a charge of uttering and theft involving less than $50, both offences occurring last Aug. 13. Court was told then the uttering charge concerned a $136 cheque and the other charge involved $20 cash, both belonging to a fellow worker.

☐

In traffic court, Judge E. F. N. Robinson set a $300 fine and partial four-month driving ban as the penalty for John B. Murray, 42, of 2820 Heron, who pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving Oct. 22 in Oak Bay.

Washer-Dryer Sales Decline 25 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Sales of washing machines and dryers in Canada during September declined by almost 25 per cent from the rate a year earlier, an indication of buyer caution and credit restraints.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Friday that 56,522 such appliances were sold in September, compared with 74,001 units in September, 1969.

More Home Tax Ideas

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Something has got to happen to make home acquisition financially feasible, says P. D. P. Holmes, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and well-known realtor.

"Essentially that means bringing net debt payments down to the acceptable ratio of income" says Holmes.

In addition to the suggestion made in this column last Sunday that relief could be obtained by allowing interest charges on mortgages to be free of income tax, Holmes says there are two other ways in which the end could be achived.

The first is to permit municipal taxes paid on a principal residence to be deducted from taxable income, which like mortgage interest is paid with already taxed earnings.

The other is to permit interest received from municipal development bonds to be non-taxable. This would provide the incentive to purchase these bonds at a lower rate of interest and therefore substantially reduce municipal debt burdens to its taxpayers.

All three methods of alleviating the problems of home ownership are practised in various other countries, says Holmes.

* * *

He adds that the rule of thumb is that a person should keep his debt to one quarter of his income (25 per cent). On that basis, for each $10 per month he saves on mortgage and municipal tax, the home buyer may borrow an additional $1,000 and still keep within his borrowing ratio.

"It is often the last $1,000 that is crucial in the ability to borrow and buy," says Holmes.

Meantime the Mortgage Insurance Co. of Canada says the supply of conventional funds for home mortgages was "fair" in some areas, but still short in 10 — of which Victoria was one.

* * *

What is even more important, the funds — when they are available — are still over 10 per cent even for premium risks.

"Mortgages are always the last tyep of loan to enjoy decreased interest rates" he said to a home builders association meeting in Toronto.

The present rates are not out of line with other long term investments, he added, but are only one per cent higher than those obtainable on the new crop of high class corporate long term bonds.

ROLLS ON THE ROCKS

The British government is putting up $105,000,000 to save Rolls Royce from going to the wall over its jet engine contract with Lockheed for that company's new 350-seat Tristar.

The lord of all motor engine manufacturers is said to have made a bad deal with Lockheed with its development costs rising from an estimated $160,000,000 to $330,000,000.

Rolls Royce says the miscalculations were due to unforeseen rises in cost of labor and materials, but it has demoted its chairman, Sir Dennis Pearson, replacing him with Lord Cole, formerly chairman of Unilever, and has placed Sir David Huddie, who set up the Lockheed contract, on the sidelines as a "consultant."

The government loan has been made in the hope that the famous dollar producing firm will get over its problems, even if it will take the first 150 Tristar planes to pull the contract out of the red.

In its recent six-month financial report, Rolls Royce estimated its loss for the period at more than $100,000,000.

When Rolls Royce won its Lockheed jet contract in 1968, its shares were swelling on the London Stock Exchange at 55 shillings; this week the shares sold at eight shillings.

Sharp Sings Praise For Paris

PARIS (CP) — Mitchell Sharp, Canada's external affairs minister, told a news conference Friday that participation by France and Canada in a technical and cultural agency of French-speaking countries is helping improve relations between the two powers.

Sharp, here for the funeral of former president Charles de Gaulle, said there has been no problem in French-Canada relations since France has recognized Canada's position.

Relations reached a low on General de Gaulle's visit to Canada in 1967 when he made his famous "Vive le Quebec libre" remarks in Montreal.

There were later conflicts about direct dealings between Quebec and France, but Sharp said Friday:

"We are not opposed to French-Quebec relations as long as Paris does not consider Quebec as a sovereign state. In fact, one of the aims of the Canadian government is to promote the French language and culture in the country and the help of France in this domain is welcome."

* * *

Sharp arrived here Thursday and is to return home Sunday. He is to return to Europe at the end of November, visiting London to explain the Canadian postion on Britain's application for entry to the European Common Market and to attend the NATO conference in Brussels.

He said Canada does not object to Britain joining the Common Market, but he was concerned lest the European community become a new protectionist area.

* * *

"It is important to us that both Britain and the members of the Common Market should be understanding of the Canadian position," he said.

"We are concerned that the Market should remain outward-looking. We have no desire to be thrown into any trading block, either American or European."

TV Wage Talks

Half Staff 'Sick' At CBC

TORONTO (CP) — About half the television production employees at the CBC's Toronto headquarters phoned in sick Friday in an apparent protest against stalled negotiations on a new labor contract.

A CBC spokesman said about 250 of slightly more than 500 TV production employees were off the job, but that the network expected no "program interruptions at this time."

* * *

A spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees, which represents the CBC's 1,650 television production staff across the country, put the number off the job Friday at about 300.

The CBC has been negotiating nearly a year with CUPE for a contract covering the workers across Canada. The union spokesman said the corporation has yet to make a wage offer. The union wants $32 weekly increases in a two-year contract.

* * *

The workers involved include design and stage and production and script assistants.

Nitinat Pair Sought

LAKE COWICHAN — A search will continue today for two brothers missing and presumed drowned on Nitinat Lake, about 45 miles west of Lake Cowichan.

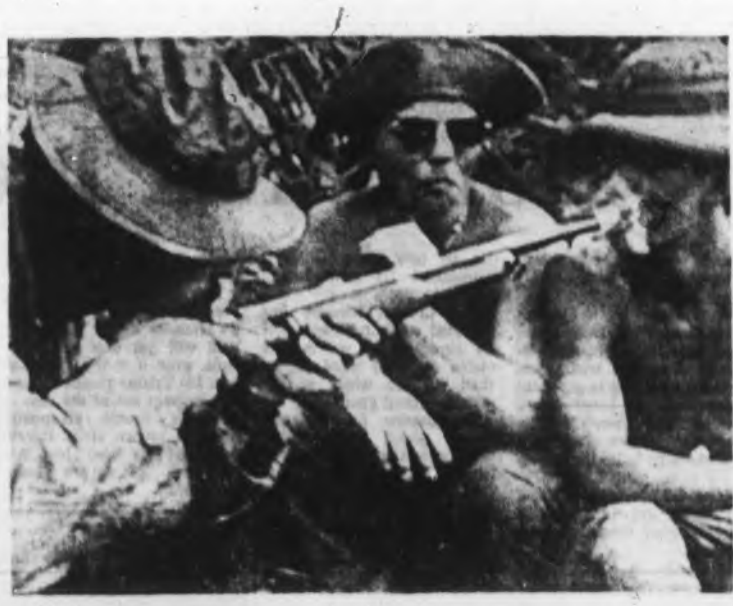
Lake Cowichan RCMP said Reginald Joseph, 21, and Samuel Joseph, 26, both of the Nitinat Indian Reserve, left the reserve by canoe Tuesday to make a 14-mile trip to Whyat at the south end of the lake.

Their 20-foot dugout was found by searchers Wednesday morning, overturned about 300 feet offshore about nine miles from the reserve. The 18-horsepower outboard motor was still attached to the canoe.

By Friday night searchers, covering both the shore and the water, had not turned up any trace of the men.

Nitinat is a tidal lake on the west coast of the Island and extremely deep, RCMP said.

It is believed the brothers were going to visit their father, Robert Joseph, at Whyat.



Roll Out the Barrel

Photo, according to CBS News, shows soldiers in Vietnam smoking marijuana through barrel of rifle, after weed is packed into the chamber and lighted. "You really get stoned," said one GI, "then, like, you know, who cares about the war?" Film was shown on national television news. — (AP)

Legislature in Bedlam After 'Fascist' Remark

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature erupted in bedlam Friday night when a Liberal member accused Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—High Park) of being "an absolute fascist."

The epithet was hurled by Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview) as Singer gave his party's windup speech in the budget debate. Shulman was not in the house.

After describing speeches by Dr. Shulman on organized crime as "masterpieces of innuendo, half-truths, falsehoods and lies," Singer asked James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) how he, "a small-l liberal," can "live in the same party with a fellow who is an absolute Fascist."

Amid shouts from both sides of the house, Renwick rose on a point of order and asked Speaker Fred Cass to order Singer to withdraw the term.

When NDP members protested, Cass, a former attorney-general, added:

* * *

"Twice in 10 years the member for South York (former NDP leader Donald MacDonald) had called me a fascist, which offset Gordon Sinclair who called me a communist."

Singer however, withdrew his remark, saying instead that Shulman "exhibits fascistic tendencies."

Zuider's Yield: Relics of War

OTTAWA (CP) — Locked for more than two decades in the water and mud of the Zuider Zee, the planes and bodies of the Second World War airmen are gradually coming to light.

Draining of the water has resulted in discovery of 300 planes and 60 airmen's bodies so far, said Lt.-Col. Arie Pieter de Jong, chief of information for The Netherlands Air Force.

* * *

Along with these skeletal reminders of war there have been found still-armed bombs from the lethal payloads headed for Germany.

All are part of the 6,500 planes shot down over Holland during the war. They are being dug up partly to make the land fit for use.

* * *

Col de Jong, speaking at the National Museum Tuesday on the eve of Remembrance Day, said that added to this original purpose was the need to locate and defuse as many as possible of the live bombs.

Seventy per cent of the bomb loads from the downed aircraft, though corroded by sea water, are still lethal.

* * *

More than 1,000 of them have been scraped from the mud and disarmed and more than 10,000 fire bombs also have been removed from aircraft wreckage.

A third purpose grew out of the early discoveries 12 years ago. A new impulse was given to programs of identification.

The clues were few because airmen on bombing missions travelled light. Identifying items such as identity discs, papers of other personal items were usually destroyed or lost.

But some bits of evidence remained. A broken finger bone, mark of a pre-war injury. Dental plates or filled teeth. Identification experts are called in.

The expert who so far has identified 60 bodies "learned his trade" in 1946 when he had to identify Dutch victims of Dachau, Buchenwald and Auschwitz concentration camps.

Sometimes the task reveals dimensions of personal tragedy. One Belgian airman was identified through a newspaper clipping from his hometown paper and a tiny metal cupid.

His widow identified him positively through the cupid. It was a decoration from her wedding cake, 14 days before he was shot down, and given to him as a good luck charm.

Eskimos Never Had It So Good

Only Whites Worry

WINNIPEG (CP) — Only white people, not Eskimos, worry about the advance of white civilization into Northern Canada and its effect on Eskimo culture and language, an Eskimo author said Friday.

Markoosie, author of the recently published Harpoon of the Hunter, the first English novel written by an Eskimo, told a news conference it was only a few years ago that Eskimo people faced starvation every day.

The 28-year-old native of Resolute Bay, N.W.T., also the first eastern Arctic Eskimo to qualify as a pilot, said he remembers facing starvation as a boy and going without food for days.

"Mostly our people want to forget about the past and its hardness."

He said the trappings of Eskimo culture and language are disappearing, such as the dog teams, but he said this was the price that had to be paid for the new comforts the white man has brought the Eskimo.

However, he said there was some concern about what is happening to the environment of the north.

Talking about hunting conditions at his home in Resolute Bay, he said: "We have to go 70 miles out to get the caribou and last year I think there were only six foxes caught for the whole season."

Markoosie, who will visit New York next week to promote sales of his novel, said the plot for it came from one of the many legends told to him by his grandfather before he died in 1950.

He says he would sooner fly than write, and wrote the novel originally in the eastern Arctic Eskimo dialect two years ago to amuse himself on non-flying days.

A school teacher in Resolute Bay sent the novel to publishers and Markoosie was asked by the McGill-Queen's University Press, which published the book this year, to translate it into English.

Hornets Edge Tyees, 2-1 In Colonist Cup Final

By KEVAN HULL

"We're number one!" was again the cry of Mount View Hornets after Friday night's Colonist Cup final played before 1599 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

Hornets, the Inter-High School Soccer League champions, won the playoff trophy for the fourth straight year by defeating Victoria Tyees, 2-1, in a dramatic and outstanding match.

Norm Baker scored both the goals for the winners, who had to come from behind for the second straight year to defeat Tyees. They won, 5-4, in overtime last year.

GOALKEEPER HURT

Tyees, who lost their regular goalkeeper, Rick Turner, with a leg injury after only eight minutes, took the lead in the 35th minute. Bobby Duncan broke away from a defender to send a low shot to the right corner past Loris Corletto, the league's leading goalkeeper.

Hornet supporters did not have to wait long for the equalizer, Baker taking a pass in the clear from Marvin Diercks and giving replacement goalkeeper Hans de Goede no chance with a low drive to the right corner at 38 minutes.

WINNING GOAL

Baker finished off a fine play from captain Bob Bolitho and Diercks with another low shot to the right corner to complete scoring at 71 minutes.

Hornets then had to survive a hit crossbar and needed two fine plays by Corletto before Bolitho was able to receive the Colonist Cup.

Victoria pressed through the final 12 minutes as Hornets dropped back on defence. Corletto cut off the angle when Duncan broke in alone in the 79th minute, survived a shaky moment when scoring ace Stuart Taylor rattled the ball off the crossbar and got the ball just before it crossed the line after a deflected shot hit the goalpost.

SHOWER TREATMENT

"That was the best game he played for us all year," happy coach Joe Bekkers said of Corletto after tasting the customary shower treatment of the winning coach.

"They took the play away from us in midfield in the first half. I thought we would be two goals up and you had better believe I was a bit worried."

Bekkers' crew now meets Cowichan for the Vancouver Island title next Friday at 8 p.m. at Royal Athletic Park and then plays host to the B.C. High School Soccer Tournament on Nov. 26, 27 and 28.

SPECIAL PRAISE

Special praise must go to de Goede, who stepped in from his centre-half spot after Turner was hurt.

Somewhat shaky on a low shot by Rick Matte a minute after taking over, de Goede came on strongly, making outstanding saves on Bolitho and Joe Poulton midway through the first half.

Then in the second half he kept Tyees within striking range with several fine stops, robbing centre-forward Mike Wilson in particular with a diving stop on the goal line six minutes after Hornets had gone in front.

It was the third meeting between the clubs this season. Tyees handed Hornets their only loss, 3-2, in the first match and Mount View came back with a 2-1 victory.

Hornets are now unbeaten in their last 12 games and have won four straight after a 3-3 draw with Reynolds, the only other time they lost a point.

MOUNT VIEW — Loris Corletto, Leigh Hogan, Brad Clarke, Doug Marshall, Norm Baker, Doug Hasson, Marvin Diercks, Bob Bolitho, Mike Wilson, Joe Poulton, Rick Matte. Reserves — Randy Johnson, Allan Moir, Barry Hilton, Danny Bell, Sam Calantonio.

Business Interests Change Ferguson Ends Retirement

MONTREAL (CP) — Left-winger John Ferguson decided late Friday to return to Montreal Canadiens and said after a meeting with general manager Sam Pollock that he expects to be able to return to the lineup for a National Hockey League game here next Tuesday against California Golden Seals.

* * *

Ferguson, 32, retired Oct. 7, three days before the start of the NHL schedule.

His decision to return came after meetings with Pollock that started Thursday and wound up late Friday.

After Friday's meeting, which lasted three hours, Pollock and Ferguson said in a joint statement the left winger will fulfil the remainder of his two-year contract with the club — a contract he signed last year.

* * *

Ferguson also signed a new pact for the 1971-72 season.

When he announced his retirement, Ferguson said he did so with great reluctance, but he felt that his business interests were too strenuous for him to devote his full time to hockey.

However, he said the situation has changed because of the sale and merger of the company in which he has an interest.

Bob Baun Back with Leafs In Trade for Brit Selby

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Friday they have traded left winger Brit Selby to St. Louis Blues for former Maple Leaf Bob Baun.

Baun was suspended Thursday by St. Louis.

General-manager Scotty Bowman said then:

"You can say that we just have not been able to solve his personal problems and we have suspended him through the league office."

STARTED WITH LEAFS

Baun began his NHL career with Toronto in 1957 and spent 11 seasons with the Leafs before being drafted by Oakland Seals in 1967.

After one season with the Seals he was traded to Detroit Red Wings.

The Maple Leafs said Baun will play against Boston Bruins tonight in Toronto. Selby is expected to play for St. Louis against Montreal tonight.

UNUSUAL TRADE

Baun wound up with St. Louis last week in an unusual trade after the Red Wings placed him on waivers.

But before Baun could report to the Sabres, Imlach, who coached the Leafs 14 years before being fired two years ago, traded him to St. Louis for veteran defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot and winger Larry Keenan.

WANTED TIME

Baun expressed disappointment in the trade and advised Imlach and Bowman he would not report to St. Louis until he had time to consider his hockey future.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said Friday in a telephone interview from Montreal he had spoken with Baun earlier when the 34-year-old defenceman phoned him in an effort to resolve his problems.

"All he said was that he really didn't know what to do," said Campbell. "There was no way he felt he could protect his family and his business interests without getting time off."

WANTS TO PLAY

Baun, in Detroit when he heard of the trade, said he hopes to play immediately.

"The only thing is, my skates are in St. Louis. They've already been painted blue and gold (the St. Louis colors). I guess Jim Gregory (Leafs' general manager) is making arrangements to fly them in.

"This trade is the first bright thing that's happened to me in a long time," added Baun, who owns a cattle farm in the Caledon Hill area just north of Toronto.

"The family is pretty excited, getting back to old stomping grounds. It's just that the turmoil of the past two weeks has been pretty rugged."

Selby, who came up as a Leaf in 1965-66 and won rookie-of-the-year honors, now finds himself rejected by Toronto for the second time.

He was let go to Philadelphia Flyers in the same expansion draft that took Baun from Toronto to Detroit in 1967. The 25-year-old winger returned to Toronto two years ago in a four-player trade but has not been used regularly this year.

Next games: Tonight—Montreal at St. Louis, Boston at Toronto, New York at Chicago, Vancouver at Minnesota, California at Pittsburgh.

Superstitious Punch Imlach won't have to worry about what to wear Sunday.

While coaching the Toronto Maple Leafs for 11 seasons, Imlach was known for wearing the same clothes as long as his team was winning and changing with each loss.

Since assuming coach-manager duties with Buffalo Sabres, one of the National Hockey League's most recent expansion clubs, Imlach has had to call on his vast store of clothes repeatedly.

But he'll get a chance to wear the same clothes — and a smile — for his club's next game Sunday following Sabres' 4-2 victory Friday over the California Golden Seals.

Sabres broke a seven-game losing streak, including three games at home, and moved out of the East Division cellar while stopping a record Seal's streak.

Seals had set a club record Wednesday by taking their fourth straight win but Paul Andrea, a former team member, and a recent acquisition by Imlach, scored the winning goal early in the third period.

Larry Keenan, who also arrived on the Buffalo scene last week, scored the clinching goal and assisted on the first goal, a power-play shot by rookie sensation Gil Perreault, who was celebrating his 20th birthday.

Perreault, with his eighth goal of the season, gave the Sabres a 1-0 first period lead but Seals grabbed the lead in the second period on goals by Gary Jarrett and Gary Croteau.

Imlach also had reason to smile at the performance of goalkeeper Roger Crozier for whom he traded his first draft choice. The former Detroit Red Wing star stopped 34 shots, 13 in the last period.

PACED STOCKERS

Rodger Thompson paced the Stockers with two goals while single goals were scored by Graham Brown, Bill Allen, Gary Schall and Larry Meyers. Ted Sarkissian (2) and Paul Bion scored for Butler Bros., winners of only one game in seven starts.

Butler Bros. trailed in each of the first two periods but managed to fight back for period ties of 1-1 and 3-3. But Schall scored at the mid-way mark of the final period before Thompson, with his second, and Meyers, on a power-play in the last minute, closed out the scoring.

Selke's Story Differs

OAKLAND (AP) — Frank Selke, out as general manager of California Golden Seals, said Friday: "I neither resigned nor quit."

Charles O. Finley, owner of the National Hockey League team, said earlier that Selke had resigned effective Nov. 10.

Selke said he had refused to sign a new contract offered by Finley, who bought the team last summer. Selke said his current four-year contract still is in force.

OFFERED LESS

The proposed contract was for one year, Selke said, and for "substanitally less" than he received per year under his contract signed in 1967 with the former Seals' owners.

Selke said Finley "has placed me in a position that makes it impossible for me to continue with the Seals."

But, he added, "I have advised him that I expect my existing contract to be honored."

Salmon Derby

A salmon derby, sponsored by the Admiral Budge Sea Cadet Corps, will be held Sunday in Saanich Inlet.

The derby, open to all fishermen, will begin at daybreak and end at 2 p.m. with weigh-in at Anglers' Anchorage Marina. Presentations will take place at 2:30.

Tickets for the event, available at Hall's Boat House, Anglers' Anchorage Marina and Deep Cove Marina, are $1 each and there will be prizes for non-fishermen as well.

Vancouver Centennials scored three goals in the third period Friday to trip Kamloops Rockets, 4-2, in a B.C. Junior Hockey League game before 1075 fans in Vancouver.

The victory moved the Centennials to within one point of Victoria Cougars in the Coastal Division. Rockets fell five points behind Okanagan-Division-leading Penticton Broncos, who dumped New Westminster Royals, 6-3, in Penticton.

Rockets continue their road swing tonight when they visit Victoria in an attempt to stop Cougars' home winning streak of eight games. Game time at Memorial Arena is 8:30 p.m.

Rookie centre Gord Stewart, Mike McCarthy, defenceman Bill Gaston and Alex Dick scored for Vancouver, which outshot Rockets, 37-30.

Scoring for Kamloops, which trailed 1-0 after the first period but battled back for a 1-1 tie after two periods, were Gary Howatt and Tim Peck.

Vic Mercredi scored two goals and added two assists to lead Penticton and take over the lead in the scoring race from teammate Harry Turk. Fred Parent, Jan Kascak, Tom Gawryletz and Chad Campbell got the other goals. Jim and John Dalzell and Jack McIlhargy scored for Royals, victims of Penticton's seventh straight win.

Visitors Edge Hoop Vikings

University of Victoria Vikings were in a foul humor Friday night.

Vikings were tagged with 37 personal fouls and four players fouled out as they lost, 69-71, to Vancouver in an exhibition basketball game at UVic gymnasium.

Vikings trailed, 33-40, at half time but came back twice in the late stages to tie the score. They grabbed possession of the ball three times in the last two minutes but lost it on turnovers on each occasion.

Vancouver, which was handed only 10 personal fouls, was paced by Bob Molinski's 24 points. Tommy Holmes was tops for Vikings with 14 points.

The same two clubs meet tonight at 8 p.m. in UVic gym, preceded by an exhibition game between UVic Jayvees and Vancouver Killarney at 6 p.m.

Opening Round . . . . . . Of National Final

Vikings Win on Penalty Shots

TORONTO — University of Victoria Vikings edged McMaster University of Hamilton, 4-3, in the opening game of the national collegiate soccer championship Friday at York University.

Tied, 1-1, after 90 minutes of regulation time and 20 minutes of scoreless overtime, the match had to be decided on penalty shots.

McMaster was given five shots first, scoring on two of them while two others went wide and Dave Achurch stopped the other.

On the Vikings' turn, Alan Glenn, Peter Mason and Jim Marshall scored on the first three shots to give Victoria the win.

The Hamilton team took the lead with a first-half goal by Oskar Dalli and kept Victoria scoreless until the 85th minute. Marshall, the inside right, connected with a long shot which went in just under the crossbar to cap a strong Viking attack in the second half against the wind.

Dalli and Bill Millar were McMaster's scorers in the penalty shots.

Vikings meet Loyola University of Montreal this morning with the winner advancing to Sunday's championship match and the loser relegated to the consolation final, also on Sunday.

Memorial University from St. John's, Newfoundland, gained a berth in the final by blanking Laurentian University of Sudbury, 2-0, in an afternoon match. Two goals in the last five minutes of regulation time gave the Maritimes team the victory.

Vikings' leading scorer in their five-game march through the Western Canada Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association tournament in Victoria, Barry Moen, watched the win from the sidelines. Moen received a head injury in Vikings' 1-0 win against Hourigan Kickers Sunday in a Victoria and District Soccer League first-division match.

Aussies Stretch Golf Lead, Balding, Cox Far Off Pace

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Dave Graham and Bruce Devlin mastered the course, while America's Lee Trevino stomped away in frustrated anger, as Australia built a commanding 10-stroke lead at the halfway point Friday of the 18th World Cup golf tournament.

Graham shot a five-under-par 67 for a 132 and Devlin carded 69 for 135, giving the Australians a 267 for the first two rounds and a big margin over Argentina's 277.

VISIBLY SHAKEN

Trevino, the defending individual champion, was visibly shaken after he went one over par with a 73 and hurt the United States' chances of repeating. Trevino's score gave him a 143 and his partner, Dave Stockton, also had 73 for 140 that ballooned the U.S. to 283 and fourth place in team standings.

Thousands at the 6700-yard Jockey Club Course cheered wildly as home favorite Roberto de Vicenzo kept the individual lead with a 67 Friday and a 131 total.

BALDING SHOOTS 70

Balding carded a two-under-par 70 to go with his 73 Thursday for a 143 total, 12 strokes behind de Vicenzo in the individual race.

Cox ballooned over par for the second consecutive day, firing a 77, that gave him a 36-hole score of 151.

Cox went over par on the seventh, ninth, 11th, 12th, 14th, 15th and 17 holes, mostly as a result of his putting.

"I had several three-putts on the back nine and wouldn't like to count the number of the other half," said Cox. "I had good shots and scored birdies on the third and 13th but the poor putting far outweighed them."

The Canadians were among the last in Friday, and most golfers who started late agreed that the greens were not in the best of shape.

Henrick Lund of Denmark moved behind Devlin in the individual scoring race with a 68 for an eight-under-par 136 that helped give his team third place with 282.

Japan and France were tied for fifth in team scoring at 285, followed by the Philippines at 286 and England and Wales at 287.

STALKED OFF COURSE

Trevino stalked off the course without signing autographs and left the clubhouse immediately. Stockton, who also had a 73 but was five under par over-all, remained behind to practice putting.

Trevino has had trouble on the greens which he and other players have described as bumpy and poorly-maintained.

Bout in Jeopardy

The scheduled Dec. 7 Cassius Clay-Oscar Bonavena bout is in jeopardy following suspension of Bonavena for 90 days Friday by the Buenos Aires municipal boxing commission. Bonavena was suspended for "repeated refusal to cut his hair," an attitude which violates local rules, according to the ruling.

Dempsey, his shoe and Saints' general manager Vic Schwenk

He Doesn't Feel Handicapped

Record Field Goal Made Tom Celebrity

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Big Tom Dempsey, the New Orleans Saints' crippled kicker who stunned the sports world with a 63-yard field goal, just happens to believe that anything's possible.

Dempsey, born with only half a right foot and without a right hand, became a football byword Sunday when he booted the 63-yarder in the game's last two seconds as the Saints beat the powerful Detroit Lions, 19-17.

The kick eclipsed by seven yards the National Football League record hung up by Bert Rechichar 17 years ago.

The 240-pound Dempsey is a quiet, modest man and the thought of being a football celebrity will take some getting used to.

HE'S NO ROOKIE

The 23-year-old Dempsey is far from being a newcomer to professional football. He handled place-kicking duties for the Saints last year and had a 55-yarder to his credit.

When J. D. Roberts, making his debut as coach of the Saints, called on him for the kick Sunday, did he feel he could do it.

"Yeah, I guess I did," Dempsey said in an interview, with his now-famous shoe sitting on the table in front of him. "I went out there with just one thing in mind.

GREAT MOMENT

"I knew it was a long field goal, but I went out there trying to concentrate on kicking the ball hard, trying to keep my head down and following through.

"It was a great moment. I still sit at home at night by myself and think about it," he said.

"You know, I walked out on the field Tuesday, 63 yards and looked. It scared me. It really scared me. It's awesome."

DISREGARDS HANDICAP

Dempsey does not consider himself handicapped and doesn't believe he needs any extra consideration.

He played high school football and two years at Polomar Junior College in California. At Polomar, he played defensive end—"I loved the hitting and the contact"—and became a kicker only as an afterthought.

"I like being a kicker, I like the pressure involved, I love that feeling."

Dempsey shied away from getting into controversy with general manager Tex Schramm of Dallas Cowboys, who said he believed Dempsey's shoe does not conform to NFL rules and indicated the record field goal is slightly tainted.

CRITICIZES SHOE

Schramm called the shoe which covers Dempsey's abbreviated foot "a sledgehammer." Dempsey has very little, if any, instep, and no toes on his right foot.

Schwenk recalled that Mark Duncan of commissioner Pete Rozelle's office examined the shoe before the 1969 season, "checked the shoe out and it's the same shoe today, although Tom got a new one constructed exactly the same way."

APPROVAL REAFFIRMED

Schwenk said he talked with NFL headquarters in New York Thursday and said Rozelle "reaffirmed the fact the shoe had been approved by the league."

"I think J. D. Roberts put it as plainly as anyone," Schwenk said. "The shoe wasn't an issue before the kick, why should it be an issue now?"

Eckman Wants Brothers' Job

HAMILTON — John Eckman is determined to be No. 1 quarterback for the British Columbia Lions next year.

The 23-year-old native of Pocono, Pa., was traded to the Lions by Hamilton Tiger-Cats Thursday in return for future considerations.

For two seasons a member of the Ticats of the Canadian Football League's Eastern Conference, Eckman said he is looking forward to joining the Lions.

"They've got a good offence in Vancouver . . . . I think I can beat him (Paul Brothers, Lions' regular quarterback this season) out."

Eckman saw considerable work this season when Ticat regular Joe Zuger was hurt but when the club obtained Wally Gabler from Winnipeg he returned to back-up. Zuger's return from the injury list prompted the deal with the Lions.

Eckman, who completed 38 of 80 passes for 617 yards this season, will return to Wichita State University in January to resume practice teaching, leading to his MA in physical education.

Reed Back With Roughriders

Fullback George Reed, sidelined for 30 days with a fractured bone in his leg, will be in action today when Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders meet in Regina in the opening game of the best-of-three Western Football Conference final.

The game will be telecast on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 12 noon.

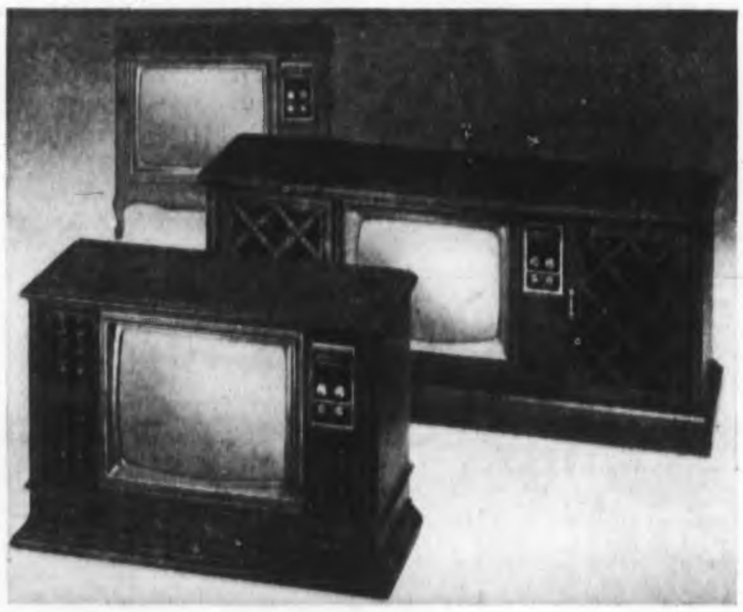
You may be too late to have the first color television on your street, but you're just in time for the best.



Perhaps you haven't bought color television because you haven't seen what you really want. Perhaps you've worried about tuning clear color. Or you've been fearful of the high costs of servicing. Well, now is the time to look again. Because we at Sylvania have just what you've been waiting for. And we'd like to tell you all about it.

Take our 'true to life' dimensions. We've revised our screen height to screen width ratio to coincide exactly with that of television cameras. So now Sylvania shows all that the camera intended. And you never miss a thing.

To give you 'true to life' color, we've added a wrap-around "black composite" for very high contrast. And other special elements for a definite brightness advantage. It is this brightness, contrast combination that makes Sylvania's new dimensional picture tube the sharpest ever seen.

Perfect tuning is now automatic

We do however ask you to tune each channel the first time. But only the first time. After that, our Memory Fine Tuning device goes to work. It locks in your perfect choice and automatically remembers it for you everytime thereafter.

Automatic Fine Tuning also includes a Deluxe 3-Stage Video IF Amplifier for more pleasing sound. A Keyed Automatic Gain Control that keeps the contrast uniform even in difficult reception areas. And an Automatic Degaussing Unit that purifies the color as soon as the set warms-up. Warm-up, by the way, takes only five seconds or less with new Instant Color.

Finally, Automatic Fine Tuning continuously adjusts to a station's carrier signal. So Sylvania always gives you the strongest possible reception. Automatically, of course.

Gibraltar' Chassis eliminates heat and power overload problems

We've designed out these two major causes of television failure by designing in two new features.

First is a special Line Voltage Control. This little switch at the back of our set enables you to choose the best voltage for your area.

And the second is really a first. To the industry, that is. As a matter of fact we're very proud of our High Voltage Tripler. It's one solid state device that eliminates two most troublesome receiving tubes. And, two pretty hot ones at that.

Sylvania has more bright ideas

If you don't like the idea of twisting UHF and VHF dials, you'll like our Style 4C647. Instant Pushbutton Tuning makes it the right Sylvania for you.

Or perhaps you'd like us to take you one step further. Chairside Color Control lets you operate the whole Sylvania show from the comfort of your favorite chair. Can you think of a better place?

We also have a chassis for people who prefer their color television with no tube but the picture tube. Sylvania viewing is even more reliable the Gibraltar solid state way.

And if you choose a 26" Sylvania you can take perfect flesh tones for granted. New Perma Tint locks them in and eliminates the annoying greens from the picture.

We think these ideas will help you enjoy Sylvania even more. But then, we let you have the final say.

Sylvania is the best color protection in the business

A nice thing about our warranty is the easy-to-follow question and answer format. But the best thing is the manner in which we take care of you.

A full five year plan covers the picture tube and all solid state devices. Everything else is protected for one year. And you needn't worry about replacement parts. They're guaranteed for the balance of the warranty period.

We're not a manufacturer who's afraid to mention breakdowns. They happen because a color television is a highly complex piece of machinery. Besides, a Sylvania color television is going to last a very long time.

Realizing today's problems of repair and subsequent high costs, we've created our own coast-to-coast service organization. Our factory-trained personnel will be easily accessible. They will do whatever has to be done quickly, at a low cost.

A Sylvania color television will be easy to service. We designed it that way.

The finest quality comes at the best price

Sylvania will save you some annoying expenses. Like government import duties and international shipping costs. For these two reasons as well as being able to give you more personal attention, we make our complete line of portable, table and console models right here in Canada. But only to the exact specifications established for our award-winning line in the U.S.

So there's no question about quality. Which you now know comes at the best price. And with that our story ends.

Except you haven't seen our Sylvania color television yet. We suggest you look for it at your dealer's now. And test our color against every other one there. We think you'll agree that Sylvania is just what you've been waiting for. And more.

Two disqualifications in relay events stopped Oak Bay Junior High from overtaking Lansdowne in the 45th annual Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's age-group junior high schools meet at Crystal Garden Friday.

Landsowne retained the title with 172 points, two more than Oak Bay. Far back in third place was Colquitz with 100 points.

The disqualifications, for false starts, were in the 200-yard open freestyle events. Oak Bay finished first in the girls race but the penalty dropped them to last place in the nine-team race and cost them 14 points.

Lansdowne picked up the victory in both events but need a second-place finish in the final event of the night, the 200-yard boys' club freestyle relay to take the championship. Oak Bay won the final two relay events to come close.

Top Driver Spectacular In Vancouver Appearance

VANCOUVER (CP) — Famed driver Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, N.J., making a guest appearance, turned in a sensational performance with five wins in as many starts as the inaugural winter harness racing meet opened Friday at Exhibition Park before 7100 fans.

The winner of pacing's triple crown this year with the colt Most Happy Fella, Dancer scored with the pacer Jove in the third race, Darrell Counsel in the fourth, Robin Win in the sixth, Smoky Affair in the eighth and Fargo Richard in the featured ninth race.

B.C. Jockey Club officials said they were pleased with the first night of the 47-day racing season. The mutual handle was $118,724 for 10 races.

The meet continues through next March 6 with racing three days a week, with the possibility of it being stepped up to four days.

Three More

TORONTO (CP) — Night Call, with Sandy Hawley aboard, won the $4,400 seven-furlong feature at Greenwood Race Track Friday. Night Call was one of three winners for Hawley bringing his season total to 412. He is pursuing a record 485 wins set by Willie Shoemaker in 1953.

22 years of hard labour for $1999.

This year, everybody's introducing a new economy car.

"Volkswagen-priced."

So not to be outdone, we've done the same.

Except, of course, we didn't have to start from scratch.

For years, while everybody else has been jumping from model to model and worrying about looks, we've stuck with our original and improved the way it works.

And so today, while ours may not look like the newest economy car, it's actually the most advanced.

The only one with an air-cooled engine. To eliminate boiling over and freezing up.

And this year, along with everything else, it also happens to be the lowest priced car you can buy that comes with a 1600 c.c. engine.

WE'VE GOT PULL!

Brundage Chides Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — Avery Brundage has chided the world's militant youth for adopting the ideals of the Olympic Games and then using the wrong means to achieve them.

"What the kids are demonstrating for today are the very things the Olympic movement has been fostering for 50 years," said the 83-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee.

"Their motives may be good but their methods are bad.

SAME GOALS

"They say they want peace. Peace has been the cornerstone of the Olympics since they were started. They say they want equality of races and opportunities. They want to rectify injustices and uproot the establishment.

"The Olympics have the same goals — big and small countries, peoples of different races, colors and creeds striving together. No distinctions. The emphasis on the individual and not the nation.

"But the rebelling kids want to burn, loot and destroy to gain their aims. The Olympics do it through sports. I am not discouraged. I think youngsters will realize this and come around to the Olympic ideal."

LAST TERM

Brundage, IOC president for the last 28 years who insists this will be his last term of office, was a guest at Olympic House at which 15 lithographs and posters were unveiled in commemoration of the 20th Olympic Games at Munich in 1972.

Some of the world's leading artists participated in the unique series of graphics being distributed by Kennedy Galleries to raise money for the Games. Selling at from $15 to $500, the graphics are expected to bring in millions of dollars for the organizers.

Despite New Rolls at 45

Burton Slowing Down

LONDON (AP) — Richard Burton sported a new Rolls-Royce and a decoration Thursday, gifts for his 45th birthday.

The car came from wife, movie queen Elizabeth Taylor. The decoration, Commander of the Order of the British Empire, came from Queen Elizabeth.

The volatile son of a Welsh coal miner who goes from Shakespeare to Welsh poetry to modern movie thrillers to any role imaginable, concedes he is starting to slow down.

Making movies "keeps me alive," he said in an interview, but now he is taking it easier, if only to foil the tax man. Wife Elizabeth, plagued by illnesses for years, has to pick and choose professional activity to fit her supply of energy.

Burton said they have decided to think about tomorrow and have chosen to live in the village of Pontrhydyfen in south Wales, where he grew up, the 12th of 13 children.

The Burtons have possessions and money almost beyond the counting stage but Richard says they just "try to live up to the rules of easy wealth."

Kopit's Indians

No Heroes Out West

By BERT BINNY

Arthur Kopit's play, Indians, as performed by UVic theatre department students and as directed by John Krich, is very powerful stuff.

It opened at the Phoenix Theatre Wednesday night and it continues through Nov. 21, Sunday included. It would almost amount to a penance to miss it.

The cast employs over 40 performers and from the very smallest non-speaking bit part clear up to the leads everyone was right in there, contributing to a general effect which was at once colorful and commanding.

The message of the play is simply that the old west was not as much the scene of heroism and dedication as it was the arena of stupidity and greed.

Not only did both the script and the performance present this theory very clearly but it also provided ample evidence of how the heroic mythology arose in the first place.

* * *

It would be invidious to pick out certain of the players as particularly outstanding for the simple reason that they were uniformly excellent. Granted D. G. Lander as Buffalo Bill and Gene Miller as Sitting Bull carried long and onerous roles but the support they received from the shorter parts supplied a tower of strength.

The lighting, costumes and occasional music were all deftly contrived and executed. There was no attempt at scenery and this, in fact, also contributed to the success of the performance.

* * *

Indians is the sort of show that is not only good entertainment. It is also a sterling example of fine technique in all the theatrical departments employed. Descriptions and pre-publicity are all very well but the final test lies in the performance itself.

This test is met triumphantly.

Burgess

South Pacific Director

Career Long, Rich

A Victorian who has been away from home more years than you'd believe to see him, working in the theatre, is back home to direct Victoria Operatic Society's 25th anniversary production, South Pacific.

* * *

From there he went to Mount View high school, and from there to Adeline Duncan's studio to learn Highland dancing, and from there into the army in 1941.

Walter's Scottish dancing rose to the professional level in competitions, and with it he learned to play the bagpipes. He still has two chanters — those mellow, wooden instruments on which pipers may practise without the grand volume of the pipes.

* * *

After the war Walter studied other dance forms — ballet, modern jazz — in Vancouver and San Francisco and, whenever he visited his home in Victoria, with Wynne Shaw.

His first stage show ("I can't even remember its name, it was 1,000 years ago, but it starred Eddie Foy") selected him for the company in San Francisco but, because his U.S. visa had almost expired, picked him up in Vancouver on tour.

* * *

That show finished in Memphis, Tenn., on New Year's Eve, and company members had the choice of their fare paid back to where they signed on or to New York. Walter chose New York.

New York shows and touring companies followed. Finian's Rainbow and Gentlemen Prefer Blondes are two titles he recalls. The names up in lights included Eddie Albert, John Boles, Ella Logan, David Wayne, John Raitt, Sterling Holloway, Pinky Lee, Irene Ryan who is today Granny in Beverly Hillbillies.

* * *

"My career so far," Walter muses, "ranges from John Boles who was in some of the earliest talkies, to the current rock group, the Guess Who."

Walter made Toronto his headquarters, and since the big growth of television has devoted his time and talents to choreography and directing — for TV, for stage, in Montreal, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal.

He has choreographed Hello Dolly, Oliver and the Wizard of Oz for the stage, and a number of Wayne and Shuster TV shows. These are only a few. And he has directed a number of original shows.

* * *

He also was assistant to director Ada Broadbent for a spectacular staged for Expo 67 in Montreal. This proved a real problem in logistics, for the cast included 80 dancers, as many mounted RCMP, a similar group of mounted West Indies police, and 100 cowboys.

"The manure was a problem to be reckoned with!"

His experience and know-how should be a boon to Victoria Operatic Society. For one thing, he's starting rehearsals with warmups such as dancers have before any show and quick little mental quizzes.

* * *

These are designed to eliminate kinks before curtain time, not only for smoother action on stage but to make everyone on stage think exactly, for themselves, what they're doing and why they're doing it.

As a musical person with a sound background of dancing, Walter Burgess' first stage interest is musicals.

"I'd like to direct a non-musical play, though," he says. "But so far no one has asked me to."

Critics Challenged

I Like Myra, Because . . . .

By GRAHAM BOARDMAN

At the risk of eliminating myself from the ranks of discerning movie critics and filmgoers everywhere, I must confess I like Myra Breckinridge, the satirical comedy now playing at the Royal Theatre.

The movie, adapted from Gore Vidal's novel and directed by Michael Sarne, is about what happens when Myron Breckinridge, played by Rex Reed, undergoes a sex change operation, and becomes Myra Breckinridge, played by Raquel Welch.

Myron's motives for having the operation are that he can now emasculate, both physically and mentally, all his male antagonists, and also collect an inheritance from his movie mogul uncle, Buck Loner, played by John Huston.

* * *

Myra even goes so far as to go to bed with one of her victim's girlfriends and then finds herself falling in love. As a result she decides to revert back to being a male, which she does successfully.

That, in essence, is the plot of Myra Breckinridge. Now as to the reasons why I liked Myra, a film that has been almost universally condemned by critics:

First, there is Mae West, who, it has been rightly said, could read the telephone book and make it sound suggestive. Mae plays Leticia van Allen, a talent agent who reverses the role of the lecherous Hollywood producer who lures young starlets to his couch. In Mae's case, acting careers are made in the hideaway bed in her office.

The second reason is the excerpts from old films that are used throughout the movie. For example, when Buck Loner is confronted by Myra, he is astride a stuffed horse. The film then cuts to a shot of John Carradine as Bob Ford coming in on Tyrone Power as Jesse James when he is balanced on a chair trying to hang a picture on the wall. As Power falls off the chair after being shot by Carradine, the scene shifts to Huston, who has fallen off his horse.

The cuts from the old films are interrelated in some way to the scene that is taking place in Myra Breckinridge.

There are also scenes from films with John Payne, Alice Faye, Laird Cregar, Shirley Temple, Peter Lorre, even Stan and Ollie. Apart from the excerpts, there are veteran character actors appearing in Myra itself. Andy Devine, B. S. Pulley, John Carradine, Kathleen Freeman and Grady Sutton appear in small roles.

Many critics dislike Myra because they feel it disgraces the movie idustry. It shows to what level films have dropped. When Raquel Welch and Rex Reed appear on the screen I heartily agree.

The fact that they are so had is really the saving grace of the film. There is a story that Loretta Young said she would sue 20th Century Fox for an astronomical sum unless they cut out a scene from one of her old movies that had been inserted in Myra.

Unfortunately she was successful. I say unfortunately because it is the old scenes and the veteran actors that make the film worth seeing. And that is the reason why, though nobody else may agree with me, I like Myra Breckinridge.

Caged Bird Exhibition Upcoming

The Vancouver Island Cage Bird Society will hold its 19th annual bird show Nov. 21 and 22 at Norway House, 1110 Hillside.

The show will be divided into three sections — canaries, budgerigars and foreign birds — with each section divided into two classes. The open classes are open to all, while the breeders' classes are open only to birds bred and raised by club members during 1970.

It is expected that there will be entries from up-Island and from other parts of Canada and the United States. The show is considered to be one of the largest in the Pacific Northwest.

Show manager is Mrs. Grace Marchmant.

We'd like to prove we're better
Try our hot water heater for 3 months. Free.
Free. How come?
Free because we'd like to prove that a domestic oil fired hot water heater from Chevron is faster. Up to seven times faster than electric ones. And up to three times faster than gas water heaters. Free also, because we'd like to prove that an oil fired hot water heater from us is cheaper to operate. Up to 40% cheaper than electricity. And up to 20% cheaper than gas.
What kind of hot water heater do you get for nothing?
You get the best. Our hot water heater carries a ten year tank warranty. It's compact, rust-proof, fully insulated and double glass-lined. It delivers lots and lots of hot water. (90 gallons every hour.) And here's the best part: use of this oil fired hot water heater is yours for three months. Free. Including installation costs up to $80.
What's the catch?
There are two. An understandable one is that you already have to have an oil furnace. Another is that you contract to buy top quality Chevron Heating Fuels.
What do I do to keep it?
You can either lease or buy. It's only $4.13 a month to lease and if you want to buy, you can spread the payments over a ten year period.

I accept your offer in the spirit in which it's given.
We're delighted and welcome the opportunity to prove we're better. All you have to do now is call one of the Chevron Housewarmers listed below. He will give you the full details and will arrange a convenient time to install your water heater for the free three month period. (This offer expires December 31, 1970.)

Squad Of God

MONTREAL (CP) — Six chaplains at Sir George Williams University have been nicknamed the God Squad and are attracting more student interest than before. Anglican chaplain Rev. John Wright says the name may be partly responsible for their new success, explaining that "it's certainly dispelled the old image of the aged chaplain handing out religious advice."

South Africa

World Link Kept

CAPE TOWN (AP) — The Church of the Province of South Africa, representing 250,000 Anglicans, followed four other major Protestant groups in voting Wednesday to remain in the World Council of Churches despite an aid grant by the council to black anti-South Africa guerrilla groups.

But the synod of the church decided to withhold a $770 contribution to the council until it explains the reasons for its move.

The resolution at the same time added that it recognizes that the "frustration and despair" which makes southern Africans turn against their own countries "is a judgment upon our failure to embody God's righteousness in relationships between man and man in our society . . ."

The Church of the Province follows the United Congregational Church of Souhern Africa, the Methodist Church of South Africa, the Presbyterian Church of South Africa and the South African Council of churches in retaining links with the WCC.

Victoria Recording Firm Maps Modern Studio

Last year four Victoria men teamed up to form the city's first recording company—Leslie Records Ltd.

The partners are Rev. Ted Chapman, former minister of the Alliance Church; his brother Chuck, a member of basketball's Hall of Fame, and two businessmen, Douglas Gill and James MacDuff.

The company has produced three stereo LPs. Two of them are recordings of the Greater Victoria Youth Challenge Choir of the Brethren Assemblies — Yes, I Know and I'm So Happy. The third is a recording of The Brusetts, a family of Seventh-day Adventists, singers and musicians, who have since moved to Florida.

A modern studio now is being prepared to handle all types of recordings. On-location recordings can be handled as well.

The end of the month Leslie Records opened a retail outlet on Pandora near Douglas, to handle religious records and sheet music in the contemporary as well as the traditional mood. The store will also sell Sunday school and church supplies. Mrs. Douglas Gill and Ted Chapman will run the store.

Sign Alone Meaningless

Peace Needs Action

By JACK CLOVER

During the Second World War Churchill's V sign was used to keep victory in the minds of his allies.

Millions of Vs appeared on walls, windows and doors all over Britain. Radio signals incorporated the Morse code's V (. . . —) to proclaim the same message and indoctrinate the whole populace with the positive thoughts of victory so eliminating the possibility of thinking about defeat.

Now this same V sign signifies peace and it probably has been used by many millions more than those who ever used the same sign for victory.

* * *

But does a sign for peace necessairly bring peace? Did the sign for victory bring victory? Does the sign of blessing or annointing accomplish that end? Not unless the makers of these signs are qualified to perform the works and understand the obligations and responsibilities that go along with the sign.

At radical demonstrations, protest marches and agitational gatherings, the peace sign is seen in profusion. Yet many of these meetings degenerate into confrontations and violence ensues.

* * *

Peace signs, if used as a prelude to battle, are as hypocritical as a government's signing of a peace treaty and then attacking its enemy. The same can be said of Christian ministers who encourage escalation of war efforts.

Essentially what this type of peace promoter is saying is "Sure, we want peace and we'll let you have it, too—on our terms." Surely this is no different an offer than any aggressor has made all down through the ages.

What then should we do—stop making the peace sign as a greeting? No, not at all, but when we give it, let's think about it as we do it and, more important, let's work toward it continually.

Billy Graham uses a different sign. When the V sign of peace is made to him, he responds with a one-finger salute, signifying one way, God's way. There's no doubt this one way is the only way to lasting peace both for individuals and nations.

This is the message in the 33rd Psalm:

"Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of Him. For He spake, and it was done; He commanded, and it stood fast. The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought: He maketh the devices of the people of none effect. The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of His heart to all generations. Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom He hath chosen for His own inheritance."

Dial-a-Thought

Help at 386-6924

A Victorian octagenarian minister has resumed a telephone service of hope and encouragement which he first started five years ago.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor emeritus of Central Baptist Church, Friday reinstated his Dial-a-Thought program which he will conduct at his own expense.

"I'm looking for great things," Rowell said. "It's something that can make a real contribution and that's what I'm after."

People who are depressed or in trouble can dial 386-6924 and get a one-minute message.

"You could call them a succession of golden minutes," he said. "They are composed to help relieve everyday problems, to give comfort and encouragement, to offset defeatism and to give renewed confidence in God."

Rowell has been in Victoria since 1927. That is the year he founded Central Baptist Church. A native of Retford, Nottinghamshire, he came to Canada in 1912.

He served small churches in Manitoba prior to the First World War. He went overseas with the 11th Field Ambulance. After the war he came to B.C. and served churches in Vernon, Prince Rupert and Kamloops before moving to Victoria.

Selfish Kind Can Be Harmful

It's How You Pray

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

The view is widely held among parents that any religious training a child receives is bound to do him some good.

But it doesn't necessarily work that way. Some kinds of religious training, although well intended, may be harmful to a child's spiritual development.

Take, for example, the matter of prayer. Parents with any degree of personal faith usually make an effort to teach their children to "say their prayers."

* * *

No one would deny the value of helping a child from the habit of daily prayer from his earliest years. But it matters enormously how a child is taught to think of prayer.

A mistaken view of prayer, implanted or encouraged by parents, may cause a youngster to become an atheist in his teens.

In a recent issue of the Christian Herald, religious educator Garton Ulrich recounted the story of a mother who couldn't comprehend why her college-age son had rejected belief in God.

The mother "recalled fondly how, as a small child, her son had prayed with unquestioning faith that God would grant him a bicycle. It was obvious from the tone of her reminiscences that the parents, in buying him the bicycle, had deliberately encouraged the child to believe that if he only prayed believingly enough, his prayers would be granted."

This kind of "religious training" is disastrous because it teaches a child to think of prayer as a letter to a heavenly Santa Claus. It may work for a while, but sooner or later the child will pray for things the parents don't know about, or cannot provide. He will then conclude either that there is no God, or, worse, that God exists but doesn't love him any more.

Even if a child should somehow escape this kind of disenchantment, he will never be able to grow into a mature religious faith so long as he thinks of God as a wish-granter. For any such concept gets the man-God relationship exactly backwards. Instead of seeing himself as the creature and servant of God, a child sees himself as the centre of the universe, and sees God as a genie whose role is to protect and please him.

This doesn't mean that a child should be discouraged from asking God for things — including bicycles. It does mean that children should be taught from the very start to pray in the spirit of Jesus.

* * *

Jesus habitually addressed God as "Father in Heaven." The term can be a pitfall for children if they're allowed to form anthropomorphic images of God. But it is not difficult for parents to make clear that even though God does not look like a man, he does deal with his human children in the manner of a loving father.

This concept of God as father teaches a child to acknowledge his dependence on God and at the same time prepares him for the possibility of getting no for an answer occasionally.

"A child does not cease to love and trust his parents merely because they sometimes refuse to give him what he wants," observes Miss Ulrich. "In fact, as he matures in understanding, he learns, either by the teaching of his parents or through experience, that often it is because his parents love him that they refuse some of his requests. Just so he can be taught that a loving God denies some of our requests."

* * *

The lesson can be made clearer by teaching a child to conclude his prayers as Jesus did by saying: "Not my will but thine be done." This short sentence, whenever it is said sincerely, encompasses the deepest truths that a human being can learn, at any age, about his relationship to God.

Implicit in it is the faith that God can always be trusted to watch over us with a loving concern for our ultimate best interests. And it also constitutes a humble acknowledgment that it is God's will, not ours, that really matters, for this is his universe and we exist solely because we are part of his creative purpose.

Bus Answer To Prayers Of Handicapped

DALLAS, Texas, (AP) — Getting to church on time is no longer a problem for members of the 11-year-old Bartimaeus Baptist Temple in Dallas — a specially outfitted bus now picks up and delivers them to Sunday School and church every Sunday.

Bartimaeus Baptist Temple is a church solely for the handicapped — persons unable to live a normal life. Some members are blind. Others paralysed. All are handicapped in some way.

The bus, dedicated Sept. 20, was the goal of the Women's Mission Union, which started the project in 1967.

An elevator platform lift at the curb side of the bus is used for wheelchair and disabled passengers. Opposite the elevator, three seats have been removed and a railing and clamps installed to anchor four wheelchairs comfortably with the passengers in them.

For those able to move around, there is additional seating space for 20 adults. A normal front curbside door is provided for those passengers who can negotiate the steps. The aisle inside the bus is wide and the seats are comfortable.

* * *

Picking up members by bus starts at 12:30 Sunday afternoon with Pastor Whitmore and the driver aboard. Members are picked up from suburban cities of Mesquite and Irving as well as area rest homes, housing projects and individual homes. Bus pickups are timed to coincide with the start of the 3 p.m. church services.

Pastor Whitmore, 51, who suffers from partial paralysis, said special facilities have been made available to his parishioners in the North Dallas Baptist Church, providing modern facilities, with central air conditioning and heating.

Peak Form

Pike's Peak near Colorado Springs, Colo., is backdrop for photo of 85-piece NORAD Band which will give free concert in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m. Monday in aid of United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal for Community Chest of Greater Victoria. World's only two-nation military band is made up of musicians from Canadian and U.S. armed forces.

Peace and Love Free for All

Peace and love are actually available to everyone.

This is a theme of the lesson-sermon, Mortals and Immortals, to be read at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Chambers at Pandora.

"If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new," the golden text from II Corinthians states.

One of the passages to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states:

"This scientific sense of being, forsaking matter for Spirit, by no means suggests man's absorption into Diety and the loss of his identity, but confers upon man enlarged individuality, a wider sphere of thought and action, a more expansive love, a higher and more permanent peace."

Gaspe Priests Charge

Inaction 'Immoral'

QUEBEC (CP) — Some 19 priests and cures whose Gaspe parishioners number about 44,000 have signed a manifesto charging a profoundly immoral lack of government action in developing the region's economy.

* * *

Clergy spokesman Rev. Charles Banville, cure of Ste. Paula parish in Matane, presented the manifesto to reporters Wednesday, explaining that a "mass movement" in the region has obliged the priests to abandon "our customary indifference."

Father Banville said governments and governmental agencies, worried about making mistakes, skated around the Gaspes' economic problems. Then the population, noting the governments inability to provide effective solutions, lost confidence in its leaders.

* * *

The former Management Bureau of Eastern Quebec had proposed certain solutions to Gaspe's high unemployment and low income rates, but nothing was ever done.

Gaspe clergy, said Father Banville, felt the Quebec government should act quickly to organize concrete programs "rather than investing in social assistance or continually resorting to subsidies which are demoralizing for those who receive them and scandalous for those who authorize them."

* * *

He said about 25 parishes have united in what they call Operation Dignity.

"The population decided to take affairs into their own hands because it is immoral for the government to continue to just play around," he said.

Handel's Messiah Slated

Thirty Greater Victoria churches are represented in the Saanich oratorio choir and orchestra which will perform Handel's Messiah Dec. 12 and 13 in McPherson Playhouse.

The 95 singers and musicians will also perform Mendelssohn's Elijah next April 4 in the McPherson.

The choir was organized and is still directed by Helmut Janzen, a teacher at Campus View elementary school.

* * *

First rehearsals were held in January, 1969. The choir is committed primarily to the study and performance of sacred works such as motets, cantatas and oratorios. To date the works performed are Christ and His Soldiers by John Farmer, Handel's Messiah and Haydn's Creation.

The orchestra was organized in September of last year by Bernard Rain for the first performance of the Messiah. Rain is a string teacher in Oak Bay schools and is also the orchestra's concertmaster.

A unique instrument in the orchestra is a harpsichord built by Walter Staub, Victoria piano tuner and teacher. It is played by Dr. Donald Edwards.

Gospel Concert

The Couriers, gospel singers of Harrisburg, Pa., will team up with the Gospel Messengers of Nanaimo for a concert in Oak Bay junior high school auditorium at 8 p.m. today.

Teachers Set For Training

Nineteen United Churches on lower Vancouver Island and Salt Spring Island will send Sunday School teachers to a training workshop in First United Church next Friday and Saturday.

The workship, sponsored by the Victoria Presbytery of the church, will open at 7:30 p.m. Friday. A general session will deal with age group characteristics, the role of the teacher and communication with children through modern teaching techniques and activities. Participants will share in making collages relating to the specific age group taught.

* * *

Saturday's sessions will run from 9:30 a.m. till noon and from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Groups will be formed to discuss teaching procedures and resources applicable to nursery, kindergarten, primary, junior, intermediate and senior levels. Resource persons will be in attendance and participants will exchange ideas to assist one another.

Teachers are being asked to bring examples of handiwork related to Christian education for display. A book stall will be set up where purchases may be made.

* * *

The workshop will be conducted by Rev. John O'Neil of Vancouver who is associated with the Division of Congregational Life and Work of the church's B.C. Conference. He will address all sessions of the workshop as well as taking part in group discussions as time permits.

Registration is being handled by Mrs. J. A. Eaton, 5065 Catalina Terrace, Victoria. Fee for the workshop is $1.

Those attending should bring a Teacher's Guide, some pictorial magazines, scissors, and a box lunch for Saturday.

$5,000 Fund

Racers Need Bundle

By JIM BRAHAN

Pilots who want to enter the London-to-Victoria air race next July should have at least $5,000 in the bank to cover expenses, race official Harry Traynor told the Colonist Friday.

He said that he expected only about two out of every five entries will actually start the race, but he added that he believed there would be about 100 planes competing.

Traynor said official entry forms will be available next week, and the following week rules and regulations will be available.

"All the paper needed will be in the pilot's hands by the end of November."

* * *

The air race, jointly announced by the provincial and federal governments last month, will be one of the main events to mark the B.C. centennial.

The overall race winner will get a purse of $50,000. Second and third place winners will get $20,000 and $10,000 respectively. There will also be other prizes of $10,000 and $5,000.

Traynor said he noticed a number of Air Canada fleet pilots have made inquiries about the race. If they enter they will be flying their private planes.

* * *

He said the finish line for the race will be a line starting from the mile zero marker at the foot of Douglas Street.

"Along Dallas Road will be the grandstand seats for people wanting to see the planes cross the line about 6:35 p.m. July 7."

He said that he expected well-known English woman flyer Sheila Scott to be one of the participants.

She flew in the England to Australia race in 1969 and has also flown around the world.

* * *

He also hinted that some member of the royal family will be associated with the race, but said it would definitely not be the Queen or Prince Philip.

Traynor said that the Canadian rules and regulations for flying across the Atlantic are the "stiffest" in the world.

"These will be the rules we'll be working under during the race," he said.

He also emphasized that no current rules of the air will be waived for any pilot in the race.

He explained that this as an additional safety factor.

* * *

He said that he had learned the Royal Air Force is "toying" with the idea of sending its famous Red Arrow aerobatic squadron to Victoria as one of the highlights at the end of the race.

He suggested that the squadron of supersonic fighter planes may put on a display over the city July 10.

Traynor said that at an air attaches' meeting Tuesday in Ottawa about 15 countries were represented, and the Soviet attache showed the most interest in the forthcoming race.

Hospital Fees

Socreds Sink Oak Bay Bid

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

Wallace

Oak Bay Socred MLA Dr. Scott Wallace, was given the water glass treatment at the provincial Social Credit convention in Vancouver Friday night when he tried to convince delegates to the party's annual covention that $1 a day hospital charges should be increased to $3.

Wallace said the government had "gone overboard" in providing $50-a-day care in acute hospitals for a direct cost of only $1 a day to the patient. Meanwhile, he argued, many people are being ruined financially paying for nursing home care without any help from the government, "and we don't give a damn."

Turning to the delegates who were banging on their water glasses, Wallace said: "I'm sorry if you can't stand the truth and want me to shut up." The convention defeated the resolution calling for an increase in co-insurance rates with special exemptions for the needy, by a handy margin after Health Minister Loffmark said there was no practical way it could be achieved at the moment.

Loffmark told delegates among technical difficulties arising from the proposal is the fact that unless all provinces agreed to a similar hike in daily rates B.C. taxpayers would be required to meet an additional heavy cost under the existing federal-provincial cost-sharing agreement.

* * *

The convention earlier approved, without debate, another Oak Bay resolution which urged the government to endorse as its long-term aim the principle that all hospital facilities in the province should be operated as non-profit institutions.

Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi was warmly applauded when he thanked delegates "so much for strengthening my hand" after the convention had approved a number of resolutions urging generally tougher welfare policies.

* * *

Speaking to one advocating work for welfare, Gaglardi described a pilot project in the Fraser Valley in which the three levels of government are sharing the cost of retraining about 25 welfare recipients who will be employed by the municipality in the near future. The minister said he would like to see similar projects elsewhere in the province.

When questioned by reporters later, however, Gaglardi said the government had no thought of introducing a compulsory work-for-welfare program.

Appeal Remains Short of Goal

Volunteer canvassers for the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal are still calling on businesses, professional men, civil servants and Greater Victoria homes and apartments.

But by Friday night the amount collected or pledged amounted to only $482,947 or 68.9 per cent of the 1970 goal of $701,314.

"We're not discouraged," said Commodore Victor Henning, general campaign chairman. "We feel the money is there and that enough people care about the plight of other people who are cared for by our 26 agencies to put us over the top."

There are still hundreds of calls which have not been reported on as yet, Henning said, "and we are hoping that they will make the difference."

Crackdown On Drugs In Services

A Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt spokesman told the Colonist Friday that as a result of a crackdown on the use of hard and soft drugs by servicemen, two CFB men have been placed on charge.

The spokesman said he believed the crackdown was Canada-wide, involving all forces bases.

'Operation Wheel Chair'

Greater Victoria's handicapped are going to have a Christmas-shopping night all to themselves at Woodwards Dec. 2, advertising manager Wilf Dick said Friday.

Dick explained that the store would close at 6 p.m. on that day, and re-open again at 6:30 just for the handicapped, including the blind and those confined to wheel chairs.

He said that people wanting to register should telephone the store's nurse and give their name and address.

* * *

"We call it Operation Wheel Chair," Dick said, and added that it was arranged because of the difficulty handicapped people have with shopping during the normal Christmas rush.

"This special opening will give them a chance to browse around and take their time with their shopping."

He said that Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock will be at the special opening.

St. John Ambulance personnel will be in attendance.

Dick said the store will provide free coffee and donuts for the shoppers.

He also noted that so far 300 handicapped have registered.

Benson Here

Edgar Benson, federal minister of finance, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce at 11:30 a.m. Monday at the Empress Hotel.

Haddock Blasts Fisheries Chief

Federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis has "engaged himself in a childish political ploy," Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock said Friday.

The mayor said in an interview he was "damned mad" about a letter sent to him by the minister in connection with the Greater Victoria Water Board's recent decision to release 100 million gallons of water into Goldstream River, enabling salmon to reach their spawning grounds.

The letter, dated Nov. 4, stated that a "minimum flow of water must take priority over other uses." This, the letter said, was outlined in the Fisheries Act. Section 120, part 10, it said, compelled owners of dams and persons altering natural flow of streams to provide sufficient water for fish.

"I'm only the mayor of a small city and it's not up to me to tackle a political giant like Davis, but I'm not going to be pushed around by him or anyone else," the mayor said.

"I suppose he's trying now to look like the Great White Father; he's found out that something was done to help the fish in a hurry, and he's trying to get in on the act," he said.

"I'm very disappointed that a man of Davis' stature would resort to such cheap political means to get attention."

* * *

Action to save the salmon, he said, was taken without help or threats from Davis. Future situations regarding salmon in Goldstream River would be considered on their merits alone, and not under pressure from the minister, Haddock said.

Meanwhile, more than 3,000 salmon have reached their spawning grounds in the upper part of the creek, the mayor said.

* * *

"The policy of releasing water at regular intervals works very well and we have also been able to hold our own as far as water shortage goes," Haddock said.

Rainfall over the past few days, the mayor said, had resulted in an additional 4½ inches of water in the Goldstream water sheds, an amount about equal to what has been released so far.

A total of 100 million gallons were to be released over a 10-day period starting last Saturday. More than half has already been released.

Wildlife officials have asked people watching the salmon not to wade through the stream. This would destroy the spawn, defeating the whole purpose of helping the salmon to reach their spawning grounds, they said.

St. Ann's Sale

Let It Rest —Loffmark

Admitting he was disappointed about the decision of the Sisters of St. Ann to refuse sale of their seven-acre property adjacent to St. Joseph's Hospital, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark Friday advised "patience and understanding."

Loffmark, attending a Social Credit convention in Vancouver, said he left Victoria believing there had been a verbal agreement to the sale and negotiations were proceeding briskly between the sisters and the regional hospital board.

He realized the stakes were high, Loffmark said, and that acquisition of the property as a site for a possible extension of St. Joseph's Hospital was a matter which involved a difficult decision.

* * *

From the standpoints of the public, the regional hospital board and the Sisters of St. Ann, it was an emotionally charged issue, the minister added.

He urged that no immediate action or irrevocable decision be made.

It would harm no one and prejudice the issue in no way if the matter rested for a few days — if there was a cooling-off period, Loffmark said.

He added that he did not want to stress this aspect of the problem, but if it was not possible to reach an agreement about the sale of the property, then his department would have to look for "other alternatives."

* * *

He really didn't expect this stage to be reached, Loffmark said, and was confident that it would be possible to reach an agreement satisfactory to the sisters and the regional hospital board.

The minister said that he understood the basis of agreement at the present time to be:

● Acquisition of the property by the regional hospital board.

● Financing by increasing the regional hospital bylaw fund by $1.5 million needed to buy the property.

He added that he had instructed officials of his department to give the regional hospital board assistance in working out the technical details.

* * *

The Sisters of St. Ann announced in a press conference Thursday that they had decided not to sell the land south of the hospital — land upon which St. Ann's Academy is located.

They said that they had been told a year ago, by "knowledgeable people" that the land was absolutely necessary for the expansion of St. Joseph's. A year later they were told by "knowledgeable people" that it was not necessary for the growth and expansion of the hospital. Accordingly, they were taking it off the market.

The sisters intimated that they were tired of the delay in the matter and that pressure was being brought to bear on them by parents of students in St. Ann's Academy who wanted to know what the future held.

* * *

Dr. Alex Wood, president of the South Vancouver Island Hospital Society, an organization formed a year ago to act as an intermediary among St. Joseph's and the sisters, the regional hospital board and the provincial government, said he did not blame the religious order for its action.

He said there had been endless bickering, intrigue and delay, and the public didn't know the whole story about what had happened.

Decision of the sisters was just another phase in a long, tenuous negotiation. This time last year, Wood said, the society hoped that an extended care unit would have been planned and built by this time. Instead things were right back to where they were.

* * *

Chairman of the regional board Mayor Hugh Curtis, deputy chairman North Saanich Mayor J. B. Cumming and regional hospital board officials have claimed throughout negotiations and discussions that they have never been given the opportunity to deal directly with the sisters. Such contact, they claimed, would have facilitated and speeded matters.

Instead, they said, they always had to operate through the hospital society.

This contention was borne out by a letter which the Colonist learned of on Friday. The letter from a law firm representing the sisters, to a law firm representing the hospital society was dated Nov. 10 and said in part:

"Please accept this letter as notice that our clients, the Sisters of St. Ann as of this date no longer consider themselves bound by the terms of the said tentative agreement."

The agreement in question was one which designated the society as the agent between the sisters, the hospital and the regional board.

Wood said Friday that such a letter had been received but added that Loffmark had been dealing with the sisters earlier as a representative of his own department and of the regional hospital board.

Unemployment Due to Greed, Builder Says

Greed was blamed Friday for the high unemployment in the construction industry in the Greater Victoria area.

"We have the highest priced unemployed in the country," masonry contractor Sandy Ormiston told the Colonist.

* * *

He said problems in the construction industry can be strictly attributed to the high cost of labor.

"With the cost of labor being $7.47 an hour, including fringes, and the average person earning about $3.50 or less an hour, who can afford it?"

He said the contractors can no longer sell their product and neither can the trade unions.

"About the only people that can buy now is the governments and they can't really afford it."

* * *

He said that the taxpayers can no longer afford to pay more taxes to build more schools and other government projects.

"Now has come the reckoning, it is because of their own greed that (construction workers) are unemployed."

He said that his own crews "are mainly unemployed" and explained he only has two men working now and he'll add another two to the list next week.

"But only for a short time," he said.

* * *

Ormiston emphasized that if the construction workers "want to get off the dole maybe they should go back to their old rate.

"Society just can't afford them," he said.

He said that he was actually only a broker.

"I buy material and labor and sell it where and when I can."

* * *

He said that even if the government started a big works program to get construction workers back to work it would be of little value.

"Once they got their bellies full and their current contract ran out they would go after higher wages again," he said.

Ormiston explained that new construction in this area has just about dried up.

* * *

He noted that there is a small job at Rocky Point that is opened for bids.

"It's only a $70,000 job and so far 17 general contractors have made bids on it — and the bidding doesn't close until Thursday."

Fashion Shows Indicate:

DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

—Campbell's

The Herbert Mays

The controversy over skirt lengths still waxes strong but if Eaton's fashion shows Thursday and Friday are any indication (and they are bound to be) skirts are not as important as pant suits.

As Mary Rawnsley explained as she opened her commentary, there is a right length for everyone and it is up to the person to find out what is right and then stick to it.

* * *

She listed the lengths that are all acceptable to fashion as the mini — and everyone knows what that is, -the knee zone which can be just above, at or slightly below knee level; the midi at mid-calf which she described as slimming, womanly fashion and the maxi which is confined more to coats and evening gowns.

But back to the pant suits, there were 19 models of pants out of the 48 fashions shown. These included street styles, glamor after five affairs, home lounging outfits and the jump suit.

* * *

I think there should be a new name for the jump suit. The original, the body hugging all-over-suit, was literally a jump affair but today's models wouldn't get very far if they tried to jump anything. Wide, flowing, often pleated pants make them look more like evening gowns.

Back in fashion is the waistline. Most of the midis shown and there were quite a few, definitefy outlined the waist, often with stripes of contrasting color. The same constrasting stripe just above the hemline was also featured on several midis. High boots appear to be the thing for the midi length.

* * *

Also back on the fashion scene are shoe string shoulder straps and black stockings. Some of the stockings were patterned but not the lacy affairs of awhile back. One pair had jagged embroidery in one stripe on the outside only.

The little black dress, although never quite disappearing, is back, often doubling its role as a pant tunic. Black was seen again in lounge wear and a new color, vintage grape, was used in a velvet pant and sleeveless top outfit.

A break in the show came when Sonny Landau, vice-president of Redi Meredith wigs took over the mike. He said that no matter how well a woman was dressed nothing was right if the hair wasn't right.

The new wigs are a great improvement over the first models. They don't even need a head stand, a milk bootle will do, said Landau. And they travel well, just turned inside out and packed with othr articles in a suitcase. These wigs are a third of the weight of human hair and only need to be washed in a special shampoo after 30 to 40 wearings. They never lose their waves, rain or shine.

Landau called on a volunteer from the audience to demonstrate how a person's appearance could be changed. Lydia Miller volunteered and she really did look like a different person after a few minutes styling of her wig.

Modelling the fashions were Kip Wallis, Penny Moyse, Maud Parks, Flo Walther, Sandra Hoey and Nancy Newton.

An old family joke that always brings a laugh is bound to be brought up when Mr. and Mrs. Herbert May of 581 Obed Avenue mark their 50 years of married life.

Herbert May, as a young man farmed near Birtle, Man. One day he went to a neighboring farm to buy a pig. Here he met the farmer's daughter. Ever since, he jokes that he went to buy a pig and brought a wife home instead.

The Mays were married Nov. 24 at Birtle but they will be celebrating their golden anniversary on Sunday, Nov. 22, at an open house to be held in St. Martin's-in-the-Field church hall from 2 to 6 p.m.

* * *

The Mays left Birtle in 1933 coming west to make their home at Ganges on Salt Spring Island. May worked in Mouats store for many years and Mrs. May had a mail route on the island. She is apt to laugh about the recent mail strikes when she recalls trudging through the snow on foot along the Beddis Road.

Both the Mays hail originally from England, he from Reading and his wife from the Midlands.

Their family all live in Victoria, daughters, Mrs. J. W. Meadwell (Edith), Mrs. D. Williams (Bea) and Fred May. They also have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

She married Matt Jerman, a composer and musician, and has nine children, most of whom shared in their parents' interest in music.

Or So He Says

Nagging Wife Success Key

ALCONBURY, England (UPI) — A nagging wife, far from being a mere annoyance, can be the key to her husband's success, a U.S. military command said this week.

With this in mind U.S. Air Force Col. Dwight Blanchard sent a letter to the wives of 2,000 non-commissioned officers at Alconbury Air Force Base.

Its message: A little nagging in the right places often lights a fire under the male. It could push him to study harder, for example, to earn military promotion.

"Mind you, I'm not suggesting they should make their husband's lives a misery," the 48-year-old officer from Forest City, N.C., said Wednesday.

"But they need to coax them and occasionally chide them into study," he said. "Sometimes adults can be like children. They need to be nagged now and again to get them to do their homework."

How did Mrs. Blanton feel about this after 27 years of marriage to such a willingly-nagged spouse?

"My husband is much too gallant to say I nag," Mrs. Marie Blanton said. "But I must say he's never minded my interfering a bit to make sure he studies."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Why is there so much rudeness and pushing and shoving in the world today? I see it wherever I go. Cafeteria lines, theatre lines — it's the same story. Even at the supermarket checkout counter, some creep always starts piling her groceries on top of mine before I've had a chance to get my slip and pay the bill.

People are getting more impolite and more inconsiderate by the day. They snarl at each other and seem so aggressive. What's happening to our world? Why is everyone so hostile? Are people changing? —Perplexed.

Dear Perp: Yes. People are becoming angrier and more competitive. Some authorities say it is because there are too many people. The "density theory" has been substantiated by experiments with animals. A California study proved that "normal" rats became belligerent, destructive and vicious when large numbers were crowded into a limited space. The answer: population control — voluntary — I hope.

A Call Never Comes

Dear Ann Landers: Am I super-sensitive, paranoid or just plain nuts? I had a blind date with a fellow who seemed terribly nice. I found him interesting, provocative and fun. I was sure he enjoyed himself, too. When he saw me to the door he said, "I'll call you soon." That was three weeks ago and I haven't heard a word from him since.

This is the third time a guy has done this to me since July. If a fellow doesn't like a girl, why does he say he will call her soon? Isn't this dishonest? It certainly does give a girl false hope. She waits and waits for a call that never comes.

Finally she gets depressed and loses confidence in herself. Frankly, I'd rather have a guy say, "Good night. I had a lousy time. You'll never hear from me again." Print this letter and let them see it — the rats. — Newark Knocker.

Dear New: C'mon, Kiddo. How would you feel if a fellow took you to the door and said, "Good night. I had a lousy time. You'll never hear from me again."

It might be that the guy did enjoy himself and wanted to see you again but maybe he broke his leg, lost his job, was called out of town unexpectedly or fell in love the next day.

Mouth Ruining Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married four months and I'm ruining my marriage because of my terrible mouth. This morning after my husband left for work I sat down and cried. I'm picking him to pieces and I know it. For example, I found a letter in his pocket I asked him to mail yesterday. I yelled at him. Then I yelled because he left a wet towel on the bathroom floor.

My sister nagged her husband into a divorce two years ago and I can see myself doing the same thing. I love my husband and I know he loves me but if I don't control this mouth of mine I will lose him. Can you help me? — Disgusted With Myself.

Dear Disgusted: A problem recognized is half solved. First, accept the fact that your husband is a letter-forgetter and a towel-dropper and you aren't going to change him. Mail your own letters and pick up his wet towels — not for his sake, but for yours.

Most nagging wives are secretly dissatisfied with themselves. Picking away at a spouse is easier than doing something about one's own inadequacies. Do you have outlets that provide you with self-esteem? A wife who feels good about herself doesn't nag her husband about details. Her energy is being used constructively — not destructively.

Bell Tolls For Them

THRAPSTON, England (CP) — Every time the church bells ring in this Northamptonshire town drinkers at the local pub down their glasses and go home — because they can't hear themselves talk. But although publican Jack Livesay complained, the rector, Rev. John Dakin, said the bells would keep tolling as "only the people in the pub objected."

They're Here

There's no business like mandarin orange business just before Christmas holidays, thinks John Kemp, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kemp of 2317 Malaview, Sidney, as first shipment from Japan arrives in Victoria via Vancouver early Friday. Oranges are selling at one Victoria department store for $2.25 a box or $4.39 for bundle of two. — (William A. Boucher)

'Toothpaste' Left Him Tongue-Tied

The tube contained glue, not toothpaste. Paul tried to call for help but couldn't open his mouth.

"I thought Paul had been rather quiet for a long time," said Mrs. Anderson.

Clothes Spree Ahead

TORONTO (UPI) — The caprices of fashion have meant increased spending on clothes in the United States, and the same could happen in Canada.

So says the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in a just-published commercial newsletter which shows clothing consumption in both the U.S. and Canada in the postwar era grew at a slower rate than total consumer spending.

But, the letter notes, the impact of fashion broke this pattern in the U.S. in the mid-1960s when clothes-buying spurted.

"It seems quite reasonable to expect that the fashion factor could inject the Canadian market with similar growth impetus," the letter says.

Statistics show that from 1949 to 1969, spending on clothing, footwear and accessories in Canada dropped from 10.5 per cent of all consumer expenditure to 7.5 per cent.

This declining pattern is said to be common among all industrialized countries.

The letter states there is a firm basis for expected growth in both the clothing and textile industries. In textiles in particular, it notes growth is among the most rapid in Canadian industrial sectors, contrary to general opinion.

An equation relating clothing demand to trends in population, shows that clothes-buying should increase at an estimated 4.3 per cent a year to 1975, the letter notes.

Hunt for Old Journal

English Sisters Sought By Virginia Historian

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation is seeking two English-born women living in Canada who are believed to own an 18th century manuscript important to the history of Virginia in the era of early exploration, it was learned Friday.

Dr. Edward Alexander, vice-president of the foundation, said he has been editing the 1710-1819 journal of John Fontaine, who came to Virginia in 1715, from an 1840 copy made by one of his descendants. The foundation, however, would like to obtain the original which was bequeathed in 1915 by George Patrick of London to his nephew, Douglas John George Harley Patrick.

Alexander said Douglas Patrick, an eccentric who lived in a caravan in Surrey and bred fox terriers, died in 1959 at the age of 77 but left no documents of importance. His obituaries, which referred to him as a beloved character known as "Doggy Pat," said he was survived by two daughters who live somewhere in Canada.

Fontaine spent four years in Virginia during which time he made a trip to New York and back. He made several exploratory trips within the colony, one with Gov. Alexander Spotswood to the Blue Ridge Mountains. His journal contains the only firsthand account of the Spotswood expedition, according to Alexander.

For Trustee

Priest Will Run

A 33-year-old Victoria priest, who also holds a fulltime job in the business world, Friday announced he will run as a trustee for Greater Victoria school board in the Dec. 12 civic elections.

Rev. Walter Donald of Christ Church Cathedral has been working for radio station CFAX as youth-community co-ordinator for the past two years.

He said Friday that, based on his own experience of working in liaison between the community and the school system, he has come to see it is not only economically wise but educationally advantageous for schools to use the community as an educational resource and for the community to look on the schools not just as buildings designed to teach young children, but as community resource centres.

* * *

"This means that students in our schools are preparing for the rest of their lives in the community, so the resources that are available to them should be brought into their learning experience as much as possible," he said.

"For example, people in the community with specialized skills should be encouraged to become involved. Also, special equipment within the community that could be used in the learning process should be made available to the schools as much as possible to save tax dollars."

* * *

The community should be able to use school facilities, Donald said.

"Why go to the expense of building community centres, libraries, gymnasiums, pools and other facilities when they already exist. And if we can look on more community resource centres as learning institutions, we will save a lot of money and take advantage of resources that are in existence."

The priest would not push religious education in schools. It should be voluntary, he said, and children should have the opportunity of learning about all the world's religions.

* * *

Donald is a native of Toronto. He went to work at the age of 14 as an office boy in a chest clinic and later qualified as an x-ray technician.

A business machine salesman for a number of years, he completed his high school education when moved to Vancouver.

He experienced a call to the Christian ministry and entered Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, from which he graduated in 1967.

He came to Christ Church Anglican Cathedral in May, 1967, and was ordained deacon the same month. He was ordained priest in December, 1968.

He is married to the former Rosemary Porter of Westcliff-on-Sea, Essex, England. They have two sons — Christopher, 9, and Jonathan, 4.

Garden City Kisses Leaves Goodbye

Coming of late fall means goodbye to last summer's leaves which in turn means work for city and park employees who must remove them from streets and parks. Workmen in Beacon Hill Park use large vacuum truck as well as traditional garden rakes to pick up piles of leaves.

Talks Pace Criticized

Union Wins Trade Backing

The B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council and the B.C. Federation of Labor have thrown their combined support into negotiations involving the Heat and Frost Insulators and the Labourers' Union.

"The building trades unions are concerned that these negotiations have dragged on too long and have pledged unanimous support to the unions, in a last-ditch effort to reach an agreement without a confrontation," the council and federation announced Thursday in a joint statement.

According to the statement, the presidents and secretaries of the council and federation will sit in "on the talks" to lend their support to the Heat and Frost Insulators and Laborers' Union.

"However, in order that there be no misunderstanding, it must be clearly understood that the building trades' and federation's position is that time is running out and these negotiations cannot be allowed to drag on any further.

"A further meeting of representatives of all building trades unions has been arranged for Wednesday, and unless agreements are reached by that time, the construction unions in the province of B.C. will be forced to take appropriate action," the statement said.

B.C. Hospital Strike Nearing Settlement

Representatives of striking stationary engineers at B.C. hospitals gave approval Friday to an agreement which could end a strike which began last Monday.

Ed Callan, international representative of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said the agreement must now be signed by the B.C. Hospitals Association. The labor relations council of that body meets on Monday.

The tentative settlement was reached Thursday after hard negotiation on Wednesday and Thursday.

Callan said it was signed Thursday and submitted to membership representatives from all 16 hospitals involved on Friday. It was accepted by them.

The move to end the strike of 138 steam plant engineers came at a time when a handful of the hospitals involved were very low on fuel required for heating and cooking.

However, the hazard was averted when a tentative agreement was being ironed out on Thursday.

"We have given permission for them (fuel delivery trucks) to take in one-week supplies of oil to see these hospitals over until Monday at least," said Callan.

Canadian Champ Trailing

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Spain (CP) — Duncan Suttles of Vancouver drew his fourth-round match with Vlastimil Hort of Czechoslovakia in the fourth round Friday of the 23-round inter-zonal world chess tournament.

The draw gave Suttles, former Vancouver Island champion, two points in the standings, 1½ points behind co-leaders Tudev Ujtumen of Mongolia and Robert Fischer of the United States.

Ujtumen used an English opening to win a draw with Svetozar Gligoric of Yugoslavia in their match Friday. Fischer defeated Jan Pilic of Czechoslovakia in 40 moves.

Ex-Victorian Succeeds Commodore

HALIFAX (CP) — Capt. Douglas Learoyd of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria will succeed Commodore Bruce Oland of Halifax as senior naval reserve adviser effective Jan. 4, 1971, it was announced here Friday.

Learoyd now is commanding officer of HMCS Discovery, the naval reserve unit in Vancouver. He was executive officer of HMCS Malahat in Victoria.

B.C. Bears Century Markers

Bonus Babies

British Columbia intends to honor all babies born in the province next year by issuing them special certificates, B.C.'s centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace said Friday in an interview.

"We are asking that every church bell in the province peal in B.C.'s second century at midnight, Dec. 31," he said.

He emphasized he had met with more than 200 centennial committees throughout the province and every one of them plans some form of celebration to start the centennial year.

* * *

"This will be done in a variety of ways from lighting bonfires to breaking out of the B.C. Centennial 71 flag," he said.

In Victoria the celebrations will be held New Year's Eve at the Causeway and in front of the legislative buildings.

He said that 1971 will be a year in which "we all will have the opportunity to give thanks for the privilege of being Canadians and British Columbians."

Next year marks the entry of B.C. into Confederation, the sixth province to do so at the time.

He said B.C. can proudly claim title to more centennial celebrations in 22 years than any other place.

He noted four previous 100-year markers — in 1849 the founding of Vancouver Island as a British colony; in 1958 the founding of the B.C. mainland as a colony; in 1966 the unification of the two colonies, and 1967 the founding of Confederation.

* * *

Wallace said that among many other centennial events, there would be a presentation of 15-foot totem poles to all provincial and territorial capitals, and also one to Ottawa.

"The totem poles are now being carved by our native carvers," he said.

CRYSTAL BALLS JUST DON'T SEEM TO GRAB US

We read a good deal about advertising research and are frequently reminded of some mystical incantation—figures mysteriously projected, multiplied, divided, contorted to form a supposedly attractive story.

Crabs for Lots

One of the disadvantages of buying a new home as against an old one is the fact that the lot is so often treeless; the speculative builder seems to take a delight in bulldozing all the trees off his development, probably so he can get a clear run at his building operation. Against the freshness and modernity of the new home, the new owner must start from scratch to landscape his property.

Trees of some sort are a must, of course, but selecting suitable trees for a small lot isn't easy. The less space there is available, the more carefully the tree must be chosen.

Yesterday I gave you the names and descriptions of some smallish trees suitable for specimen planting in the front lawn or elsewhere in a small garden; today I would like to carry on and suggest a few more.

* * *

I think my own favorites among the small trees are the flowering crabapples — the ornamental kinds, grown for their blossoms and foliage effects rather than for their fruit. The range of varieties available nowadays is as great, if not greater, than in the Japanese flowering cherries.

One group alone of ornamental crabs — the Rosyblooms — offers over twenty varieties, all developed originally from a wild crabapple found growing in the Tian Shan mountains which divide Russian Turkestan from Western China. One of these, the Almey Rosybloom crab, was selected as Canada's Centennial tree in 1967. Another called Kelsey, with fully double blossoms like little pink rosebuds, is Manitoba's Centennial tree.

Almey is a vigorous tree growing to about 15 feet in height, with strong, spreading branches and a nicely rounded head. The leaves are purplish red when they first unfold, later turning green with a bronzy cast. The blossoms are borne profusely, deep carmine in the bud stage, opening to a good clear red with a white star in the centre of each bloom.

* * *

Royalty is another Rosybloom crabapple, this one with purple leaves and pink blossoms. Sutherland, born and bred in Saskatoon, has dark reddish-bronze leaves, bright red blossoms and small dark red berries which hang on nearly all winter, attracting many birds. Strathmore, from Alberta, has an upright, columnar form rather like a miniature Lombardy popular, fifteen feet tall but only four feet wide and with reddish foliage and scarlet blossoms.

Hard to find but a real gem for the small garden is the ornamental crabapple Malus ioensis flore plena, usually sold under the name Bechtel's Crab. This one puts on height at a snail's pace and is unlikely to grow more than 14 feet tall even after 20 years. The blossoms are fully double and sweetly fragrant.

Red Jade is a semi-weeping crab blooming in apple-blossom pink, and a real delight in early winter when each pendant branch is a bejewelled with hundreds of tiny bright red berries.

* * *

Malus floribunda hillieri, a 12-foot, late-flowering crab, blooms so profusely that you can't see the branches through its cloud of pink semi-double blossoms.

An English-bred crab, Malus purpurea aldenhamensis, has purple-tinted leaves that deepen in color with the onset of autumn, and a Chinese crabapple, Malus yunanensis, dies royally in scarlet and gold, leaving vast numbers of tiny scarlet fruits which keep the birds well occupied well into the winter.

None of the ornamental crabs bears fruit large enough to attract small boys. Boys, I might mention, are the most persistent and destructive pest of the edible crabapple tree!

ARTHUR HOPPE

Son of Horatio Alger

Once upon a time there was a young man named Horatio Alger who lived in a country suffering under a Great Depression.

Times were terrible. Horatio couldn't find a job. He had to share a run-down flat with 10 other unemployed bums. They wore odd, cast-off clothes. They had no soap, no razor blades, no privacy and not much hope.

* * *

And all they had to eat were beans — day after day.

"But I shall persevere!" said Horatio grimly. "I shall persevere so that my son will have a better life. He will have a decent home, decent clothes, decent food and a decent job. He shall never have to live like this."

And Horatio persevered.

He found a job lifting bags and toting bales for 20 cents an hour, 12 hours a day. He suffered. He persevered.

* * *

He formed a union. He called a strike. The police clubbed him on the head. The Establishment scorned him as "an anarchist" and "a troublemaker." He suffered. But he persevered.

"I must do my part to reform society and make this a better world," he said. And he did.

Thanks in part to his efforts, times changed. Minimum wages, old age pensions, unemployment insurance and the eight-hour day came into being. Prosperity gradually returned.

* * *

At last Horatio's suffering and perseverence were rewarded. Like most of his generation he now had a decent home, decent clothes, decent food, a decent job, two cars in the garage and chicken every Sunday.

And he had a son, Horatio Junior.

"It was all worth it," said Horatio proudly and happily as he watched the lad grow up. "To know that he will never have to undergo what I underwent."

* * *

Junior, as sons inevitably will, grew up. "What, Dad," he asked one day, "should I make the goal of my life?"

"Why, son," replied Horatio with some surprise, "the goal of life, of course, is to get a decent job so that you can have a decent home, decent clothes, decent food, two cars in the garage and chicken every Sunday."

"But I've already got all that," said Junior. And a week later he dropped out.

Junior joined a commune and lived in a run-down flat with 10 other unemployed bums. They wore odd, cast-off clothes. They had no soap, razor blades or privacy and, in conformity with their Zorastrian religion, they ate nothing but beans — day after day.

The police clubbed them on the head. The Establishment scorned them as "anarchists" and "trouble-makers." But Junior persevered.

* * *

"I must do my part," he said, "to reform society and make this a better world."

"But why, son?" cried Horatio, wringing his hands. "Why?"

"The trouble with you, Dad," said his son sadly, "is that you don't understand the finer things in life."

Moral: Cheer up. Our grandchildren will be just like us.

Marilyn Beck's Hollywood

Alfred Hitchcock, with one more picture to go on his Universal contract, is searching hard for the right script. There's still a bad taste in the famed director's mouth from his less-than-outstanding Topaz. What he'd really like is another Psycho. At age 71 Hitchcock is still as much the master of his team as ever.

Topaz actor John Roper still recalls walking in to meet Mr. H shortly after he'd been cast for the movie. "Young man, if you want to be in my film," said the inimitable Hitchcock, "the first thing you'll do is get rid of your long hair." Hitchcock didn't take any chances that his order would be ignored. "He arranged for the scissoring," Roper remembers. "And took the first cut himself, just to be sure it would be done."

* * *

Efram Zimbalist claims he's looking so fit these days because of the new lovely he's dating and the health foods he's eating . . . Lola Falana's been visiting Don Mitchell on the Ironside set . . . Dean Martin's watching his booze consumption these days, on the advice of doctors, I'm told. And if that wasn't difficult enough, poor old Dino is trying to cut down on cigarettes at the same time . . . Bill Cosby's acting insecure about the pickup of his NBC show.

* * *

Young Rebels lead Rick Ely has quite a thing going these days with actress Linda Smith. Screen Gems and RCA Victor have made strong noises, however, about the fact he should retain his bachelor's button and his single-guy appeal with fans. Rick's not about to rebel. "I'm not in a marrying mood, anyway," he said.

* * *

Raquel Welch and husband Pat Curtis have become homeowners in a seaside area some 65 miles down the road from Hollywood. The big appeal, they say, is that it's smog free down there. And when I mentioned the move to Frank Gorshin, he pointed out, "You may laugh at Raquel for wanting to leave the smog, but remember her lung capacity is greater than ours."

* * *

Michael Tolan, the fellow who plays Hal Holbrook's aide on The Senator, jetted back to his native New York as soon as shooting on that series ended. Mike was living in a San Fernando Valley hotel while the Universal offering was in production, on his own domestically the past year since his wife, Rosemary Forsythe left him in favor of David Janssen. Michael has been pretty much the forgotten man this past season with all the attention Holbrook's garnered, but he looks forward to one particular episode of the Senator, airing in February which, he says, "is all my show." He's frankly skeptical that the Senator will return next season. "I just figure it is too good, and you know what happens to good shows."

* * *

Robert Aldrich kept it a secret during filming of The Grissom Gang, but now he'll tell the world that Kim Darby wore a real honest-to-goodness $250,000 diamond necklace during movie filming. The insurance company asked him to hold back the news till now. Robbers and all that, you know.

* * *

Today's a mighty fine day for Pearl Bailey. She starts taping her one-hour variety show which is slated to hit the ABC airwaves next January.

* * *

Clint Eastwood drops a note from Carmel, Calif., where he's been wrapping up Play Misty for Me, that directing a film isn't as easy as he thought it would be. The problem, says Clint, is that he's acting in Misty as well as directing. "It's stimulating to direct. And, of course, I still love acting. But doing them both at once sometimes makes me feel my brains are like a plate of scrambled eggs. I'll never take on both jobs at the same time again!"

SYDNEY HARRIS

A Hunger For Heroes

Most of what we think is the North American penchant for sports is really a hunger for heroes. We are much less interested in the game itself than in the feats of individual stars.

I thought of this while watching some professional tennis matches last month. The doubles matches were scheduled for the tail-end of the evening, and half the large audience went home before they started.

Yet, as everyone who knows the game will admit, doubles is far superior to singles, both for playing and for watching.

* * *

It calls for more precision, more co-ordination, more strategy, more intelligence, and more versatility. Many of the finest singles champions have been little better than mediocre in doubles.

But the viewing public doesn't care about all that. It wants to see a smashing duel that depends almost entirely on strength and service ability — the big serve, the overhead kill, that dominate the singles game.

So much so, in fact, that tennis officials may soon change the serving rules to equalize the contest and make it more interesting and complex.

* * *

Much of what passes for sports enthusiasm is actually a kind of Walter Mitty fantasizing — the male spectators identify with some individual star, just as boys used to identify with the hero in a Western film serial. The game itself is only a vehicle for the day-dream of glory.

And this public attitude is bad for any team game, where victory depends more upon the collective effort of the group than upon any single act of derring-do.

* * *

When a player gets bigger than his team, then the beauty of the collective enterprise is often sacrificed to showmanship, and the game itself degenerates from a sport to a spectacle.

One of the reasons that so many prominent athletes have been openly contemptuous of the viewing public (and of the sports commentators as well) has been this puerile glorification of the personality, with no real recognition of the combined talents and skills necessary for victory.

* * *

The subtlety and complexity of modern football, for instance, eludes most of the spectators, who see only the end-product — the glorious touchdown run by a "star."

The next best thing to learning how to play a game is learning how to watch it; and we are not only not participators, we are hardly knowledgeable spectators.

If we were, doubles would not have been scheduled for the tail-end of the evening, nor would the audience have trooped out when the singles heroes retired from the court.

"Sorry, fans. Brophy won the toss and elected to go home."

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's answer — The old radio "hero" with a father named Sam, mother Alice, sister Mary and buddy Hommer Brown was Henry Aldrich and each show began with mom calling, "Henry! Henry Aldrich!" and son replying, "Coming, mother." Wow.

Today's question concerns a program many radio nuts consider was the best — I Love a Mystery. For the weekend, provide the last names of Jack, Doc and Reggie, their detective agency, their theme and the creator of the show. It's tough, so you should be satisfied to get four out of six. Answers Tuesday.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

If, from time to time in your leisure moments you are in a habit of pondering on life, it may have struck you that one of the most thwarting of all situations occurs when you have enough tricks to make your contract but can't cash them because of entry troubles.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 ♡
Pass	4 ♡	All pass

Opening lead: King of clubs

Let's say West leads the K-A-Q of clubs and you ruff the third one, East showing up with the singleton jack of clubs and then discarding two spades.

This is a most delightful hand, you say to yourself as you start drawing the trumps. However, East shows out on the second round and the picture changes somewhat. You still have ten tricks, but if you draw all West's trumps you will have no entry back to your hand to cash the jack of diamonds. Alternatively, if you try to cash dummy's diamonds, there is grave danger of a ruff.

Like Sherlock Holmes, you assemble the facts. West passed as dealer and has already shown up with five clubs to the A-K-Q-10. He certainly cannot have the king of spades, and this opens up an interesting possibility. As a matter of act, it means the contract is a lead-pipe cinch.

You draw West's remaining trumps, discarding the ace of spades from dummy. Then you cash the A-K-Q of diamonds and lead the six of spades.

By discarding the ace of spades you have promoted East's king, but equally you have promoted the queen. And East cannot avoid giving you the lead, either by returning a spade or by leading a diamond to your jack.

Northern Link

Road Route Turns Inland

The provincial highways department has opted in favor of an inland route for the extension of the Island Highway between Port Hardy and Kelsey Bay.

It announced this week that tenders will be called early in 1971 on the first 5.02 miles of the next phase in highway development for the northern Island.

The proposed section of road will join the present highway between Port Hardy and Beaver Cove approximately 15 miles north of Beaver Cove and run south along the east side of the Nimpkish River, ending just past the north end of Nimpkish Lake.

* * *

Official plans have not yet been announced, but it is expected that from that point the highway will continue south along Nimpkish Lake until it joins up with a logging road leading to Gold River.

It would then run southeast along the Nimpkish River and across the Davie River before turning and moving northeast along Schoen Lake and the Adam River to join current Island Highway just south of its end at Kelsey Bay.

* * *

Neville Shanks, editor and publisher of the North Island Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Port Hardy, said Upper Island residents were not especially concerned with which route is taken by the new highway.

"We've been told the interior route will be about 19 miles longer than the coast road would have been," he said, "but it will be going through a flat valley and will be relatively straight.

"So when you compare this with the winding nature of the other road, this one may be considerably faster.

* * *

"It will certainly be much less expensive."

Shanks said the coast route would have required 27 bridges.

The Gazette has been carrying a front-page box each week since the beginning of 1970 reminding the Social Credit government of its longstanding promise that the highway will be completed.

"We started in the beginning of the year with (Municipal Affairs Minister) Dan Campbell's promise that tenders would be called early in spring, then he said it would be summer and then it was going to be fall."

The box in the Gazette now reads: "Since Dan Campbell's road promises are worthless, we go higher. Speaking in Nanaimo in mid-1969, Premier Bennett said construction of the road would be started 'next year.' The end of next year is now 50 days away."

Shanks said he does not know what the box will read next week now that it has been officially announced tenders will be called next year.

A highways department spokesman said the tenders would be called "shortly after the new year" and work would begin as soon as weather conditions allowed the contractor to get into the area.

McGeer Speech

Better Travel Plan Outlined

NANAIMO—A plan for an integrated Vancouver Island transport service, involving the use of the E and N right of way was suggested by Pat McGeer, B.C. Liberal leader, during a Nanaimo meeting Thursday.

McGeer, speaking at Nanaimo Liberals' annual meeting at Nat Bailey's Villa, said that key to the plan was "recovery of the use of the E and N right-of-way, either outright of under a use agreement."

He stressed the importance of better transportation and communications in boosting future industrial and commercial growth on Vancouver Island.

"Without a larger commercial base, the Island's biggest export will continue to be its young people."

* * *

He felt that the Island would need either a "massive freeway" from Victoria to Courtenay or an alternative method of moving goods and people.

"You cannot win the freeway race," he said. "That is why we need alternatives in addition to freeways. It is no good building them after our highways have choked up."

McGeer suggested that if alternatives were built now, a different pattern of transport, different habits and attitudes could be created for the future.

His plan for an Island transportation system would centre on a transit interchange near Cedar or Cassidy. A suggested Gabriola Island ferry terminal would be connected to the interchange by a rapid transit and car expressway bridge. The Gabriola terminal would replace the one at Departure Bay, cutting the time of the present journey to the Mainland.

* * *

He said the interchange would consist of bus and rail terminals, a freight distribution centre and an airport which would be planned to enable it to become the Island's main air terminal in the future.

"From the interchange would run a high speed rail service for both passengers and freight, providing service to all major Island communities."

Other points of the plan, which McGeer made, involved a rapid rail service to Patricia Bay airport and Swartz Bay terminal and one to downtown Victoria.

He believed that a "use agreement" might be reached over the E and N right-of-way but he would be "prepared to recommend expropriation if necessary.

* * *

He also stressed that such a system would not pay for itself from the start and felt it should be subsidized as were PGE, CPR, CNR and B.C. Hydro rail systems.

"If we can subsidize the transport of coal and cattle, lumber and machines by rail, surely we can manage equal treatment for people," he commented.

Autumn Showcase

Campbell River Poet Wins Nanaimo Prize

NANAIMO — Jan Bergquist of Campbell River has won first prize in an Autumn Showcase poetry contest. Showcase is a nine-day Nanaimo arts festival which ends Sunday.

It was the first time that Nanaimo regional arts council included a writer's contest in the events.

E. Blanche Norcross of Nanaimo was first prize winner in the prose section.

Runners up in the poetry section were: Anne Horsfield, Errington, second; Lavina Barr, Campbell River, third; honourable mentions went to Sue Pritchard and Mrs. T. E. Alcorn, both of RR 2 Nanaimo and Mae Worth, Duncan.

In the prose section, runners up were: Ruby Nold, North Wellington, second; Harry Donald, Nanaimo, third; honourable mentions went to G. M. Weld, Duncan, Mildred McLeod, RR 2, Nanaimo, and J. Egoyan, Victoria.

Winning selection were compiled into a book, titled Troubadour which will be distributed at final Showcase events.

Earle Frood, editor of a monthly arts council newsletter, said the interest in writing seemed to indicate a need for fostering and encouraging efforts.

He said that was a function of the arts council and suggested the publication be repeated during the year to give writers an outlet for their work.

Campbell River Decision

Nunns Creek Park Wins As Project for Centennial

CAMPBELL RIVER — Part of Nunns Creek Park will be developed as Campbell River's centennial project.

The project was decided at special meeting of Campbell River council this week.

Ald. Charles Saults and Ald. Herb Osing will review plans for development with parks and recreation officials. A report will be made to council on a suitable plan for the area.

Previously the centennial committee suggested a fountain as a project but that was rejected by council at its last meeting and the committee was asked to consider other possibilities.

The committee subsequently proposed the Nunn Creek development. It also suggested a second choice — an open-sided Indian longhouse which has been urged for some time by a local group headed by Mrs. Dagmar Christensen.

* * *

After the decision was made, Mrs. Christensen said: "I think I will take the plan into hibernation for a while. But it will come sometime, you will see."

Council gave three readings to a bylaw which will permit a referendum to be held Dec. 12 on construction of an arena-recreation complex.

Residents in Campbell River, Oyster River, North Campbell River, Quinsam Heights and Quadra Island areas would share costs on an assessment basis, not exceeding two mills for a $350,000 total.

A public subscription drive to raise an additional $100,000 has reached the $85,000 mark.

* * *

Council approved a recommendation from Mayor Kenneth McDonald that a sanitary sewer extension to a subdivision bounded by Birch, Evergreen and Alder streets be granted to Discovery Developments Ltd.

Aldermen also agreed to waive a notice of motion in order to give three readings to a bylaw amending an existing sanitary sewer system charges bylaw whereby users will face a rate increase of 25 per cent, commencing Jan. 1, addition to a similar increase in frontage tax.

The move will result in householders, in the spcified area of the municipality served by the sewer system, having their monthly rates hiked from $2.25 to $2.83, with corresponding increases in all other categories.

* * *

Money from the increase in rates and frontage tax will permit the sanitary sewer system to take over the property, with payments extending over the next five years.

* * *

A request by the garbage collection contractors for an increase on rates from $1.20 to $1.50 per month was turned down by council.

McDonald said that householder were charged $1.50 per month with the extra 30 cents going towards administrative costs and maintenance of the garbage dump.

If the contractors obtained an increase it would only have to be borne by the householders, he said.

* * *

A request for rezoning of land in the Hilchey Road area of Willow Point from residential to light industrial was rejected on a recommendation of the planning advisory board.

Ald. Sandra Baikie said that the people in the area concerned were opposed to the idea.

Saults and Osing suggested that the matter by delayed until a further survey had been made into rezoning needs in Willow Point.

Mill Will Require Operating Permit

COURTENAY — A shake mill on the Dyke Road between Courtenay and Comox, which brought complaints from residents about smoke and ash, will have to seek a permit for operation.

The residents' complaint was taken up with the firm, which said it was too costly to haul away the material burned daily.

The matter was then placed in the hands of the health unit.

At a meeting of the Upper Island Union Board of Health in Courtenay Thursday, a resolution was passed, stating: "The operation carried on by a local shake mill is deemed to be an offensive business, and the appropriate section of the Health Act will be implemented to deal with it."

Dr. G. A. Gibson, health unit director, said this means a permit would be required, which would probably be held up until the offensive smoke situation was remedied.

Building Drops In Duncan

DUNCAN — October building permits issued from city hall amounted to $21,900, as against $27,398 during the same period last year. Ten-month total this year is $470,125 for 76 permits, and last year it totalled, $1,591,480 for 80 permits.

Accident Victims Critical

One was Wayne Joseph Renshaw, 17, of Squamish, who suffered severe injuries Monday night when he apparently was struck by a car which went into a phone pole in Langford, and was not discovered until almost four hours later.

The other was Susan Costain, 18, of 6961 Central Saanich, injured early last Sunday in a three-car Saanich accident that took one life.

Britain's First Cough-In

Is Anyone Listening?

LUTON, England (UPI) — Some coughs are low and deep. Some rumble. Others come rasping out sandpaper dry. But Friday at the Vauxhall automobile works all of them joined together in a hacking chorus of protest.

* * *

The plant's employees, 1,500 strong, held Britain's — and perhaps history's — first "cough-in," to show their displeasure at a management decision to lay off 325 Vauxhall draughtsmen.

Throughout the day coughing high and low, loud and soft, echoed through the building. It followed other protests — including a day of silence and a day of whistling.

Plant technician's union spokesman Ivan Clark said he thought such measures, even if unsuccessful, worth the effort. "We are making our own highly personalized form of protest against a harsh management decision," he said.

* * *

"But so far our department heads have totally ignored our activities and carried on as if we were behaving normally," he said. "That's the frustrating part."

Aid to Israel Includes Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's forthcoming request for some $500 million in further military aid to Israel will include provisions for about 18 A-4 Skyhawk fighter-bombers, the Washington Post says.

Dead Boy Identified By Police

Dead is Robert Hilborn, of 3924 Woodhaven Drive.

The boy was killed when a car of which he was the sole occupant, ran away in the driveway of his home. In trying to get out of the car he was caught between the door and body of the car when it hit a tree.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hilborn.

Control Centre Urged for Centennial Grant

Opt for Environment

By IAN STREET

Colonist Legislature Report

VANCOUVER — The bulk of the federal centennial grant to British Columbia should be spent on establishment of an environmental control centre, says Resources Minister Ray Williston.

"I'm saying this bluntly," Williston told delegates attending the provincial Social Credit convention in the Bayshore Inn. "We need a form of environmental control more than anything else. This is my plea. There is no better way of marching into our second 100 years in confederation than by having the provincial and federal governments combine forces to establish an environmental control centre."

He said the entire 10 million dollars federal centennial grant wouldn't do all that is required, but a substantial portion would provide the necessary physical structure which he suggested should be located on the university endowment lands at Point Grey adjoining the University of British Columbia campus.

Williston later told reporters the proposed centre would carry out intensive monitoring and testing of all aspects of the environment. He said polluters would pay for soil, water and air tests thus recouping a substantial

Murder Charged

Three Held In Death Of Cabbie

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Two members of Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt, aged 20 and 18, and an unemployed 19-year-old Victoria youth will appear this morning in Victoria Provincial Court to face a charge of non-capital murder in the death last Tuesday of taxi driver Gerald Mulholland.

Victoria police announced the charge Friday afternoon.

In making the announcement, police said the two CFB men apparently were not acquainted with Mulholland, 37, of 917 Bewdley, a father of seven children who was a CFB Esquimalt seaman and occasionally drove in the evenings for Owl Taxi Ltd.

* * *

Insp. William Andrews, head of the police detective division, said the motive "definitely was robbery."

Andrews called the arrests the result of teamwork by police department members that beats anything he has seen during his more than 29 years on the force.

An autopsy Wednesday disclosed Mulholland bled to death from a single wound by a sharp instrument which severed an artery in the back of his neck.

* * *

The two women called police at 7:47 p.m. Tuesday. Before that, Mulholland was last seen at about 7 p.m. at the front entrance of the Churchill Hotel, 1140 Government.

Andrews said the arrests followed "a round-the-clock investigation by members of the detective, patrol and traffic divisions."

He said: "In my 29 and a half years in the department, I don't think I've ever seen an investigation worked on so hard by so many members with so much esprit de corps in the whole force."

Police added they were "supported in their initial investigation by the whole-hearted co-operation of CFB Esquimalt base security, RCMP and other police departments."

Bennett:

No Easy Solution To Ills

Colonist Legislature Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett called on his party Friday not to press the government too hard for what he called "patent medicine solutions" to the economic ills besetting British Columbia.

He again indicated some tax-changes might be in store in 1971 when he said at the next session the government will introduce some measures which will be "temporarily unpopular."

Bennett said in his keynote address to the annual Social Credit convention, which winds up tonight at the Bayshore Inn, that the government's responsibility is to ensure the well being of B.C.s people "not only in the short term but in the long term as well."

* * *

The premier's comment on patent medicine solutions apparently referred to a resolution scheduled for later convention debate which calls for abolition of all strikes and lockouts in the province.

"There must be checks and balances," Bennett said, "and countries that have tried to find simple answers to complex problems have found that in the end they have created more problems.

"Instead of legal strikes, they find they must deal with union members without leaders, and that makes for anarchism and chaos."

He said Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, who has been kept busy this year settling several major labor disputes, is the "best minister of labor this province or this country ever had."

* * *

Then in an apparent rebuke to over-zealous party members seeking tougher laws in the labor management field, Bennett added: "Good troops in the trenches sometimes have to learn the lesson that they should keep their heads) down a bit, because if they raise it up it will be shot to bits forthwith."

Bennett said this year has been the most difficult for the B.C. economy since Social Credit came to power in 1952. He blamed the federal government for deliberately setting out to curb inflation by creating unemployment and said the Liberals should be

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Defence Minister Hafez al-Assad, fervid Arab nationalist who calls for all-out war with Israel, staged a military coup in Syria late Friday, a spokesman for the ousted leadership said.

●

Assad, 40-year-old air marshal, overthrew the Marxist leadership of the governing Baath party and arrested President Noureddin Atassi and Maj.-Gen. Salah Jadid, the party's assistant secretary-general, the spokesman told a news conference. He said the coup took place a day after an emergency Baath congress adopted a resolution firing Assad.

* * *

Leftist Premier Dr. Youssef Zayyen also was arrested, the spokesman said, and Assad seized control of the state radio and television and two government newspapers.

Assad, a moderate in the socialist Baath party, has blamed Jadid's Marxists for Syria's crushing defeat by Israel in the 1967 war. He also accused Jadid of pursuing Marxist policies at the expense of the economy and security of this nation of six million people.

* * *

Reliable sources said agents of Syria's air force intelligence service rounded up Assad's opponents and set up a guard at key military and government buildings.

They said there was no outward sign of tension in Damascus, capital of Syria. Assad made his move after a month-long government crisis that grew from the power struggle between Assad's military wing of the Baath party and Jadid's leftists.

Guerrilla Bank Job Nets $6.5 Million

MONTEVIDEO (AP)—Eight Tupamaro guerrillas — four men and four women — forced their way into Uruguay's biggest bank Friday and escaped with $6 million worth of jewels and $48,000 in cash, police said.

The early-morning robbery took two hours. Police were not aware of it until one of the bank employees managed to free himself.

FLQ Hunt Report:

Police Beaten By Cubbyhole

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says that a cubbyhole in a walk-in clothes closet at the apartment where police arrested Bernard Lortie last week may have enabled three Front de Liberation du Quebec kidnappers to elude capture.

The claim was made Friday by a high-ranking police official, the Gazette says.

"All four of those wanted for the kidnapping and killing of labor minister Pierre Laporte were in the apartment," the officer said.

* * *

When police opened the door of the Queen Mary Road apartment they came face-to-face with Lortie, the 19-year-old student who was the key witness at the opening of the coroner's inquest into Laporte's death last Saturday.

Lortie was taken to police headquarters along with a young girl found in the apartment with him, the newspaper says.

Police made a room-by-room check of the apartment, placed a guard at the front door then "went to eat, returning later with members of the identification section," the officer said.

* * *

The hideaway was located shortly afterwards and the fingerprints of all four suspects were found.

The other prints were those of brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Francis Simard, all named in warrants as persons

PM Takes Off

Dec. 7 Notice Served

Strike Deadline Confronts Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers served a Dec. 7 strike deadline notice Friday on Ford Motor Co. as its General Motors members began voting on a new three-year contract.

A 2,000-member local union at a stamping plant at West Mifflin, Pa., was the first to vote on the new GM contract and reported overwhelming approval. Some other locals scheduled weekend voting.

* * *

UAW Vice-President Ken Bannon called for a resumption of negotiations at Ford for Nov. 23 and said if there was no settlement by Dec. 7 there would be a strike against that car-maker, hit by a seven-week walkout in 1967.

The UAW called its Chrysler Corp. negotiators back for Nov. 23, but did not set a strike deadline.

* * *

Ford and Chrysler were given strike immunity while the UAW went on strike at GM in a continuing eight-week walkout to win a pattern-setting agreement for the industry. The GM pact lifts the average wage above the $5-an-hour level.

It is estimated that at the end of the third year, the pay of car production workers will be between $12,000 and $13,000 a year.

Minnesota Kidnap Plot Fails

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Police said they broke up Friday an apparent plot by revolutionaries to kidnap Minnesota Gov. Harold Le Vander, hijack an airliner and force the release of Angela Davis and other prisoners held in United States jails.

* * *

Police said details of the apparent plot were found in notes in the pockets of a man they arrested at 3:50 a.m. for attempted bank robbery.

They arrested Ronald L. Reed, 20, on warrants from Omaha, Neb., charging him with attempted robbery, and attempted murder. He also was reported wanted in St. Paul for bank robbery.

The plan included the possible kidnapping of the governor and also Rosalie Butler, St. Paul city commissioner, the police said.

Police armed with shotguns guarded Mrs. Butler's home late Thursday and early Friday, preceding the Minneapolis arrest. Armed police also guarded the governor's mission, next door to the Butler home, on fashionable Summit Avenue in St. Paul.

* * *

Deputy Police Chief Joseph Rusinko said the notes related how the man arrested and unknown accomplices were to have obtained reservations on a United Air Lines plane and, after boarding, would have demanded release of the prisoners. One plan would have been to kidnap the governor or some other public official to ensure boarding the plane.

The plan, police said, was to demand the release from Twin Cities jails of Constance L. Trimble, held in the shooting death of a St. Paul policeman, Gary Hogan, 15, awaiting trial in the bombing of Dayton's department store in St. Paul, and a man wanted in Omaha.

Police said the demand would have been to put the prisoners on board the plane within three hours, with the plane then moving on to free other "political prisoners."

Hornets Edge Tyees, 2-1 In Colonist Cup Final

By KEVAN HULL

"We're number one!" was again the cry of Mount View Hornets after Friday night's Colonist Cup final played before 1599 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

Hornets, the Inter-High School Soccer League champions, won the playoff trophy for the fourth straight year by defeating Victoria Tyees, 2-1, in a dramatic and outstanding match.

Norm Baker scored both the goals for the winners, who had to come from behind for the second straight year to defeat Tyees. They won, 5-4, in overtime last year.

GOALKEEPER HURT

Tyees, who lost their regular goalkeeper, Rick Turner, with a leg injury after only eight minutes, took the lead in the 35th minute. Bobby Duncan broke away from a defender to send a low shot to the right corner past Loris Corletto, the league's leading goalkeeper.

Hornet supporters did not have to wait long for the equalizer, Baker taking a pass in the clear from Marvin Diercks and giving replacement goalkeeper Hans de Goede no chance with a low drive to the right corner at 38 minutes.

WINNING GOAL

Baker finished off a fine play from captain Bob Bolitho and Diercks with another low shot to the right corner to complete scoring at 71 minutes.

Hornets then had to survive a hit crossbar and needed two fine plays by Corletto before Bolitho was able to receive the Colonist Cup.

Victoria pressed through the final 12 minutes as Hornets dropped back on defence. Corletto cut off the angle when Duncan broke in alone in the 79th minute, survived a shaky moment when scoring ace Stuart Taylor rattled the ball off the crossbar and got the ball just before it crossed the line after a deflected shot hit the goalpost.

SHOWER TREATMENT

"That was the best game he played for us all year," happy coach Joe Bekkers said of Corletto after tasting the customary shower treatment of the winning coach.

"They took the play away from us in midfield in the first half. I thought we would be two goals up and you had better believe I was a bit worried."

Bekkers' crew now meets Cowichan for the Vancouver Island title next Friday at 8 p.m. at Royal Athletic Park and then plays host to the B.C. High School Soccer Tournament on Nov. 26, 27 and 28.

SPECIAL PRAISE

Somewhat shaky on a low shot by Rick Matte a minute after taking over, de Goede came on strongly, making outstanding saves on Bolitho and Joe Poulton midway through the first half.

Then in the second half he kept Tyees within striking range with several fine stops, robbing centre-forward Mike Wilson in particular with a diving stop on the goal line six minutes after Hornets had gone in front.

It was the third meeting between the clubs this season. Tyees handed Hornets their only loss, 3-2, in the first match and Mount View came back with a 2-1 victory.

Hornets are now unbeaten in their last 12 games and have won four straight after a 3-3 draw with Reynolds, the only other time they lost a point.

MOUNT VIEW: Loris Corletto, Leigh Hegan, Brad Clarke, Doug Marshall, Norm Baker, Doug Bisson, Marvin Diercks, Bob Bolitho, Mike Wilson, Joe Poulton, Rick Matte. Reserves — Randy Johnson, Allan Muir, Barry Hilton, Danny Bell, Sam Calantonio.

Business Interests Change Ferguson Ends Retirement

MONTREAL (CP) — Left-winger John Ferguson decided late Friday to return to Montreal Canadiens and said after a meeting with general manager Sam Pollock that he expects to be able to return to the lineup for a National Hockey League game here next Tuesday against California Golden Seals.

* * *

Ferguson, 32, retired Oct. 7, three days before the start of the NHL schedule.

His decision to return came after meetings with Pollock that started Thursday and wound up late Friday.

After Friday's meeting, which lasted three hours, Pollock and Ferguson said in a joint statement the left winger will fulfill the remainder of his two-year contract with the club — a contract he signed last year.

* * *

Ferguson also signed a new pact for the 1971-72 season.

When he announced his retirement, Ferguson said he did so with great reluctance, but he felt that his business interests were too strenuous for him to devote his full time to hockey.

However, he said the situation has changed because of the sale and merger of the company in which he has an interest.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Friday they have traded left winger Brit Selby to St. Louis Blues for former Maple Leaf Bob Baun.

Baun was suspended Thursday by St. Louis.

General-manager Scotty Bowman said then:

"You can say that we just have not been able to solve his personal problems and we have suspended him through the league office."

STARTED WITH LEAFS

Baun began his NHL career with Toronto in 1957 and spent 11 seasons with the Leafs before being drafted by Oakland Seals in 1967.

After one season with the Seals he was traded to Detroit Red Wings.

The Maple Leafs said Baun will play against Boston Bruins tonight in Toronto. Selby is expected to play for St. Louis against Montreal tonight.

UNUSUAL TRADE

Baun wound up with St. Louis last week in an unusual trade after the Red Wings placed him on waivers.

But before Baun could report to the Sabres, Imlach, who coached the Leafs 14 years before being fired two years ago, traded him to St. Louis for veteran defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot and winger Larry Keenan.

WANTED TIME

Baun expressed disappointment in the trade and advised Imlach and Bowman he would not report to St. Louis until he had time to consider his hockey future.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said Friday in a telephone interview from Montreal he had spoken with Baun earlier when the 34-year-old defenceman phoned him in an effort to resolve his problems.

"All he said was that he really didn't know what to do," said Campbell. "There was no way he felt he could protect his family and his business interests without getting time off."

WANTS TO PLAY

Baun, in Detroit when he heard of the trade, said he hopes to play immediately.

"The only thing is, my skates are in St. Louis. They've already been painted blue and gold (the St. Louis colors). I guess Jim Gregory (Leafs' general manager) is making arrangements to fly them in.

"This trade is the first bright thing that's happened to me in a long time," added Baun, who owns a cattle farm in the Caledon Hill area just north of Toronto.

"The family is pretty excited, getting back to old stomping grounds. It's just that the turmoil of the past two weeks has been pretty rugged."

Selby, who came up as a Leaf in 1965-66 and won rookie-of-the-year honors, now finds himself rejected by Toronto for the second time.

He was let go to Philadelphia Flyers in the same expansion draft that took Baun from Toronto to Detroit in 1967. The 25-year-old winger returned to Toronto two years ago in a four-player trade but has not been used regularly this year.

Superstitious Punch Imlach won't have to worry about what to wear Sunday.

While coaching the Toronto Maple Leafs for 11 seasons, Imlach was known for wearing the same clothes as long as his team was winning and changing with each loss.

Since assuming coach-manager duties with Buffalo Sabres, one of the National Hockey League's most recent expansion clubs, Imlach has had to call on his vast store of clothes repeatedly.

But he'll get a chance to wear the same clothes — and a smile — for his club's next game Sunday following Sabres 4-2 victory Friday over the California Golden Seals.

Sabres broke a seven-game losing streak, including three games at home, and moved out of the East Division cellar while stopping a record Seal's streak.

Seals had set a club record Wednesday by taking their fourth straight win but Paul Andrea, a former team member, and a recent acquisition by Imlach, scored the winning goal early in the third period.

Larry Keenan, who also arrived on the Buffalo scene last week, scored the clinching goal and assisted on the first goal, a power-play shot by rookie sensation Gil Perreault, who was celebrating his 20th birthday.

Perreault, with his eighth goal of the season, gave the Sabres a 1-0 first period lead but Seals grabbed the lead in the second period on goals by Gary Jarrett and Gary Croteau.

Imlach also had reason to smile at the performance of goalkeeper Roger Crozier for whom he traded his first draft choice. The former Detroit Red Wing star stopped 34 shots, 13 in the last period.

Vancouver Centennials scored three goals in the third period Friday to trip Kamloops Rockets, 4-2, in a B.C. Junior Hockey League game before 1075 fans in Vancouver.

The victory moved the Centennials to within one point of Victoria Cougars in the Coastal Division. Rockets fell five points behind Okanagan-Division-leading Penticton Broncos, who dumped New Westminster Royals, 6-3, in Penticton.

Rockets continue their road swing tonight when they visit Victoria in an attempt to stop Cougars' home winning streak of eight games. Game time at Memorial Arena is 8:30 p.m.

Selke's Story Differs

OAKLAND (AP) — Frank Selke, out as general manager of California Golden Seals, said Friday: "I neither resigned nor quit."

Charles O. Finley, owner of the National Hockey League team, said earlier that Selke had resigned effective Nov. 10.

Selke said he had refused to sign a new contract offered by Finley, who bought the team last summer. Selke said his current four-year contract still is in force.

OFFERED LESS

The proposed contract was for one year, Selke said, and for "substanitally less" than he received per year under his contract signed in 1967 with the former Seals' owners.

Selke said Finley "has placed me in a position that makes it impossible for me to continue with the Seals."

But, he added, "I have advised him that I expect my existing contract to be honored."

Salmon Derby

A salmon derby, sponsored by the Admiral Budge Sea Cadet Corps, will be held Sunday in Saanich Inlet.

Tickets for the event, available at Hall's Boat House, Anglers' Anchorage Marina and Deep Cove Marina, are $1 each and there will be prizes for non-fishermen as well.

Visitors Edge Hoop Vikings

University of Victoria Vikings were in a foul humor Friday night.

Vikings were tagged with 37 personal fouls and four players fouled out as they lost, 69-71, to Vancouver in an exhibition basketball game at UVic gymnasium.

Vikings trailed, 33-40, at half time but came back twice in the late stages to tie the score. They grabbed possession of the ball three times in the last two minutes but lost it on turnovers on each occasion.

Vancouver, which was handed only 10 personal fouls, was paced by Bob Molinski's 24 points. Tommy Holmes was tops for Vikings with 11 points.

The same two clubs meet tonight at 8 p.m. in UVic gym, preceded by an exhibition game between UVic Jayvees and Vancouver Killarney at 6 p.m.

Vikings Win on Penalty Shots

TORONTO — University of Victoria Vikings edged McMaster University of Hamilton, 4-3, in the opening game of the national collegiate soccer championship Friday at York University.

Tied, 1-1, after 90 minutes of regulation time and 20 minutes of scoreless overtime, the match had to be decided on penalty shots.

McMaster was given five shots first, scoring on two of them while two others went wide and Dave Achurch stopped the other.

On the Vikings' turn, Alan Glenn, Peter Mason and Jim Marshall scored on the first three shots to give Victoria the win.

The Hamilton team took the lead with a first-half goal by Oskar Dalli and kept Victoria scoreless until the 85th minute. Marshall, the inside right, connected with a long shot which went in just under the crossbar to cap a strong Viking attack in the second half against the wind.

Dalli and Bill Millar were McMaster's scorers in the penalty shots.

Vikings meet Loyola University of Montreal this morning with the winner advancing to Sunday's championship match and the loser relegated to the consolation final, also on Sunday.

Memorial University from St. John's, Newfoundland, gained a berth in the final by blanking Laurentian University of Sudbury, 2-0, in an afternoon match. Two goals in the last five minutes of regulation time gave the Maritimes team the victory.

Vikings' leading scorer in their five-game march through the Western Canada Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association tournament in Victoria, Barry Moen, watched the win from the sidelines. Moen received a head injury in Vikings' 1-0 win against Hourigan Kickers Sunday in a Victoria and District Soccer League first-division match.

Strike Gets Closer

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo area is facing the prospect of a strike of 14 men that could put 1,100 out of work.

The strike itself would involve the small group of Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada manning the highly-automated Hooker Chemicals mill.

However, the Harmac pulp mill nearby is dependent on the chemicals produced by Hooker, and sources say it would likely be forced to close. It employs 1,100 members of the same union.

* * *

Such a situation would constitute a turnabout to that which occurred recently. The smaller group was left without work when the Harmac workers and those at several other mills were on strike.

In the current contract dispute, government mediator Gus Leonidas has apparently been unable to effect settlement. His term ended Friday. The 14 men are free to strike once he issues his report.

Mill manager Newton Hopkins said the union had rejected a final three-year contract offer Thursday and that this had been a "last-ditch attempt to stave off a strike."

* * *

He said present wages were $4.04 an hour for processors and $3.49 for senior utility men. He said the offer consisted of a wage and shift differential increase of about 28 per cent over three years.

The contract offer, where money is concerned, is slightly better than that provided the 4,200 union members involved in the recent strike, Hopkins said.

Union officials were not available for comment.

Fishermen Stock Up for Winter

Three members of Nanaimo Indian band start work on catching winter salmon supply from Nanaimo river. Indians are allowed two days a week over a short period to catch fish. They put nets across river and then drag for salmon. Indians say they will smoke fish which will provide many families with winter food. — (Agnes Flett)

Campbell River Decision

Nunns Creek Park Wins As Project for Centennial

CAMPBELL RIVER — Part of Nunns Creek Park will be developed as Campbell River's centennial project.

Ald. Charles Saults and Ald. Herb Osing will review plans for development with parks and recreation officials. A report will be made to council on a suitable plan for the area.

Previously the centennial committee suggested a fountain as a project but that was rejected by council at its last meeting and the committee was asked to consider other possibilities.

* * *

The committee subsequently proposed the Nunn Creek development. It also suggested a second choice — an open-sided Indian longhouse which has been urged for some time by a local group headed by Mrs. Dagmar Christensen.

After the decision was made, Mrs. Christensen said: "I think I will take the plan into hibernation for a while. But it will come sometime, you will see."

Council gave three readings to a bylaw which will permit a referendum to be held Dec. 12 on construction of an arena-recreation complex.

* * *

Residents in Campbell River, Oyster River, North Campbell River, Quinsam Heights and Quadra Island areas would share costs on an assessment basis, not exceeding two mills for a $350,000 total.

A public subscription drive to raise an additional $100,000 has reached the $85,000 mark.

Council approved a recommendation from Mayor Kenneth McDonald that a sanitary sewer extension to a subdivision bounded by Birch, Evergreen and Alder streets be granted to Discovery Developments Ltd.

Aldermen also agreed to waive a notice of motion in order to give three readings to a bylaw amending an existing sanitary sewer system charges bylaw whereby users will face a rate increase of 25 per cent, commencing Jan. 1, addition to a similar increase in frontage tax.

The move will result in householders, in the specified area of the municipality served by the sewer system, having their monthly rates hiked from $2.25 to $2.83, with corresponding increases in all other categories.

* * *

Money from the increase in rates and frontage tax will permit the sanitary sewer system to take over the property, with payments extending over the next five years.

McDonald said that householder were charged $1.50 per month with the extra 30 cents going towards administrative costs and maintenance of the garbage dump.

If the contractors obtained an increase it would only have to be borne by the householders, he said.

* * *

A request for rezoning of land in the Hilchey Road area of Willow Point from residential to light industrial was rejected on a recommendation of the planning advisory board.

Ald. Sandra Baikie said that the people in the area concerned were opposed to the idea.

Autumn Showcase

Campbell River Poet Wins Nanaimo Prize

NANAIMO — Jan Bergquist of Campbell River has won first prize in an Autumn Showcase poetry contest. Showcase is a nine-day Nanaimo arts festival which ends Sunday.

It was the first time that Nanaimo regional arts council included a writer's contest in the events.

E. Blanche Norcross of Nanaimo was first prize winner in the prose section.

Runners up in the poetry section were: Anne Horsfield, Errington, second; Lavina Barr, Campbell River, third; honourable mentions went to Sue Pritchard and Mrs. T. I. Alcorn, both of RR 2 Nanaimo and Mae Worth, Duncan.

In the prose section, runners up were: Ruby Nold, North Wellington, second; Harry Donald, Nanaimo, third; honourable mentions went to G. M. Weld, Duncan; Mildred McLeod, RR 2, Nanaimo, and J. Egoyan, Victoria.

Winning selection were compiled into a book, titled Troubadour which will be distributed at final Showcase events.

Earle Frood, editor of a monthly arts council newsletter, said the interest in writing seemed to indicate a need for fostering and encouraging efforts.

He said that was a function of the arts council and suggested the publication be repeated during the year to give writers an outlet for their work.

Band Plays Tonight At Courtenay

COURTENAY — The world's only two-nation military band will present a free concert tonight in Courtenay.

The North American Air Defence Command Cavalcade of Music Band, with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., will play at 8 p.m. today in G. P. Vanier high school auditorium.

The 85-piece band represents more than 100,000 Canadian and United States servicemen and woman of NORAD who man jet interceptors, ground-to-air missile units and radar sites guarding the continent against air attack.

Mill Will Require Operating Permit

COURTENAY — A shake mill on the Dyke Road between Courtenay and Comox, which brought complaints from residents about smoke and ash, will have to seek a permit for operation.

The residents' complaint was taken up with the firm, which said it was too costly to haul away the material burned daily.

The matter was then placed in the hands of the health unit.

At a meeting of the Upper Island Union Board of Health in Courtenay Thursday, a resolution was passed, stating: "The operation carried on by a local shake mill is deemed to be an offensive business, and the appropriate section of the Health Act will be implemented to deal with it."

Dr. G. A. Gibson, health unit director, said this means a permit would be required, which would probably be held up until the offensive smoke situation was remedied.

Nanaimo Picks Project

The Nanaimo Centennial '71 Committee has $41,000 to work with and the project is expected to be completed by the end of next year.

He said the square would be covered with flagstones and a lawn. A secure foundation would be included so The Bastion could be moved at a later date.

The Native Sons, caretakers of The Bastion which now serves as a museum, have expressed concern about the old building because the timbers on which it is resting are not in good condition.

Road Route Turns Inland

The provincial highways department has opted in favor of an inland route for the extension of the Island Highway between Port Hardy and Kelsey Bay.

It announced this week that tenders will be called early in 1971 on the first 5.02 miles of the next phase in highway development for the northern Island.

The proposed section of road will join the present highway between Port Hardy and Beaver Cove approximately 15 miles north of Beaver Cove and run south along the east side of the Nimpkish River, ending just past the north end of Nimpkish Lake.

* * *

Official plans have not yet been announced, but it is expected that from that point the highway will continue south along Nimpkish Lake until it joins up with a logging road leading to Gold River.

It would then run southeast along the Nimpkish River and across the Davie River before turning and moving northeast along Schoen Lake and the Adam River to join current Island Highway just south of its end at Kelsey Bay.

* * *

Neville Shanks, editor and publisher of the North Island Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Port Hardy, said Upper Island residents were not especially concerned with which route is taken by the new highway.

"We've been told the interior route will be about 19 miles longer than the coast road would have been," he said, "but it will be going through a flat valley and will be relatively straight.

"So when you compare this with the winding nature of the other road, this one may be considerably faster.

* * *

Shanks said the coast route would have required 27 bridges.

The Gazette has been carrying a front-page box each week since the beginning of 1970 reminding the Social Credit government of its long-standing promise that the highway will be completed.

"We started in the beginning of the year with (Municipal Affairs Minister) Dan Campbell's promise that tenders would be called early in spring, then he said it would be summer and then it was going to be fall."

The box in the Gazette now reads: "Since Dan Campbell's road promises are worthless, we go higher. Speaking in Nanaimo in mid-1969, Premier Bennett said construction of the road would be started 'next year.' The end of next year is now 50 days away."

Shanks said he does not know what the box will read next week now that it has been officially announced tenders will be called next year.

A highways department spokesman said the tenders would be called "shortly after the new year" and work would begin as soon as weather conditions allowed the contractor to get into the area.

McGeer Speech

Better Travel Plan Outlined

NANAIMO—A plan for an integrated Vancouver Island transport service, involving the use of the E and N right of way was suggested by Pat McGeer, B.C. Liberal leader, during a Nanaimo meeting Thursday.

McGeer, speaking at Nanaimo Liberals' annual meeting at Nat Bailey's Villa, said that key to the plan was "recovery of the use of the E and N right-of-way, either outright of under a use agreement."

He stressed the importance of better transportation and communications in boosting future industrial and commercial growth on Vancouver Island.

* * *

He felt that the Island would need either a "massive freeway" from Victoria to Courtenay or an alternative method of moving goods and people.

"You cannot win the freeway race," he said. "That is why we need alternatives in addition to freeways. It is no good building them after our highways have choked up."

McGeer suggested that if alternatives were built now, a different pattern of transport, different habits and attitudes could be created for the future.

His plan for an Island transportation system would centre on a transit interchange near Cedar or Cassidy. A suggested Gabriola Island ferry terminal would be connected to the interchange by a rapid transit and car expressway bridge. The Gabriola terminal would replace the one at Departure Bay, cutting the time of the present journey to the Mainland.

* * *

He said the interchange would consist of bus and rail terminals, a freight distribution centre and an airport which would be planned to enable it to become the Island's main air terminal in the future.

"From the interchange would run a high speed rail service for both passengers and freight, providing service to all major Island communities."

Other points of the plan, which McGeer made, involved a rapid rail service to Patricia Bay airport and Swartz Bay terminal and one to downtown Victoria.

He believed that a "use agreement" might be reached over the E and N right-of-way but he would be "prepared to recommend expropriation if necessary.

* * *

He also stressed that such a system would not pay for itself from the start and felt it should be subsidized as were PGE, CPR, CNR and B.C. Hydro rail systems.

"If we can subsidize the transport of coal and cattle, lumber and machines by rail, surely we can manage equal treatment for people," he commented.

Marijuana Case Set for Monday

DUNCAN — Ronald Wesley Hanson, 22, of Duncan, and Ronald Maurice English, 18, of Cowichan Bay, charged with possession of marijuana, have been remanded without plea to Monday.

Both are free on bail of $500 each. They appeared in Duncan Provincial Court in Duncan before Judge Lance Heard.

Building Drops In Duncan

DUNCAN — October building permits issued from city hall amounted to $21,900, as against $27,398 during the same period last year. Ten-month total this year is $470,125 for 76 permits, and last year it totalled, $1,591,480 for 80 permits.

Land Going On Market

NANAIMO (CP) — Great National Land and Investment Corp. Ltd. reported Thursday it plans to market 567 lots, currently valued at $1.86 million, in the next 18 months.

Shareholders at the company's annual meeting were told the lots are in areas running from Campbell River to Cobble Hill and will be sold for resort, retirement and residential building sites.

St. Ann's Land Bombshell

Sisters Say No Sale

By PAT MURPHY

The Sisters of St. Ann announced Thursday they will not sell the 7.1 acres of land adjacent to St. Joseph's Hospital to the South Vancouver Island Hospital Society or anyone else.

It was not immediately clear what effect the decision will have on the expansion of St. Joseph's hospital, proposed on the land in question.

In letters to the society, the capital region hospital board and Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, the sisters gave notice of their intent and the reasons behind their action.

About a year ago, she said at a press conference, "knowledgeable people in the field of hospital planning and development" told the sisters the land across Humboldt Street and south of the hospital — land upon which St. Ann's Academy stands — was absolutely necessary if St. Joseph's was to develop and expand as it should.

The sisters, who had already agreed to make a gift of St. Joseph's Hospital, in which they had an equity of about $3 million, to the community, were reluctant to dispose of the property as it would mean giving up the teaching academy and uprooting sisters who had spent their lives living and working there.

It would mean the order would be giving up its two main interests — teaching and healing — and this would necessitate careful planning about the future of the order.

However, assured as they were that the land was necessary to the growth of the hospital and wanting to provide the best hospital facilities for the community, the sisters agreed to sell the academy property to the South Vancouver Island Hospital Society at a price established by independent professional appraisers.

The price was set at $1,567,000.

Now, a year later, said Sister Moroney Thursday, the opinion was being expressed by other "knowledgeable people" that the academy property was not necessary for the continued expansion and operation of St. Joseph's. Accordingly, the order was taking the property off the market.

There were two reasons for the action, Sister Moroney said.

There had been no action in the year since the property was first made available to the hospital society, an organization set up for the specific purpose of handling the affairs of St. Joseph's and dealing with the Capital Region Board and B.C. government.

Also, pressure was being brought by many of the parents of the 350-student academy who wanted to know just what the future held.

The provincial superior added, however, the decision was not irrevocable — at least not so far as the whole seven-acre property was concerned.

"We're not closing the door completely," Sister Moroney said. "If it can be shown to us that the development and expansion of St. Joseph's really does require part of the academy land then we would be willing to reopen the matter. We could probably continue to operate the academy on a somewhat smaller area. However, I doubt if we would ever again be willing to consider disposal of the whole seven acres."

The situation at present is that the sisters are willing to give the hospital proper to the Lower Vancouver Island Hospital Society and to sell the Annex, a separate building on the east side of the hospital across Robert Street. The academy property they will retain.

The fate of St. Joseph's has been a matter of controversy since the hospital construction program was first delineated in the Agnew, Peckham report which came out in the spring of 1968.

Questions such as whether the hospital should be enlarged and renovated on its present site or whether it should be moved to better serve the growing community, have been endlessly discussed.

About a year ago the Lower Vancouver Island Hospital Society was formed with the intention of renovating the present premises and building an extended-care unit across the road on the academy grounds. It was also indicated that at some time in the future, it might be feasible to extend acute-care facilities to the newly-acquired site.

At this point representations were made to the sisters to sell the land.

At that time, the acquisition of the academy land was tied in with the gift of the present hospital to the society and thence to the community.

On Thursday, however, Sister Moroney made it clear that these two moves were now completely separate. The gift of the hospital to the community was one thing and the disposition of the academy land something else again.

* * *

James Cumming, mayor of North Saanich and deputy chairman of the region's hospital board:

"I think it's a very interesting decision but it's too involved for any free-hand comment. After all, we just received the letter from the sisters at noon today."

In mid-October, Loffmark announced the Sisters of St. Ann had agreed to sell the property under discussion to the provincial government.

He later told the Capital Regional Board the government would pay 60 per cent of the acquisition cost and the region 40 per cent, without referendum.

Board members were reluctant to agree to the added expenditure without a public vote, but Loffmark told them if the question went to a vote, it would have to be for the full amount without government sharing.

Accepts $30,000

City Drops Will Suit

Ford

The city of Victoria has decided to withdraw from litigation involving its share of the contested $1.1 million will of the late Allan Douglas Ford and has accepted an out-of-court settlement offer of $30,000.

The decision to settle out of court was made Thursday by Victoria city council. The offer had been made by John Douglas Ford, of Melbourne, Australia, son of the eccentric Victoria millionaire who died in 1968 at the age of 94, leaving most of his estate to local charity organizations.

earlier ruling by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton of B.C. Supreme Court who upheld Ford's 1958 will leaving most of his estate to charity organizations.

According to that will, the city of Victoria was to get Ford's home and contents at 1210 Terrace, the value of which has been estimated at $50,000.

His son, John, was to receive $50,000 while the rest was to go to Victoria area charities.

That will was preceded by another will dated June 8, 1933, according to which the younger Ford was to receive most of the estate.

Mayor Courtney Haddock told council this was the first time he had seen aldermen in a position of gambling for the city.

Ald. Savage said the city might jeopardize the chances of the charity organizations obtaining a favorable Supreme Court ruling, but O'Grady said this would not be the case.

"It might weaken their morale, but it won't have any influence on the court's ruling whether we accept the settlement or not," he said.

Asked what he would recommend, O'Grady told council he would "reluctantly urge council to accept the offer."

Sandringham Hospital Dispute

Grape Boycott Tactics Adapted for Strike

Labor's fight on behalf of the women strikers from Sandringham Private Hospital is about to take on the form of the famous California grape boycott.

This was the type of operation that was worked throughout North America on behalf of the grape workers of California, who recently won first contracts after a five-year battle.

* * *

The B.C. Federation of Labor has likened the plight of the 28 private hospital workers in Victoria to that of the grape workers in one respect.

Federation secretary Ray Haynes said both cases involved "a fight for social justice."

The Sandringham workers, mostly nursing aides, went on strike Sept. 30 after a futile attempt to gain a first contract. They had recently formed the Private Hospital and General Service Workers Union.

* * *

Most were earning the minimum wage of $1.50 an hour. The main objective is job security. The union has contracts with three other private hospitals in Victoria.

Last week the federation donated $1,000 to the strikers and planned a campaign on their behalf. One staff man is to be sent to Victoria from the federation's Vancouver office to organize an advertising program.

Meanwhile, the leaflets that are expected to fall into the hands of the public this week-end, have been turned out by officers of the Victoria Labor Council and the Vancouver Island Building Trades Council.

* * *

In the leaflet, the public is told that Sandringham belongs to National Nursing Homes Ltd., and that the president of this company, Neil Cook of Vancouver, wants to build a $4 million retirement centre in Oak Bay that he has described as a "residence for gracious living."

On Tuesday, organized labor decided to write Oak Bay Mayor Mrs. Frances Elford asking that the municipality not do business with National Nursing Homes Ltd.

Dangerous Driver Sentenced

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo woman was given a one-year suspended sentence Monday in Nanaimo Supreme Court for dangerous driving.

Terese Marcoux, 22, of 340 Eberts Street, was also prohibited from driving for one year. The charge on which she was convicted was reduced from criminal negligence.

Miss Marcoux was the driver of a car involved in a July 1 head-on collision in which 19-year-old Archibald Simpson was killed. Simpson was the driver of the other car.

Also receiving a one-year driving prohibition were Robert Bruce Noble, 21, and John Easton Genge, 20, of Courtenay.

They were convicted of dangerous driving, reduced from criminal negligence when Randall Murray Balmer of Courtenay a passenger in one of their cars, was killed in a drag racing accident Feb. 21 on Cumberland Road.

The two were also sentenced to one month in jail and given a $500 fine with six months to pay. Failure to pay would result in an additional two months in jail.

◆

A Nanaimo man was sentenced to one month in jail in Provincial Court Thursday after pleading guilty to his second charge of impaired driving within the year.

Harold Jorgensen, 55, of 590 Larch Street, told Judge Eric Winch he is an air force veteran and had been participating in an observance of Remembrance Day.

Top Herd Wins Inspector's Praise

DUNCAN — The top performing dairy herd of G. A. Van Jaarsveld was mentioned twice in the October report of Jack Woof, inspector of the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Van Jaarsveld's four-year-old Holstein, Trudy, earned him a feed prize with a total of 18,818 pounds of milk and 850 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. The farmer also had the highest herd average of 1,618 pounds of milk and 74 pounds of butterfat based on a 30-day test.

In the two-year-old category the Holstein cow, Blacky, owned by J. H. Wikkerink, was top producer with 15,428 pounds of milk and 544 pounds of butterfat. Wikkerink also was presented with a feed prize.

Woof stated in his report "there were 55 completed lactations consisting of 37 Holsteins, two Guernseys, two crossbreeds and one Jersey. There were 11 mature cows with more than 700 pounds of butterfat, 27 with more than 600 pounds of butterfat out of 39, and all 13 two-year-olds qualified with more than 400 pounds of butterfat."

Control Centre Urged for Centennial Grant

Opt for Environment

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

● Hospital fee plan shot down. Page 21

VANCOUVER — The bulk of the federal centennial grant to British Columbia should be spent on establishment of an environmental control centre, says Resources Minister Ray Williston.

"I'm saying this bluntly," Williston told delegates attending the provincial Social Credit convention in the Bayshore Inn. "We need a form of environmental control more than anything else. This is my plea. There is no better way of marching into our second 100 years in confederation than by having the provincial and federal governments combine forces to establish an environmental control centre."

He said the entire $10 million federal centennial grant wouldn't do all that is required, but a substantial portion would provide the necessary physical structure which he suggested should be located on the university endowment lands at Point Grey adjoining the University of British Columbia campus.

Williston later told reporters the proposed centre would carry out intensive monitoring and testing of all aspects of the environment. He said polluters would pay for soil, water and air tests thus recouping a substantial

Murder Charged

Three Held In Death Of Cabbie

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Two members of Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt, aged 20 and 18, and an unemployed 19-year-old Victoria youth will appear this morning in Victoria Provincial Court to face a charge of non-capital murder in the death last Tuesday of taxi driver Gerald Mulholland.

Victoria police announced the charge Friday afternoon.

In making the announcement, police said the two CFB men apparently were not acquainted with Mulholland, 37, of 917 Bewdley, a father of seven children who was a CFB Esquimalt seaman and occasionally drove in the evenings for Owl Taxi Ltd.

* * *

Insp. William Andrews, head of the police detective division, said the motive "definitely was robbery."

Andrews called the arrests the result of teamwork by police department members that beats anything he has seen during his more than 29 years on the force.

An autopsy Wednesday disclosed Mulholland bled to death from a single wound by a sharp instrument which severed an artery in the back of his neck.

* * *

The two women called police at 7:47 p.m. Tuesday. Before that, Mulholland was last seen at about 7 p.m. at the front entrance of the Churchill Hotel, 1140 Government.

Andrews said the arrests followed "a round-the-clock investigation by members of the detective, patrol and traffic divisions."

He said: "In my 29 and a half years in the department, I don't think I've ever seen an investigation worked on so hard by so many members with so much esprit de corps in the whole force."

Police added they were "supported in their initial investigation by the wholehearted co-operation of CFB Esquimalt base security, RCMP and other police departments."

Coup Topples Syria Leader

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Defence Minister Hafez al-Assad, fervid Arab nationalist who calls for all-out war with Israel, staged a military coup in Syria late Friday, a spokesman for the ousted leadership said.

●

Assad, 40-year-old air marshal, overthrew the Marxist leadership of the governing Baath party and arrested President Noureddin Atassi and Maj.-Gen. Salah Jadid, the party's assistant secretary-general, the spokesman told a news conference. He said the coup took place a day after an emergency Baath congress adopted a resolution firing Assad.

* * *

Leftist Premier Dr. Youssef Zayyen also was arrested, the spokesman said, and Assad seized control of the state radio and television and two government newspapers.

Assad, a moderate in the socialist Baath party, has blamed Jadid's Marxists for Syria's crushing defeat by Israel in the 1967 war. He also accused Jadid of pursuing Marxist policies at the expense of the economy and security of this nation of six million people.

* * *

Reliable sources said agents of Syria's air force intelligence service rounded up Assad's opponents and set up a guard at key military and government buildings.

They said there was no outward sign of tension in Damascus, capital of Syria. Assad made his move after a month-long government crisis that grew from the power struggle between Assad's military wing of the Baath party and Jadid's leftists.

Bennett:

No Easy Solution To Ills

Colonist Legislature Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett called on his party Friday not to press the government too hard for what he called "patent medicine solutions" to the economic ills besetting British Columbia.

He again indicated some tax changes might be in store in 1971 when he said at the next session the government will introduce some measures which will be "temporarily unpopular."

Bennett said in his keynote address to the annual Social Credit convention, which winds up tonight at the Bayshore Inn, that the government's responsibility is to ensure the well being of B.C.s people "not only in the short term but in the long term as well."

* * *

The premier's comment on patent medicine solutions apparently referred to a resolution scheduled for later convention debate which calls for abolition of all strikes and lockouts in the province.

"There must be checks and balances," Bennett said, "and countries that have tried to find simple answers to complex problems have found that in the end they have created more problems.

"Instead of legal strikes, they find they must deal with union members without leaders, and that makes for anarchism and chaos."

He said Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, who has been kept busy this year settling several major labor disputes, is the "best minister of labor this province or this country ever had."

* * *

Then in an apparent rebuke to over-zealous party members seeking tougher laws in the labor management field, Bennett added: "Good troops in the trenches sometimes have to learn the lesson that they should keep their heads down a bit, because if they raise it up it will be shot to bits forthwith."

Bennett said this year has been the most difficult for the B.C. economy since Social Credit came to power in 1952. He blamed the federal government for deliberately setting out to curb inflation by creating unemployment and said the Liberals should be

Guerrilla Bank Job Nets $6.5 Million

MONTEVIDEO (AP)—Eight Tupamaro guerrillas — four men and four women — forced their way into Uruguay's biggest bank Friday and escaped with $6 million worth of jewels and $48,000 in cash, police said.

The early-morning robbery took two hours. Police were not aware of it until one of the bank employees managed to free himself.

Dec. 7 Notice Served

Strike Deadline Confronts Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers served a Dec. 7 strike deadline notice Friday on Ford Motor Co. as its General Motors members began voting on a new three-year contract.

A 2,000-member local union at a stamping plant at West Mifflin, Pa., was the first to vote on the new GM contract and reported overwhelming approval. Some other locals scheduled weekend voting.

* * *

UAW Vice-President Ken Bannon called for a resumption of negotiations at Ford for Nov. 23 and said if there was no settlement by Dec. 7 there would be a strike against that car-maker, hit by a seven-week walkout in 1967.

The UAW called its Chrysler Corp. negotiators back for Nov. 23, but did not set a strike deadline.

* * *

Ford and Chrysler were given strike immunity while the UAW went on strike at GM in a continuing eight-week walkout to win a pattern-setting agreement for the industry. The GM pact lifts the average wage above the $5-an-hour level.

It is estimated that at the end of the third year, the pay of car production workers will be between $12,000 and $13,000 a year.

FLQ Hunt Report:

Police Beaten By Cubbyhole

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says that a cubbyhole in a walk-in clothes closet at the apartment where police arrested Bernard Lortie last week may have enabled three Front de Liberation du Quebec kidnappers to elude capture.

The claim was made Friday by a high-ranking police official, the Gazette says.

"All four of those wanted for the kidnapping and killing of labor minister Pierre Laporte were in the apartment," the officer said.

* * *

When police opened the door of the Queen Mary Road apartment they came face-to-face with Lortie, the 19-year-old student who was the key witness at the opening of the coroner's inquest into Laporte's death last Saturday.

Lortie was taken to police headquarters along with a young girl found in the apartment with him, the newspaper says.

Police made a room-by-room check of the apartment, placed a guard at the front door, then "went to eat, returning later with members of the identification section," the officer said.

* * *

The hideaway was located shortly afterwards and the fingerprints of all four suspects were found.

The other prints were those of brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Francis Simard, all named in warrants as persons

Trudeau Away

OTTAWA (UPI) — With no advance notice, Prime Minister Trudeau left the capital early Friday for what aides described as a weekend of rest at an undisclosed place. Spokesmen immediately quashed speculation Trudeau had gone to New York City for a date or to visit the Canadian delegation at the United Nations.

LeVander

Kidnap-Hijack Plot Foiled

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Police said they broke up Friday an apparent plot by revolutionaries to kidnap Minnesota Gov. Harold Le Vander, hijack an airliner and force the release of Angela Davis and other prisoners held in United States jails.

* * *

Police said details of the apparent plot were found in notes in the pockets of a man they arrested at 3:50 a.m. for attempted bank robbery.

They arrested Ronald L. Reed, 20, on warrants from Omaha, Neb., charging him with attempted robbery, and attempted murder. He also was reported wanted in St. Paul for bank robbery.

The plan included the possible kidnapping of the governor and also Rosalie Butler, St. Paul city commissioner, the police said.

Police armed with shotguns guarded Mrs. Butler's home late Thursday and early Friday, preceding the Minneapolis arrest. Armed police also guarded the governor's mansion, next door to the Butler home, on fashionable Summit Avenue in St. Paul.

* * *

Deputy Police Chief Joseph Rusinko said the notes related how the man arrested and unknown accomplices were to have obtained reservations on a United Air Lines plane and, after boarding, would have demanded release of the prisoners. One plan would have been to kidnap the governor or some other public official to ensure boarding the plane.

The plan, police said, was to demand the release from Twin Cities jails of Constance L. Trimble, held in the shooting death of a St. Paul policeman, Gary Hogan, 15, awaiting trial in the bombing of Dayton's department store in St. Paul, and a man wanted in Omaha.

Police said the demand would have been to put the prisoners on board the plane within three hours, with the plane then moving on to free other "political prisoners."

Racers Need Bundle

By JIM BRAHAN

Pilots who want to enter the London-to-Victoria air race next July should have at least $5,000 in the bank to cover expenses, race official Harry Traynor told the Colonist Friday.

He said that he expected only about two out of every five entries will actually start the race, but he added that he believed there would be about 100 planes competing.

Traynor said official entry forms will be available next week, and the following week rules and regulations will be available.

"All the paper needed will be in the pilot's hands by the end of November."

* * *

The air race, jointly announced by the provincial and federal governments last month, will be one of the main events to mark the B.C. centennial.

The overall race winner will get a purse of $50,000. Second and third place winners will get $20,000 and $10,000 respectively. There will also be other prizes of $10,000 and $5,000.

Traynor said he noticed a number of Air Canada fleet pilots have made inquiries about the race. If they enter they will be flying their private planes.

* * *

He said the finish line for the race will be a line starting from the mile zero marker at the foot of Douglas Street.

"Along Dallas Road will be the grandstand seats for people wanting to see the planes cross the line about 6:35 p.m. July 7."

He said that he expected well-known English woman flyer Sheila Scott to be one of the participants.

She flew in the England to Australia race in 1969 and has also flown around the world."

* * *

He also hinted that some member of the royal family will be associated with the race, but said it would definitely not be the Queen or Prince Philip.

Traynor said that the Canadian rules and regulations for flying across the Atlantic are the "stiffest" in the world.

"These will be the rules we'll be working under during the race," he said.

He also emphasized that no current rules of the air will be waived for any pilot in the race.

He explained that this as an additional safety factor.

* * *

He said that he had learned the Royal Air Force is "toying" with the idea of sending its famous Red Arrow aerobatic squadron to Victoria as one of the highlights at the end of the race.

He suggested that the squadron of supersonic fighter planes may put on a display over the city July 10.

Traynor said that at an air attaches' meeting Tuesday in Ottawa about 15 countries were represented, and the Soviet attache showed the most interest in the forthcoming race.

Benson Here

Edgar Benson, federal minister of finance, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce at 11:30 a.m Monday at the Empress Hotel.

Hospital Fees

Socreds Sink Oak Bay Bid

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

Wallace

Oak Bay Socred MLA. Dr. Scott Wallace, was given the water glass treatment at the provincial Social Credit convention in Vancouver Friday night when he tried to convince delegates to the party's annual covention that $1 a day hospital charges should be increased to $3.

Wallace said the government had "gone overboard" in providing $50-a-day care in acute hospitals for a direct cost of only $1 a day to the patient. Meanwhile, he argued, many people are being ruined financially paying for nursing home care without any help from the government, "and we don't give a damn."

Turning to the delegates who were banging on their water glasses, Wallace said: "I'm sorry if you can't stand the truth and want me to shut up." The convention defeated the resolution calling for an increase in co-insurance rates with special exemptions for the needy, by a handy margin after Health Minister Loffmark said there was no practical way it could be achieved at the moment.

Loffmark told delegates among technical difficulties arising from the proposal is the fact that unless all provinces agreed to a similar hike in daily rates, B.C. taxpayers would be required to meet an additional heavy cost under the existing federal-provincial cost-sharing agreement.

* * *

The convention earlier approved, without debate, another Oak Bay resolution which urged the government to endorse as its long-term aim the principle that all hospital facilities in the province should be operated as non-profit institutions.

Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi was warmly applauded, when he thanked delegates "so much for strengthening my hand" after the convention had approved a number of resolutions urging generally tougher welfare policies.

* * *

Speaking to one advocating work for welfare, Gaglardi described a pilot project in the Fraser Valley in which the three levels of government are sharing the cost of retraining about 25 welfare recipients who will be employed by the municipality in the near future. The minister said he would like to see similar projects elsewhere in the province.

When questioned by reporters later, however, Gaglardi said the government had no thought of introducing a compulsory work-for-welfare program.

Appeal Remains Short of Goal

Volunteer canvassers for the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal are still calling on businesses, professional men, civil servants and Greater Victoria homes and apartments.

But by Friday night the amount collected or pledged amounted to only $482,947 or 68.9 per cent of the 1970 goal of $701,314.

"We're not discouraged," said Commodore Victor Henning, general campaign chairman. "We feel the money is there and that enough people care about the plight of other people who are cared for by our 26 agencies to put us over the top."

There are still hundreds of calls which have not been reported on as yet, Henning said, "and we are hoping that they will make the difference."

Crackdown On Drugs In Services

A Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt spokesman told the Colonist Friday, that as a result of a crackdown on the use of hard and soft drugs by servicemen, two CFB men have been placed on charge.

The spokesman said he believed the crackdown was Canada-wide, involving all forces bases.

'Operation Wheel Chair'

Greater Victoria's handicapped are going to have a Christmas-shopping night all to themselves at Woodwards Dec. 2, advertising manager Wilf Dick said Friday.

Dick explained that the store would close at 6 p.m. on that day, and re-open again at 6:30 just for the handicapped, including the blind and those confined to wheel chairs.

He said that people wanting to register should telephone the store's nurse and give their name and address.

* * *

"We call it Operation Wheel Chair," Dick said, and added that it was arranged because of the difficulty handicapped people have with shopping during the normal Christmas rush.

"This special opening will give them a chance to browse around and take their time with their shopping."

He said that Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock will be at the special opening.

St. John Ambulance personnel will be in attendance.

Dick said the store will provide free coffee and donuts for the shoppers.

He also noted that so far 300 handicapped have registered.

Haddock Blasts Fisheries Chief

Federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis has "engaged himself in a childish political ploy," Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock said Friday.

The mayor said in an interview he was "damned mad" about a letter sent to him by the minister in connection with the Greater Victoria Water Board's recent decision to release 100 million gallons of water into Goldstream River, enabling salmon to reach their spawning grounds.

The letter, dated Nov. 4, stated that a "minimum flow of water must take priority over other uses." This, the letter said, was outlined in the Fisheries Act. Section 120, part 10, it said, compelled owners of dams and persons altering natural flow of streams to provide sufficient water for fish.

"I'm only the mayor of a small city and it's not up to me to tackle a political giant like Davis, but I'm not going to be pushed around by him or anyone else," the mayor said.

"I suppose he's trying now to look like the Great White Father; he's found out that something was done to help the fish in a hurry, and he's trying to get in on the act," he said.

"I'm very disappointed that a man of Davis' stature would resort to such cheap political means to get attention."

* * *

Action to save the salmon he said, was taken without help or threats from Davis. Future situations regarding salmon in Goldstream River would be considered on their merits alone, and not under pressure from the minister, Haddock said.

Meanwhile, more than 3,000 salmon have reached their spawning grounds in the upper part of the creek, the mayor said.

* * *

"The policy of releasing water at regular intervals works very well and we have also been able to hold our own as far as water shortage goes," Haddock said.

Rainfall over the past few days, the mayor said, had resulted in an additional 4½ inches of water in the Goldstream water sheds, an amount about equal to what has been released so far.

* * *

A total of 100 million gallons were to be released over a 10-day period starting last Saturday. More than half has already been released.

Wildlife officials have asked people watching the salmon, not to wade through the stream. This would destroy the spawn, defeating the whole purpose of helping the salmon to reach their spawning grounds, they said.

St. Ann's Sale

Let It Rest —Loffmark

Admitting he was disappointed about the decision of the Sisters of St. Ann to refuse sale of their seven-acre property adjacent to St. Joseph's Hospital, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark Friday advised "patience and understanding."

Loffmark, attending a Social Credit convention in Vancouver, said he left Victoria believing there had been a verbal agreement to the sale and negotiations were proceeding briskly between the sisters and the regional hospital board.

He realized the stakes were high, Loffmark said, and that acquisition of the property as a site for a possible extension of St. Joseph's Hospital was a matter which involved a difficult decision.

* * *

From the standpoints of the public, the regional hospital board and the Sisters of St. Ann, it was an emotionally charged issue, the minister added.

He urged that no immediate action or irrevocable decision be made.

It would harm no one and prejudice the issue in no way if the matter rested for a few days — if there was a cooling-off period, Loffmark said.

He added that he did not want to stress this aspect of the problem, but if it was not possible to reach an agreement about the sale of the property, then his department would have to look for "other alternatives."

* * *

He really didn't expect this stage to be reached, Loffmark said, and was confident that it would be possible to reach an agreement satisfactory to the sisters and the regional hospital board.

The minister said that he understood the basis of agreement at the present time to be:

- ● Acquisition of the property by the regional hospital board.
- ● Financing by increasing the regional hospital bylaw fund by $1.5 million needed to buy the property.

He added that he had instructed officials of his department to give the regional hospital board assistance in working out the technical details.

* * *

The Sisters of St. Ann announced in a press conference Thursday that they had decided not to sell the land south of the hospital — land upon which St. Ann's Academy is located.

They said that they had been told a year ago by "knowledgeable people" that the land was absolutely necessary for the expansion of St. Joseph's. A year later they were told by "knowledgeable people" that it was not necessary for the growth and expansion of the hospital. Accordingly, they were taking it off the market.

The sisters intimated that they were tired of the delay in the matter and that pressure was being brought to bear on them by parents of students in St. Ann's Academy who wanted to know what the future held.

Dr. Alex Wood, president of the South Vancouver Island Hospital Society, an organization formed a year ago to act as an intermediary among St. Joseph's and the sisters, the regional hospital board and the provincial government, said he did not blame the religious order for its action.

He said there had been endless bickering, intrigue and delay, and the public didn't know the whole story about what had happened.

Decision of the sisters was just another phase in a long, tenuous negotiation. This time last year, Wood said, the society hoped that an extended care unit would have been planned and built by this time. Instead things were right back to where they were.

Chairman of the regional board Mayor Hugh Curtis, deputy chairman, North Saanich Mayor J. B. Cumming and regional hospital board officials have claimed throughout negotiations and discussions that they have never been given the opportunity to deal directly with the sisters. Such contact, they claimed, would have facilitated and speeded matters.

Instead, they said, they always had to operate through the hospital society.

This contention was borne out by a letter which the Colonist learned of on Friday. The letter from a law firm representing the sisters, to a law firm representing the hospital society was dated Nov. 10 and said in part:

"Please accept this letter as notice that our clients, the Sisters of St. Ann, as of this date no longer consider themselves bound by the terms of the said tentative agreement."

The agreement in question was one which designated the society as the agent between the sisters, the hospital and the regional board.

Wood said Friday that such a letter had been received but added that Loffmark had been dealing with the sisters earlier as a representative of his own department and of the regional hospital board.

Unemployment Due to Greed, Builder Says

Greed was blamed Friday for the high unemployment in the construction industry in the Greater Victoria area.

"We have the highest priced unemployed in the country," masonry contractor Sandy Ormiston told the Colonist.

He said problems in the construction industry can be strictly attributed to the high cost of labor.

"With the cost of labor being $7.47 an hour, including fringes, and the average person earning about $3.50 or less an hour, who can afford it?"

He said the contractors can no longer sell their product and neither can the trade unions.

"About the only people that can buy now is the governments and they can't really afford it."

He said that the taxpayers can no longer afford to pay more taxes to build more schools and other government projects.

"Now has come the reckoning, it is because of their own greed that (construction workers) are unemployed."

He said that his own crews "are mainly unemployed" and explained he only has two men working now and he'll add another two to the list next week.

"But only for a short time," he said.

"Society just can't afford them," he said.

He said that he was actually only a broker.

"I buy material and labor and sell it where and when I can."

He said that even if the government started a big works program to get construction workers back to work it would be of little value.

"Once they got their bellies full and their current contract ran out they would go after higher wages again," he said.

Ormiston explained that new construction in this area has just about dried up.

He noted that there is a small job at Rocky Point that is opened for bids.

"It's only a $70,000 job and so far 17 general contractors have made bids on it — and the bidding doesn't close until Thursday."
